Approaches to the History of Spain

JAIME VICENS VIVES

Translated by Joan Connelly Ullman

Preface by José Ferrater Mora

Professor Vicens' synopsis of themes in Spanish history from ancient times to the outbreak of the Civil War in 1936 explores the socio-economic forces that influence political events. He presents an especially full account of ancient and medieval Spain; and the commentaries that follow each chapter express his views on the state of historical research in Spain.

SUMMER COURSES: JUNE 17–AUGUST 16, 1968

INSTITUTE FOR CONTEMPORARY LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES

Course Areas: 1) Social Change in Latin America; 2) Structural Linguistics

CIF LANGUAGE SCHOOL: Spoken Spanish

CIDOC SEMINARS: Personality and Institutional Change

The INSTITUTE offers the university student a new approach to the study of contemporary transformation in Latin America. Each course selects a specific problem, topic or issue vital to a global understanding of Latin America: geo-historical framework; characteristic universe of symbols and concepts; transformation of traditional institutions; urbanization and industrialization.

Professors of INSTITUTE courses are both experienced researchers and active participants in transformation and development of Latin America.

Course Area 1: COMPARATIVE STUDY OF CHANGING INSTITUTIONS IN

LATIN AMERICA—Party, Church, Labor Union, University, School System, Student Organization, Industrial Plant and System. Each course will concentrate on one institution in one country during the last 15 years. Each will be made up of 15 to 30 class hours spread over four to nine weeks.

Course Area 2: STRUCTURAL LINGUISTICS—Two parallel courses of nine weeks' duration for which one may register for the first or second month, or both.

One course will deal with structural linguistics applied to the teaching of Spanish as a second language. The second will study the theory of comparative structural analysis.

CIF LANGUAGE SCHOOL aims to teach Spanish as a second language to reach a functionally native fluency. A maximum of four students to the instructor, supervised laboratory work, and a minimum of 25 class hours per week (and more if the student wishes) make this an outstanding course for beginners, intermediate and advanced level students. Throughout the year, language courses for all fluency levels begins on the first Monday of the month. In June, July and August, additional courses begin on the third Monday.

CIDOC SEMINARS—Colloquys during Summer 1968 will focus on Personality and Institutional Change. Scholars are invited to discuss the topic from the point of view of their speciality. Students in INSTITUTE courses and the CIF Language School may also register to participate in these discussions after a personal interview.

BOLLINGEN  SERIES

Selected Works of Miguel de Unamuno
Our Lord Don Quixote, Volume 3

Edited by ANTHONY KERRIGAN, MARTIN NOZICK,
FEDERICO DE ONÍS,[†] and HERBERT READ

Translated by ANTHONY KERRIGAN

Miguel de Unamuno (1864–1936) was, in the words of a European contemporary, “the living Spaniard of most importance to Europe, and probably the most important Spaniard that has lived since Goya.” According to American critic John A. Mackay, “The prologue of his Life of Don Quixote, in which he sounds a clarion challenge to heroic, mystic action, is perhaps the most incandescent piece of prose-writing in contemporary literature.”

It is appropriate that this new edition begins with a volume on the theme of Don Quixote, the greater part of which is devoted to The Life of Don Quixote and Sancho, published first in 1905.

Sixteen essays on diverse aspects of the Quixote motif make up the second part of the volume. The Irish Hispanist Walter Starkie’s introduction has been written out of the memoirs of his friendship with Unamuno. Bollingen Series LXXXV:3. About 500 pages. $6.50
For the Bollingen Series Catalogue, write Box C, Princeton University Press, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.
