

Introducing a major new series:

SIGNPOSTS IN THEOLOGY

Series Advisor: KENNETH SURIN

Students embarking on theology courses are finding, increasingly, that they have to confront complex and crucial issues which transcend strictly theological boundaries. This new series addresses such issues in a fresh and lively way. Each book signposts the positions that different theologians and theological movements have already taken, and provides a comprehensive introduction to the issues concerned.

The first three titles in the series are:

Theology and Religious Pluralism

GAVIN D'COSTA

How does religious pluralism affect Christianity's claim to absoluteness? Gavin D'Costa distinguishes three main types of response to this question—exclusivist, pluralist and inclusivist. He examines the views of representative figures from each of these 'schools' and suggests avenues for further thought. (May) c.192 pages, hardback c.£17.50 (0 631 14517 6)
paperback c.£5.95 (0 631 14518 4)

Theology, Death and Dying

RAY S. ANDERSON

The author places the discussion of death and dying firmly within a theological context, considering the work of Hick, Pannenberg, Thieliicke and Macquarrie, in a book which will be invaluable to all those confronting the problem of death, whether personally, or as students, counsellors or clergy. (June) c.192 pages, hardback c.£17.50 (0 631 14846 9)
paperback c.£5.95 (0 631 14847 7)

Theology and the Problem of Evil

KENNETH SURIN

One of the most profound problems that theologians have to address is the presence of evil and suffering in the world and how this can be reconciled with the assertion of an omnipotent and morally perfect God. Kenneth Surin considers the way in which some major thinkers in different ages have attempted this reconciliation. (August) c.192 pages, hardback c.£17.50 (0 631 14663 6)
paperback c.£5.95 (0 631 14664 4)

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions and books for review should be sent to the Editor, Professor S. R. Sutherland, King's College, Strand, London, WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
8. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
9. All contributions of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviews will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
10. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
