Directions in Sociolinguistics

Edited by JOHN J. GUMPERZ and DELL HYMES

'It's hardly possible to claim to know anything about the field of sociolinguistics without having read the articles in this collection. A number of them are classics in the field by any standards.' Ralph W. Fasold
Now available in paperback for the first time, this reissue incorporates an extensive new bibliography.

Pidgin and Creole Linguistics

PETER MÜHLHÄUSLER

Peter Mühlhäusler's book is both an up-to-date account of the field of pidgin and creole studies and a detailed examination of the dynamic, ever-changing character of these languages. The core of the book is a study of the processes of pidginization, creolization and pidgin/creole development.

336 pages, hardback £29.50 (0 631 13573 1)
paperback £12.50 (0 631 13574 X)

Dialects in Contact

PETER TRUDGILL

Based on research into English, Scandinavian and other languages, Dialects in Contact observes and accounts for the influence mutually intelligible dialects of a language have on one another when they come into contact. The book draws important theoretical conclusions from a wide range of linguistic data.

paperback £7.95 (0 631 12733 X)

Educational Linguistics

MICHAEL STUBBS

Michael Stubbs' book describes different dialects and styles of spoken, written and literary English, showing how such information is of practical pedagogic value to teachers. The book discusses in detail what should be taught in English lessons in schools, as well as considering broader educational questions such as the place of Standard English in the curriculum.

A Linguistics Workbook

RICHARD A. DEMERS & ANN K. FARMER

Linguists are fond of saying that the best way to learn about linguistics is to do linguistics. This workbook is intended to make doing linguistics possible at an introductory level. It consists of 75 exercises in morphology, phonology, syntax, semantics, language variation, language change, pragmatics and psychology of language. Nine appendices offer useful background on such topics as the statement of phonological rules, phrase structure rules and major moods.

The themes of this book are motivated by a major question in cognitive science – can the representational and inferential processes of the language user be characterized in terms of abstract general principles that are knowledge-free or are they constrained by knowledge and belief?

The book reflects the contemporary effort to unite formal and psychological approaches to the understanding of the mind of the language user engaged in discourse and reasoning. By treating reasoning and discourse processes together the book affords new insights into problems of topical interest in cognitive science. For example, the coherence of valid argument and the coherence of discourse may be underpinned by the same representational means.

THE LINGUISTICS ASSOCIATION

The Linguistics Association of Great Britain was founded in 1959 to promote the study of linguistics and to provide for its members both a forum for discussion and facilities for co-operation in furtherance of their interest in linguistics. The Association holds annual spring and autumn meetings, at which original papers are presented in plenary sessions and in workshops devoted to special interests.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

President: Dr Ruth Kempson, Department of Linguistics, SOAS, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HP.

Hon. Secretary: Dr Richard Coates, School of Social Sciences, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton BN1 9QN.
