

Senator Fred Harris, candidate for U. S. Senate, 1964, spoke to the banquet meeting on Oklahoma state politics and legislation. Other papers dealt with U. N. affairs and local fiscal policies.

The Missouri political science association held its seventh annual meeting on the University of Missouri campus in Columbia on Friday, October 25. The program included panels on "Presidential Prospects, 1964"; "The Missouri Nonpartisan Court Plan"; and "The St. Louis Borough Plan Election."

The program of the Mo-Kan Conference on public administration, held on Saturday, October 26, in Columbia, included panels on: "Implications of Emerging Regional Agencies" (Metro St. Louis Chapter); "Comparative International Administration" (Kaw Valley Chapter); and "Interpersonal Aspects of Communications" (Kansas City Chapter).

At a joint banquet marking the end of the Missouri political science association meeting and the opening of the Mo-Kan Conference on public administration, Professor York Willbern of Indiana University delivered the main address.

The Midwest Conference of Political Scientists held its twenty-first annual meeting May 2 to 4 at the University of Chicago. General sessions of the conference were addressed by Kenneth Thompson of the Rockefeller Foundation on "The Study of Change, Goals and Politics," and by president Carl J. Friedrich of the American Political Science Association on the topic, "Constitutionalism Revisited."

Panel sessions featured papers and discussions on the following themes: "The Impact of the Selection Process upon the Role of the Judge,"

"Political Knowledge and Attitudes of German Military and Civilian Personnel," "Prospects for Democracy in Southeast Asia," "The April 1960 Korean Student Movement," "The Problem of Purposes in the Politics of Elijah Jordan," "Political Forms and Socio-Economic Characteristics in the Suburbs," "Economy, Efficiency and Reorganization in Local Government," "Smith Act Prosecutions in the 1950's," "The Changing Cleavage Structure of West German Politics in the 1960's," "The French National Assembly and European Integration," "The Cold War: Status and Prospects," "Theories of Conflict," "The Role of the House Rules Committee," "Policy Coordination: the Problem of Congress," "Soviet Views of the Development Problem," "The Western World and the Study of the non-Western World," "The United States and the Uncommon Market," "Population Trends and the Tasks of Public Administration," "The Recruitment of Federal Political Executives," and "Party Organizations in Five Midwestern Republican States." A special panel featured papers on teaching methods in political science, and many of those attending toured the facilities of "1313."

President E. Allen Helms chaired the business meeting of the Conference, which elected the following new officers: William O. Farber, University of South Dakota, president; Arthur W. Bromage, University of Michigan, vice-president; and as members of the executive council, J. Gus Liebenow, Indiana University; James A. Robinson, Northwestern University; and Richard W. Taylor, Coe College.

The 1964 meeting of the Conference will be held at the University of Wisconsin on April 30 to May 2. The program chairman is James A. Robinson, Northwestern University.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

The University of Arizona announces the creation of an institute of government research. The institute, associated with the department of government's political science faculty in the University's college of liberal arts, will assume governmental research activities, formerly prosecuted by the University's bureau of business and public research. The institute will serve to support faculty and graduate student research program activities, and will permit an expanded political science research program at the University of Arizona. Currin V. Shields, head of the department of government, serves as acting director.

The headquarters of the Inter-university Case Program has been transferred from New York City to the campus of the Maxwell graduate school, Syracuse University. Under a five-year arrangement, Syracuse will contribute to the ICP the expenses of operating the ICP central office and an annual sum for expansion of the case program's work in the development of cases in the comparative government field. The Syracuse contributions will enable the ICP to continue to operate as an independent, non-profit corporation under a 21 member inter-university board of trustees. A grant from the Ford Foundation will help insure continuity in the ICP's publication program during the early years of the new arrangement.

To assure its continued independent, inter-university character, the case program has been incorporated. Edwin A. Bock, president of the corporation, joins the faculty of the Maxwell school as professor of political science. Harvey C. Mansfield and Wallace S. Sayre serve as chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the new Board of Trustees. The other members of the Board are: Alan K. Campbell, Frederic N. Cleaveland, Rowland Egger, George Graham, Paul Y. Hammond, Ferrel Heady, Pendleton Herring, Hubert Marshall, Frederick C. Mosher, Don K. Price, Emmette S. Redford, Frank Sherwood, Herman N. Somers, Harold Stein, David B. Truman, Dwight Waldo, York Willbern.

The new address of the ICP central office on the Syracuse campus is 607 University Avenue, Syracuse, New York 13210.

The Federal District Court for the western district of Oklahoma in Moss v. Burkhart, July 17, 1963, adopted a plan for reapportionment of the state legislature which was presented to the Court in argument by JOSEPH C. PRAY of the department of government and GEORGE MAUER, assistant director of the bureau of government research at the University of Oklahoma, in July of 1962. The decision included a complete district plan for both houses of the legislature, resulting in a nearly equal representation of population.

M. GLENN ABERNATHY, associate professor of political science, University of South Carolina, received the Russell Award for Creative Research, University of South Carolina, for 1963.

CHARLES W. ANDERSON has received the Steiger award for outstanding teaching at the University of Wisconsin.

WILLIAM B. BALLIS, professor of political science and director of the center for Russian studies at the University of Michigan is on research and sabbatical leave from June, 1963 to September, 1964. During his leave, George Kish will serve as acting director.

ERWIN W. BARD, professor of political science at Brooklyn College of the City University of New York, is on leave for the academic year 1963-64 in Lima, Peru, as senior adviser in public administration with the Institute of Public Administration (New York) under an AID contract.

OLIVER BENSON, director of the bureau of government research at the University of Oklahoma, has received a leave of absence to teach a seminar in inter-national politics at the University of Minnesota during the spring quarter, 1964.

JOSEPH E. BLACK, chairman of the government department at Miami University (Ohio) will be on leave for two years to serve as chairman of the government department at the University of Ibadan in Ibadan, Nigeria.

L. FRANKLIN BLITZ, JR., formerly assistant professor, bureau of public administration, University of South Carolina, has been appointed to the University of Pittsburgh Nigerian project.

JOHN BOND, associate professor, North Dakota State University, is on sabbatical leave for 1963-64.

BERNARD C. BORNING, professor and chairman of political science at the University of Idaho, is on leave during 1963-64 on a Fulbright lectureship at Seoul National University and Yonsei University, Korea.

BETTY B. BURCH, associate professor of government at Tufts University, on sabbatical leave during 1963-64, has been appointed a scholar in the Radcliffe institute for independent study.

JOHN W. CHAPMAN, associate professor of political science, University of Pittsburgh is on leave during 1963-64 as visiting professor and adviser to the department of political science at the University of Bombay.

FRANCIS CARNEY is on leave from the University of California, Riverside, to serve as visiting associate professor at UCLA.

WILLIAM A. CASTOR, of Middlebury College, is teaching in Ethiopia in 1963-64 under a Fulbright grant.

ZELMAN COWEN, dean of the law faculty at the University of Melbourne, Australia, is visiting professor of diplomacy at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University. He is also visiting professor at Harvard law school.

DEREK CRABTREE, Exeter University, England, has been appointed visiting lecturer in political science in the University of Oregon, 1963-64.

MICHAEL R. CURTIS, Rutgers University, is on leave during 1963-64 on a grant from the Rutgers Research Council.

DAVID R. DERGE has served as academic coordinator for the Peace Corps unit training at Indiana University to go to Thailand. He was also selected by Sigma Delta Chi for its Brown Derby Award, presented annually to the most popular professor on campus.

JOVAN DJORDJEVIC, dean of the faculty of law, University of Belgrade, is the recipient of a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship.

GUY H. DODGE, professor of political science,

Brown University has received a Fulbright for research in Paris for 1963-64.

WILLIAM Y. ELLIOTT has retired from Harvard, after 38 years of teaching, to go to American University as University professor. A conference on "The Marriage of Political Philosophy and Practice in Public Affairs" was held in honor of his retirement during July. Among the speakers were McGeorge Bundy, John Crowe Ransom and Allen Tate.

HERBERT EMMERICH has been appointed Professor of Political Science at the University of Virginia, with special responsibility for a group of Federal officials in mid-career, nominated by the National Institute of Public Affairs. He completed his work as Senior Consultant in Public Administration at the United Nations, New York, in January of 1963. He is also continuing his duties as President of the International Institute of Administrative Sciences, whose headquarters are in Brussels and his activity on a number of committees in the field of national, international and local administration, and as consultant to the State Department.

LEON D. EPSTEIN, professor at the University of Wisconsin, is on research leave in 1963-64 on grants from the Rockefeller Foundation and the social science research council.

RICHARD FENNO of the University of Rochester has been granted a Rockefeller fellowship for 1963-64.

LEROY C. FERGUSON has received a Fulbright Award for lecturing and research at the University of Florence in 1963-64.

LEWIS A. FROMAN, assistant professor at the University of Wisconsin, is on leave in 1963-64 as a Congressional fellow.

EDWARD B. GLICK has transferred from System Development Corporation (New Jersey) to its Washington division.

ERNST HAAS, professor of political science at the University of California (Berkeley) is on sabbatical leave during the 1963-64 year.

W. ROY HAMILTON, assistant professor, department of political science at Wayne State University, accepted a position as assistant director of the bureau of government research, University of Rhode Island, beginning August, 1963.

JOSEPH P. HARRIS, after 23 years as professor of political science at the University of California (Berkeley), has retired. During 1963-64, he is continuing to serve as chairman of the California legislative internship program.

LOUIS K. HARRIS, professor of political science is returning to the faculty of Kent State University from a one-year's leave of absence as a visiting professor with the University of Tennessee, under an Agency for International Development project at the University of Panama.

LOUIS HENKIN has been named Hamilton Fish professor of international law and diplomacy at Columbia.

HENRY HART, professor at the University of Wisconsin, is on leave in 1963-64 for research in India as a faculty research fellow of the American institute of Indian studies.

WILBUR W. HITCHCOCK, foreign service officer, has been returned from Bangkok, Thailand, to the Department of State, Washington, to chair the foreign service institute's introductory in-service seminar on southeast Asia.

SAMUEL P. HUNTINGTON, professor of government at Harvard University, has resumed his teaching duties after a year's leave of absence.

FREDERICK C. IRION of the University of New Mexico has been elected chairman of the social sciences section of the Southwestern and Rocky Mountain division of the American association for the advancement of science for 1963-64.

J. TERRY IVERSEN, instructor in political science at Drake University during 1962-63, has accepted a fellowship in international relations at the University of Denver, and will resume graduate study there in September.

PAUL KECSKEMETI has returned to full-time duty at RAND after an academic year at the Russian institute at Columbia.

JOHN H. KESSEL has been appointed as faculty Fellow with the Republican National Committee during 1963-64. Mr. Thomas Monger of the University of Oregon, was appointed instructor at the University of Washington and will assume Professor Kessel's course work.

KARL LAMB is on leave from the University of Michigan for 1963-64 to serve as assistant to the chancellor of the University of California at Santa Cruz.

EUGENE LEE, associate professor of political science at the University of California (Berkeley) has been awarded a departmental Rockefeller Foundation overseas grant and will be engaged in teaching and research in Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika, for the year 1963-64.

EVERY LEISERSON has returned as chairman of the department of political science at Vanderbilt University after a year's leave of absence in Washington, D.C., as senior research fellow of the social science research council.

GEORGE LENCZOWSKI, professor of political science at the University of California (Berkeley), has been granted a sabbatical leave for 1963-64.

LESLIE LIPSON has been awarded a Rockefeller Foundation grant. He will be on leave from the department of political science at the University of California (Berkeley) during the 1963-64 year.

JOSEPH C. MCKENNA, S.J., chairman of Fordham's department of political philosophy and government, has been granted leave to serve as secretary of the educational department of the Catholic Secretariat in Nigeria.

ROBERT J. MCNEILL of Purdue University has been awarded the Democratic National Committee faculty fellowship for 1963-64 by the national center for education in politics.

ARTHUR MACMAHON participated in the roundtable of the International Political Science Association on federalism and decentralization held in September at Nuffield College and then returned to Africa to resume teaching in the second term of Makerere University College, Uganda, now part of the University of East Africa. In late November he presented the opening paper at a conference of officials at Nairobi on problems of federation.

GERARD J. MANGONE, professor of political science and executive assistant to the dean of the Maxwell graduate school of Syracuse University, was a member of the United States survey mission to the Trust territory of the Pacific islands during the summer of 1963.

ALPHEUS THOMAS MASON, McCormick professor of jurisprudence, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the June commencement exercises of the Dickinson school of law.

RAYMOND A. MOORE of the department of international studies at the University of South Carolina spent the 1962-63 academic year at the University of Punjab, Lahore, Pakistan, on a Fulbright grant.

NORMAN J. PADELFORD, professor of political science at M.I.T. has been awarded a social science research council faculty research fellowship for the current academic year. A program is being developed to explore the possibilities of using the IBM 7094 computer at the MIT computation center.

ROBERT J. PITCHELL, Indiana University, is on leave as legislative assistant to Senator Birch E. Bayh, Jr.

JOHN N. PLANK will be on a leave of absence from Tufts University (Fletcher school of law and diplomacy) until February 1965 to serve as director of research analysis for American Republics, Department of State.

ROBERT PRESTHUS, editor of Administrative Science Quarterly, has received a social science research council grant for a year of research in England on role conceptions and political values of higher executives.

JAMES W. PROTHRO of the University of North Carolina is on leave for the 1963-64 school year under a grant from the social science research council.

FRED W. RIGGS, Indiana University, will be acting director of the University's international development research center in the absence of John P. Lewis, who has been appointed to the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

JOSEPH A. ROTHSCHILD is on sabbatical leave from Columbia during the academic year 1963-64.

MARSHALL D. SHULMAN is on a leave of absence during the year 1963-64, from the Fletcher school of law and diplomacy, Tufts University. He is spending the year in the Soviet Union, attached to the institute of world politics.

HAROLD J. SPAETH on leave from the University of Detroit will be visiting associate professor of political science at Michigan State University during the 1963-64 year.

VINCENT E. STARZINGER has been granted a Dartmouth College faculty fellowship and a year's leave of absence to do research in constitutional law in England.

FRANK TACHAU of Rutgers University is on leave during 1963-64 on a Fulbright research grant in Turkey. He also has received a supplementary grant from the social science research council.

PETER A. TOMA, associate professor of government, University of Arizona, has received a grant from the social science foundation and will be on research leave for the 1962-63 academic year.

EGBERT S. WENGERT, professor of political science and head of department, will serve also as research associate, institute of international studies and overseas administration, University of Oregon.

ALAN F. WESTIN of Columbia is on research leave for the year 1963-64.

YORK WILLBERN, Indiana University, was recently elected president of the American Society for Public Administration.

T. P. WRIGHT of Bates College has taken a leave of absence for the academic year 1963-1964 to accept a Fulbright research grant to India.

APPOINTMENTS AND STAFF CHANGES

CHARLES R. ADRIAN became chairman of the political science department at Michigan State University beginning with the spring term, 1963.

JOHN J. AGRIA has been appointed instructor in political science at Alma College, Alma, Michigan.

HENRY S. ALBINSKI, assistant professor of political science at the Pennsylvania State University has been appointed a visiting fellow at the research school of Pacific studies in the department of international relations at the Australian National University, Canberra, Australia for 1963-64.

HAYWOOD ALKER has been appointed instructor at Yale University.

ROBERT J. ALPERIN has been promoted to the rank of assistant professor in the department of government and politics at the University of Maryland.

JOHN AMBLER will become acting instructor of political science at the University of California (Berkeley) beginning with the fall semester, 1963.

CURTIS AMLUND, assistant professor at North Dakota State University, has resigned.

WILLIAM G. ANDREWS, assistant professor of government at Tufts University is spending the 1963-64 year in France as a Fulbright research scholar.

JOHN A. ARMSTRONG, professor at the University of Wisconsin, is on leave in 1963-64 for research in Europe on a grant from the American council of learned societies.

ALEXINE L. ATHERTON of the political science department of the University of Pennsylvania has been promoted to assistant professor.

IVAN AVAKUMOVIC has been appointed associate professor of political science at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, Canada.

MORLEY AYEARST, as of September 1, 1963, has received promotion to the rank of full professor of government, and has been appointed chairman of the department of government and international relations in Washington Square College, New York University.

CHESTER W. BAIN, formerly professor and head, department of political science, University of South Carolina, has been appointed professor of political science, Emory University.

FRANK L. BAIRD, formerly of the University of Texas, has accepted appointment as assistant professor of government at Arlington State College, Arlington, Texas.

M. MARGARET BALL, Ralph Emerson professor of political science at Wellesley College, has been appointed dean of the Women's College of Duke University, and joined the department of political science as professor in the Latin American field.

JAMES M. BANOVETZ, who has recently completed his graduate work at Minnesota, has been appointed an assistant professor of political science at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

ARTHUR BANKS and JOHN LUNDE have been appointed lecturers in government at Indiana University.

WILLIAM S. BARNES, director of Latin American studies at Harvard University, has been appointed professor of Latin American affairs, at the Fletcher School of law and diplomacy, Tufts University.

ROBERT J. BATSON of Western Michigan University has been promoted to associate professor.

VACLAV BENES has been promoted to the rank of professor at Indiana University.

SYLVAN M. BERMAN has resigned his position as instructor of social science at Auburn Community College, Auburn, New York, to become instructor of political science at Kent State University.

WALTER F. BERNS has been appointed chairman of the department of government and promoted from associate professor to professor of government at Cornell University.

CONSTANTINOS L. BERO, formerly of the University of California at Berkeley, has been appointed an instructor at Texas Technological College.

JOHN F. BIBBY, formerly at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, has joined the department