African Political Systems

Edited by M. Fortes and E. E. Evans-Pritchard

Field studies carried out by trained investigators in eight widely separated areas of the African continent resulted in this book which describes the types of social organization found among a number of African peoples, and makes a comparative study of African political institutions. Compiled and edited under the auspices of the International African Institute, the book was first published in 1940, and is now reprinted as part of the Oxford Paperbacks series. 5 maps 12/-

The Oxford History of South Africa

VOLUME II, SOUTH AFRICA 1870-1967

Edited by Monica Wilson and Leonard Thompson

This second volume of a two-volume history of South Africa describes the economic growth that has taken place in South Africa during the century that began with the discovery of diamonds in Griqualand West; examines the history of the three great social complexes of modern South Africa; deals with the impact and interaction of the major political forces that have operated in and on South African society during the century, and presents an account of the changing relationships between South Africa and the outside world. 13 text-figures 6 maps £5

The Governmental System in Southern Rhodesia

D. J. Murray

The author analyses the politics and administration of the major sectors of government since the early 1920s, and suggests that the governmental system developed on the basis of competition not between racial but between occupational economic groups. In the light of this analysis there emerges the full significance of recent events starting with the formation of the Rhodesian Front Party and government. 2 text-figures 80/-

On the Frontiers of Islam

Two Manuscripts concerning the Sudan under Turco-Egyptian Rule 1822-45

Richard Hill

The documents translated by Richard Hill present a commentary on some important incidents for which there is no other evidence, not even oral tradition, and on others which are known only by oblique reference in the few surviving records. They are an important source for the author's Egypt in the Sudan, 1820-81 (30/-), an introductory history of the Sudan under Turco-Egyptian rule. 60/-
