

Notes on Contributors

Brian Grant

Associate Professor in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Calgary. His main areas of interest are epistemology and the philosophy of mind. He has a recent book in the latter area, The Condition of Madness.

Rom Harré

Emeritus Fellow of Linacre College Oxford and Professor of Psychology at Georgetown University, Washington DC. His published work includes studies in the philosophy of the physical sciences, such as Varieties of Realism (1986) and in the philosophy of psychology, such as The Singular Self (1988). His One Thousand Years of Philosophy was published last year.

Joel J. Kupperman

Professor of Philosophy at the University of Connecticut. His most recent books are Learning from Asian Philosophy, Value ... And What Follows, and Classic Asian Philosophy: A Guide to the Essential Texts.

Tony Lynch

Lectures in Philosophy and Politics at the University of New England, Armidale. His research interests are in the areas of moral psychology and liberal politics.

Gordon Graham

Regius Professor of Moral Philosophy at the University of Aberdeen. He has contributed to Philosophy on several occasions. His most recent books include the Internet: a philosophical inquiry (Routledge, 1999) and Evil and Christian Ethics (Cambridge University Press, 2000).

Mark T. Nelson

Senior Lecturer in Philosophy at the University of Leeds. He is the co-editor of Christian Theism and Moral Philosophy and the author of articles on ethics, philosophy of religion, epistemology, and the philosophy of mind.

Nicholas Maxwell

Emeritus Reader in Philosophy of Science at the University of London. Among his publications are From Knowledge to Wisdom (Blackwell, 1984), The Comprehensibility of the Universe (Oxford University Press, 1998), and The Human World in the Physical Universe (Rowman & Littlefield, forthcoming).

Notes on Contributors

Sophie Botros

Fellow in the Department of Philosophy at Birkbeck College, University of London. Her previous publications include 'Precarious Virtue' (Phronesis) and, for this journal, 'Acceptance and Morality' and 'Acts, Omissions and Keeping Patients Alive in a Persistent Vegetative State'. She is presently working on Hume's practicality argument.