

Erratum

Processes models, environmental analyses, and cognitive architectures: Quo vadis quantum probability theory?—ERRATUM

doi:10.1017/S0140525X12003032, Published online by Cambridge University Press, 14 May 2013

Julian N. Marewski and Ulrich Hoffrage

Due to an error in reference consolidation, the reference to Marewski et al. (2011) was omitted from the consolidated reference list for the Pothos & Busemeyer treatment in the May 2013 issue of Behavioral and Brain Sciences. The reference was cited on page 298 of the commentary by Marewski & Hoffrage (2013) and appears within the reference section below.

REFERENCES

- Marewski, J. N. & Hoffrage, U. (2013) Processes models, environmental analyses, and cognitive architectures: Quo vadis quantum probability theory? Behavioral and Brain Sciences 36(3):297–98. doi:10.1017/S0140525X12003032
- Marewski, J. N., Pohl, R. F. & Vitouch, O. (2011) Recognition-based judgments and decisions: What we have learned (so far). Judgment and Decision Making 6:359–80. [JNM]
- Pothos, E. M. & Busemeyer, J. R. (2013) Can quantum probability provide a new direction for cognitive modeling? Behavioral and Brain Sciences 36(3):255–74. doi:10.1017/S0140525X12001525