A major new project

Politics: A Work in Constructive Social Theory

ROBERTO MANGABEIRA UNGER

Politics is a major work in social theory which offers a radical alternative to Marxism. It aims to carry forward the radical project of establishing institutions that empower us more because they devalue us less.

Politics currently comprises three books:

Social Theory: Its Situation and its Task

A Critical Introduction to Politics: A Work in Constructive Social Theory

This introduces the project and shows how criticism and self-criticism of classical and contemporary social theory generates material for an alternative practice of social understanding.

263 pp. 0 521 32974 4 Hard covers £25.00 net
0 521 33862 X Paperback £8.95 net

False Necessity

Anti-necessitarian Social Theory in the Service of Radical Democracy

Part 1 of Politics: A Work in Constructive Social Theory

The explanatory part of this centrepiece of Politics develops a view of social change and invention that accounts for the distinctive content of contemporary institutions and shows how we can remake them. The programmatic part describes the form of governmental and economic organisation best suited to advance liberal and socialist commitments.

0 521 33863 8 Paperback £13.95 net

Plasticity into Power

Comparative-historical Studies on the Institutional Conditions of Economic and Military Success

Variations on Themes of Politics: A Work in Constructive Social Theory

This develops, through wide-ranging historical examples, a major theme of False Necessity: the relation between the flexibility of social arrangements and the development of our collective capacity to produce or destroy.

Aristotle: The Desire to Understand

JONATHAN LEAR

Through considering questions sparked by Aristotle's claim that all human beings by their nature desire to know, Professor Lear introduces us to the essence of Aristotle's philosophy and guides us through the central Aristotelian texts.

'Whether one is approaching Aristotle for the first or the *n*th time, it is hard to think of a more enlightening or engaging companion than Jonathan Lear.'

Meaning and Force

The Pragmatics of Performative Utterances

FRANÇOIS RECANATI

Challenging much of the work of the speech-act theorists Austin and Searle, this major contribution to the philosophy of language argues the no utterance can be fully understood simply in terms of its linguistic meaning, but that only a contextual inference can provide an adequate framework.

The Warrant of Induction

D. H. MELLOR

This text of Professor Mellor's inaugural lecture, delivered on 21 January 1988, solves Hume's notorious problem of induction by showing how, without begging the question, induction can contingently warrant predicting the results of future observations.

The Cunning of Reason

MARTIN HOLLIS

In this book the author attempts to make sense, as a philosopher, of the ideas of rationality put forward by economists, sociologists and political theorists. Martin Hollis's chief concern is with the proper character of social science and the true nature of social actors.

Disowning Knowledge

In Six Plays of Shakespeare

STANLEY CAVELL

In this book Stanley Cavell explores radically new and provocative interpretations of a number of Shakespeare's plays. His readings of the plays are subtle and challenging, and the insights they contain are often startling in their originality and familiarity. As a whole they present a unique view on the plays.

Liberal Utilitarianism

Social Choice Theory and J. S. Mill's Philosophy

JONATHAN RILEY

This is a book about liberal democratic values and their implications for the design of political institutions. It uses the recent development of social choice theory to clarify and defend a utilitarian conception of the liberal democratic 'way of life' based on John Stuart Mill's work.

Sartre

The Necessity of Freedom

CHRISTINA HOWELLS

This book is a comprehensive study of the writings of Jean-Paul Sartre. As well as examining the drama and the fiction, the book analyses the evolution of his philosophy, explores his concern with ethics, psychoanalysis, literary theory, and biography and autobiography, and includes a lengthy section on the still much neglected study of Flaubert, L'Idiot de la famille.

Culture and Agency

The Place of Culture in Social Theory

MARGARET S. ARCHER

In their daily life humans feel a genuine freedom of thought and belief, yet this is unavoidably constrained by cultural limitations. Margaret Archer's study of the problem of culture and agency suggests that it directly parallels the structure and agency problem and that both problems can be solved using the same analytical framework.

Democratic Theory and Socialism

FRANK CUNNINGHAM

Professor Cunningham poses the question: can you have both socialism and democracy? In answering the question he touches on the fundamental issues in socialist theory and the definition of democracy.

'... this book is going to become a necessary reference point in socialist theory.'

Subjectivity and Representation in Descartes

The Origins of Modernity

DALIA JUDOVITZ

This book re-examines the philosophical and personal writings of Descartes from a modernist standpoint. The author shows how subjectivity and representation, which have been essential to both the definition and the critiques of modernism, were originally articulated in the work of Descartes, and through it affected both the philosophical and literary traditions.

Psychology,
Humanism
Scientific Inquiry

The Selected Essays
of Hadley Cantril

Edited by
Albert H. Cantril

Hans Toch SUNY - Albany

"The collection must be of interest not only to psychologists but also to other social scientists and to humanists because here was a courageous person who sought to embrace our hurried, unmanageable existence and to make it intelligible."

*Leonard W. Doob
Sterling Professor Emeritus of Psychology
Yale University*

"This collection of essays will entice its readers to a broader view of psychology and its relations to other disciplines."
Albert H. Hastorf, Stanford University

"At last, a thorough compilation of Cantril's essays that are so important as foundations for humanistic psychology. Cantril wrote about the uniqueness and depth of human experience. His insights range from the role of values in human science to the integration of self theory and neurophysiology. This is a fine book by a man who was, literally and philosophically, Einstein's neighbor."

Information for Authors

Prospective authors should send their contributions, typed and double-spaced on quarto or A4 paper, to the Editor, Mr Renford Bambrough, Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0AG. They should retain a second copy for the purpose of checking proofs. Articles submitted should conform to Hart's Rules for Compositors and Readers (Oxford University Press, 1967). The Editor may alter manuscripts wherever necessary to make them conform to the stylistic and bibliographical conventions of the journal. Single quotation marks should be used except where there is a quotation within another. The titles of books and journals should be underlined (i.e. to be printed in italics), as should foreign words. Titles of articles should be in single quotation marks.

Notes and references will be printed as footnotes and should be typed (double-spacing) on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively. They should be referred to in the text by superscripts. Citations should be as follows:

The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless they are accompanied by stamps, or in the case of contributions from abroad, by international coupons, to cover postage. A self-addressed envelope should also be enclosed.

Only corrections of printer's errors can be allowed in proofs. Authors are therefore asked to send any alterations or additions to Mr Bambrough as soon as possible after receiving his letter of acceptance.

Authors of articles, discussion papers and review articles will receive twenty-five offprints free of charge. Additional offprints can be ordered when proofs are returned by arrangement with the Institute.

Books for review should be sent to the Editor at the Institute and not to Cambridge University Press. Publishers are asked to note that non-philosophical works are not reviewed in Philosophy.

Authors' corrected proofs should be sent to Mr Bambrough at St John's College, Cambridge. All other correspondence should be addressed to the Institute and not to any address in Cambridge.
