Medicine, Miracle and Magic in New Testament Times
HOWARD KEE
This book sketches and illustrates in detail the range of understandings of the human condition and remedies for ills that prevailed when Jesus and the apostles were spreading the Christian message and launching Christian communities in the Graeco-Roman World. Healing played a prominent part in Jesus' ministry, and Howard Kee explains clearly this vital aspect of his appeal in the context of how it was understood by the Greeks, Romans and Jews of the day.

Wisdom in the Q-Tradition
The Aphoristic Teachings of Jesus
RONALD A. PIPER
This is the first study to examine the neglected aspect of Jesus' teaching — the proverbial sayings which are as prominent in the gospel as the parables. Small collections of aphoristic sayings can be detected in the sayings traditionally known as 'Q'. Their markedly similar structures and concepts indicate that they were compiled by a unique group which had a particular interest in 'wisdom'.
