Pragmatism without Foundations

Reconciling Realism and Relativism

JOSEPH MARGOLIS

Addressing the central question of how traditionalist claims to truth stand up in the light of recent pragmatist and relativist assumptions, Joseph Margolis's elegant and controversial analysis sets out to defend a novel version of relativism against the usual charges that it must be incoherent or self-defeating.

The Languages of Logic

S. D. GUTTENPLAN

'[This book] brings out clearly and succinctly the relation of formal logic to natural languages and provides the necessary grounding for topics treated in the philosophy of logic and language. Issues about reference, names and descriptions arise naturally from the treatment of predicate logic. Many textbooks fail in this respect—it will fill a real gap.'

Well Being

Its Meaning, Measurement, and Importance

Jasper Griffin

The author deals with several closely related ideas—'well-being', 'welfare', 'utility', and 'quality of life'—at the centre of morality, politics, law, and economics.

Incompleteness, Nonlocality, and Realism

A Prolegomenon to the Philosophy of Quantum Mechanics

Michael Redhead

This book aims to unravel some of the mystery in quantum mechanics. In particular, it is concerned with questions about action-at-a-distance, holism, and whether quantum mechanics gives a complete account of microphysical reality.

Existential Epistemology

A Heideggerian Critique of the Cartesian Project

John Richardson

This study introduces the 'existential phenomenology' of Martin Heidegger. Professor Richardson shows how Heidegger's ideas bear on the central problem in epistemology, that of how we can have objective knowledge.

£22.50

Freedom and Belief

Galen Strawson

The author argues that there is a fundamental sense in which there is no such thing as free will or true moral responsibility (as this is ordinarily understood). This conclusion is very hard to accept—we believe firmly that we have both. Strawson examines the 'cognitive phenomenology' of freedom to explain why this is so.

Experience and its Modes

MICHAEL OAKSHOTT

This classic work, first published in 1933, is being brought out in paperback in recognition of its enduring status.

'... the whole book shows Mr Oakshott to possess philosophical gifts of a very high order, coupled with an admirable command of language; his writing is as clear as his thought is profound, and all students of philosophy should be grateful to him for his brilliant contribution to philosophical literature.'

Expression and Meaning

Studies in the Theory of Speech Acts

JOHN R. SEARLE

'The essays are written with typical Searlean vigour, clarity, and originality. The result is a volume that deserves more than a mealy-mouthed speech act issuance of the "You ought to read it" sort, which could be countered without inconsistency with "But don't bother if you are busy". Instead, I issue a straight directive: "Read it!"'

Hard Choices

Decision Making Under Unresolved Conflict

ISAAC LEVI

In this book Isaac Levi denies the prevailing accounts of rational decision making, arguing against the assumption that when faced with competing values the decision maker will reach a single ranking of his values, resolving the conflict between them. Levi suggests instead that agents often choose without having balanced the competing values and that rationality does not require that an act be optimal, only that it be 'admissible'.

The Fragility of Goodness

Luck and Ethics in Greek Tragedy and Philosophy

MARTHA C. NUSSBAUM

A study of ancient Greek views about 'moral luck'. In a close analysis of three tragedies, and works by Plato and Aristotle, the author examines the interrelation of philosophical and literary texts. In this way, the book recovers a central dimension of Greek thought and addresses major issues in contemporary ethical theory.

Australian Realism

The Systematic Philosophy of John Anderson

A. J. BAKER

This book outlines the realist and pluralist philosophy of Australia's most original thinker. Exhibiting the range of John Anderson's thought from logic, epistemology and theory of mind to language and social theory, this volume sketches realism as a systematic philosophical position, while showing something of the history of ideas in Australia.

Information for Authors

Prospective authors should send their contributions, typed and double-spaced on quarto or A4 paper, to the Editor, Mr Renford Bambrough, Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0AG. They should retain a second copy for the purpose of checking proofs. Articles submitted should conform to Hart's Rules for Compositors and Readers (Oxford University Press, 1967). The Editor may alter manuscripts wherever necessary to make them conform to the stylistic and bibliographical conventions of the journal. Single quotation marks should be used except where there is a quotation within another. The titles of books and journals should be underlined (i.e. to be printed in italics), as should foreign words. Titles of articles should be in single quotation marks.

Notes and references will be printed as footnotes and should be typed (double-spacing) on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively. They should be referred to in the text by superscripts. Citations should be as follows:

¹H. B. Acton, The Philosophy of Punishment (London: Macmillan, 1969), 192–198.

²R. S. Downie and Elizabeth Telfer, 'Autonomy', Philosophy 46, No. 178 (October 1971), 295.

³Op. cit. note 1, 101–112.

⁴W. C. Wimsatt, 'Some Problems with the Concept of Feedback', Boston Studies in the Philosophy of Science, VIII, R. C. Buck and R. S. Cohen (eds.) (Dordrecht: D. Reidel, 1971), 242.

The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless they are accompanied by stamps, or in the case of contributions from abroad, by international coupons, to cover postage. A self-addressed envelope should also be enclosed.

Only corrections of printer's errors can be allowed in proofs. Authors are therefore asked to send any alterations or additions to Mr Bambrough as soon as possible after receiving his letter of acceptance.

Authors of articles, discussion papers and review articles will receive twenty-five offprints free of charge. Additional offprints can be ordered when proofs are returned by arrangement with the Institute.

Books for review should be sent to the Editor at the Institute and not to Cambridge University Press. Publishers are asked to note that non-philosophical works are not reviewed in Philosophy.

Authors' corrected proofs should be sent to Mr Bambrough at St John's College, Cambridge. All other correspondence should be addressed to the Institute and not to any address in Cambridge.
