

PHILIP SCHAFF PRIZE

The American Society of Church History takes pleasure in announcing the establishment of the Philip Schaff Prize. The prize is in the amount of $1,000.00 to be paid every other year to the author of the best book published in English, originating in the North American scholarly community, and presenting original research or interpretation in the history of Christianity or any period thereof.

Books considered for this award must be published during the years 1977 or 1978. Any member of the Society may nominate books for consideration for the Schaff Prize. Nominations of titles of books must be received by the Chairperson of the Committee on Research of the Society or William B. Miller, Secretary, American Society of Church History, 305 East Country Club Lane, Wallingford, PA 19086, by March 1, 1979. The announcement of the Schaff Prize will be made at the annual meeting of the Society in December 1979.

The Gentlemen Theologians

American Theology in Southern Culture, 1795-1860

E. Brooks Holifield

"In this minutely documented study, Professor Holifield, a brilliant young scholar, demolishes the myth that the Old South's clergy were ardent devotees of emotional religion but showed very little interest in a rational faith. Professor Holifield has opened important new vistas on Southern theology, and his penetrating exploration demands serious attention." H. Shelton Smith, James B. Duke Professor Emeritus of American Religious Thought, Duke University

Rational orthodox theology stood in the background of both religious liberalism and fundamentalism in the South; each represented the revision of an older system, not its abandonment. Hence an understanding of that pattern of ideas is not only essential for a grasp of Southern religion during the period when it was beginning to reshape the consciousness of the Southern people but also indispensable for understanding the religion of the modern South. The 1976 presidential election only serves to underline the significance of that task. $14.75

Religious Thought and Economic Society

Four Chapters of an Unfinished Work

JACOB VINER

Edited by Jacques Melitz and Donald Winch

A unified intellectual history of the economic doctrines of the early Christian Fathers and the Scholastics, of the economic issues raised by the Jansenist-Jesuit controversy, and the claim associated with the name of Max Weber that ascetic forms of Protestantism were a significant factor in the development of the spirit of capitalism. $11.75

Cotton Mather

The Young Life of the Lord's Remembrancer, 1663–1703

David Levin

In this first modern biography of Cotton Mather, Levin clarifies Mather's character development during the forty years in which he identified his personal life with the fortunes of Congregational New England. This lively account provides new interpretations that make this controversial figure comprehensible and accessible in both human and historical terms. $16.50
