A Message From the President of the American Society of Law & Medicine

In furtherance of its goal of promoting continuing medico-legal education on an interdisciplinary basis, the American Society of Law & Medicine is proud to have been instrumental in giving birth to the American Journal of Law & Medicine. This unique and long-needed professional publication is designed to provide its readers with scholarly, but practical, in-depth articles by authors renowned for their competence in the many areas where law, medicine, health-care delivery, and insurance interrelate.

Under the direction of John A. Norris, J.D., M.B.A., Editor-in-Chief, and with the assistance of a most distinguished Board of Editors, all widely acknowledged authorities in the medicolegal field, the American Journal of Law & Medicine will present informative and useful material to assist scholars and practitioners in the equitable and prompt resolution of the many challenging problems and issues now confronting those involved in the varied interfaces of law, medicine, health-care delivery and insurance.

I am certain that the American Journal of Law & Medicine will occupy a prominent position in American medical, legal and insurance literature, and I look forward to its continuing growth.
