INTERNATIONAL LAW IN DOMESTIC COURTS

General Editors: Professor Andre Nollkaemper and Professor Erika de Wet of the University of Amsterdam Centre for International Law.

International Law in Domestic Courts (ILDC) brings you the most important international law issues being decided in domestic courts around the world today. With local legal experts covering over sixty-five countries, this service highlights the full range of international jurisprudence around the globe in a format that makes it easy to pinpoint specific legal issues and to compare how these issues have been dealt with in different jurisdictions. Accurate English translations accompanied by in-depth issue-spotting commentary make this a vital resource for both lawyers in practice and legal scholars in a rapidly evolving field.

▷ ILDC Features

- ▶ Expert English translations of case law from over 65 countries
- ▶ Scholarly commentary highlighting the most salient points of international law
- ▶ An archive of cases dating back to 2000
- ▶ Over 150 new cases added each year
- ▶ Twice-monthly updates with new cases
- ▶ Easy searching by country, keyword, full text search, date, or ILDC citation
- ▶ Browse by country, key category, or party name

▷ Each Case File Contains

- ▶ Headnote
- ▶ Summary of case facts pertinent to judgment
- ▶ Opinion of the court
- ▶ Analytical commentary by scholarly experts
- ▶ Cases cited
- ▶ Expert translations of key passages of every non-English decision

Digest of United States Practice in International Law

Sally J. Cummins, Office of the Legal Adviser, U.S. Department of State
Co-published by Oxford University Press and the International Law Institute, the Digest of United States Practice in International Law presents an annual compilation of documents and commentary highlighting significant developments in public and private international law, and is an invaluable resource for practitioners and scholars in the field.

Each edition includes documents such as treaties, diplomatic notes and correspondence, legal opinion letters, judicial decisions, Senate committee reports and press releases. All of the documents are selected by members of the Legal Adviser's Office of the U.S. Department of State, based on the significance of the issues and their potential relevance to future situations. The Digest provides an insiders view of the key documents shaping international law.

British Year Book of International Law 2005, Volume 76

Edited by James Crawford, Whewell Professor of International Law, Cambridge University

Vaughan Lowe, Chichele Professor of International Law, Oxford University

Now in its 76th year, the British Year Book of International Law has become an essential work of reference for academics and practicing lawyers. Through a compilation of articles and extended book reviews, it continues to provide up-to-date analysis on important developments in modern international law. Through its exhaustive coverage of decisions in UK courts and official government statements, the British Year Book offers unique insight into the development of state practice in the United Kingdom.

Defining Terrorism in International Law

Ben Saul

Lecturer, Faculty of Law, University of New South Wales

Terrorism has never been defined in international law. This book examines the many failed attempts by the international community and the United Nations to define and criminalize terrorism, including heated debates about 'freedom fighters' and 'State terrorism'. It clearly explains why the international community should define and criminalize terrorism and in doing so, explores the difficult legal, ethical and philosophical questions involved in deciding when political violence is, or is not, permissible.

EU Justice and Home Affairs Law, 2nd ed.

Steve Peers,

Professor of Law, University of Essex
Centre for European Law

This book examines in detail, EU law on justice and home affairs. It looks at the decision-making and judicial rules which the EU applies in these areas and examines the extensive EU law on visas and border controls, regulation of legal migration, control of illegal migration, criminal law definitions, criminal procedure, and policing and customs.

The Structure of Regulatory Competition: Corporations and Public Policies in a Global Economy

Dale Murphy,

Assistant Professor, Walsh School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University

In order to understand international economic regulations, it is essential to understand the variation in competing corporations' interests. This book's theoretical findings open a 'black box' in the literature on international political economy and elucidate a source of regulatory differences and similarities. Its counter-intuitive case studies reveal how business and governments interact in the real world.

Independence of Mind

Timothy Macklem, Professor of Jurisprudence, King's College London

The fundamental freedoms of speech, conscience, privacy, and religion are now an essential part of the fabric of contemporary society, set down in our most basic laws and regularly invoked in our political and cultural debates. These freedoms play a vital role in securing the spaces and opportunities within which people are able to pursue their own lives in their own ways.

Independence of Mind explores the ways in which the fundamental freedoms help us to achieve something even more profound, by enabling us to arrive at beliefs, convictions and voices of our own, so that we truly come to think, believe and speak for ourselves in the rich and various ways that the freedoms then protect. It offers a penetrating analysis of what makes these particular freedoms matter to us in the ways that they do, and of the true significance of their entrenchment in law.

The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Law

Edited by Mathias Reimann, Hessel E. Yntema, Professor of Law, The University of Michigan
Reinhard Zimmermann, Professor of Private Law, Roman Law and Comparative Legal History, University of Regensburg

The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Law provides a wide-ranging and highly diverse survey as well as a critical assessment of comparative law at the beginning of the twenty-first century. It summarizes and evaluates a discipline that is time-honored but not easily understood in all its dimensions. In the current era of globalization this discipline is more relevant than ever for both academics and practicing lawyers.

The Politics of Crime Control: Essays in Honour of David Downes

Edited by Tim Newburn, Professor of Criminology and Social Policy and Director, Mannheim Centre for Criminology, London School of Economics, Paul Rock, Professor of Social Institutions, London School of Economics

The volume is produced in honor of Britain's most important criminological scholar - David Downes, of the London School of Economics. This book brings together ten leading British criminologists to explore the contemporary politics of crime and its control. The essays are grouped around the major themes that run through David Downes' work - sociological theory, crime and deviance; comparative penal policy; and, the politics of crime.

Killing in Self-Defence

Fiona Leverick, Senior Lecturer in Law, University of Aberdeen

This book is a comprehensive analysis of the criminal defense of self-defense from a philosophical, legal and human rights perspective. Although not always recognized as such, self-defense is a contentious defense, permitting the victim of an attack to preserve his or her life at the expense of another. If one holds that all human life is of equal value, explaining why this is permissible poses a challenge. It is particularly difficult to explain why the aggressor is, for reasons of age or insanity, for example, not responsible for her actions.

Family Law and Personal Life

John Eekelaar, Academic Director and Emeritus Fellow, Pembroke College, Oxford

How should our most intimate personal relationships be governed in a liberal society? Should the state encourage a particular model of family life, or support individuals in their pursuit of personal happiness? To what extent do people have the right to shape the lives of their offspring? This book examines the questions at the heart of family law, rethinking the ideas that shape our understanding of the family as a social unit, its purpose, and the obligations and rights that belong to family members.

Exploring Law's Empire: The Jurisprudence of Ronald Dworkin

Edited by Scott Hershovitz

Exploring Law's Empire is a collection of essays by leading legal theorists and philosophers who have been invited to develop, defend, or critique Ronald Dworkin's controversial and exciting jurisprudence. The volume explores Dworkin's critique of legal positivism, his theory of law as integrity, and his writings on constitutional jurisprudence. Each essay is a cutting-edge contribution to its field of inquiry, the highlights of which include an introduction by Justice Stephen Breyer of the United States Supreme Court, and a concluding essay by Dworkin himself, in which he responds to the preceding essays and lays out his own vision for the future of jurisprudence over the coming years.

Law and Psychology:

Current Legal Issues, Volume 9

Edited by Belinda Brooks-Gordon,
Lecturer in Psychology, Birkbeck
College, London, Michael Freeman,
Professor of English Law, University
College London

Current Legal Issues, is based upon an annual colloquium held at University College London. Each year, leading scholars from around the world gather to discuss the relationship between law and another discipline of thought. Each colloquium examines how the external discipline is conceived in legal thought and argument, how the law is pictured in that discipline, and analyzes points of controversy in the use, and abuse of extra-legal arguments within legal theory and practice. Law and Psychology, the latest volume in the Current Legal Issues series, contains a broad range of essays by scholars interested in the interactions between law and psychology. The volume includes studies of jury trials in terrorism cases, psychological evidence in family law cases, child witness testimony and the role of psychology in punishment theory.

The WTO Agreement on Agriculture: A Commentary

Joseph McMahon,
Professor of Commercial Law,
School of Law,
University College Dublin

The WTO Agreement on Agriculture subjected agriculture to a set of international rules for the first time in the history of international trade. Ever since its negotiation, the Agreement has been at the forefront of the controversy surrounding the purpose and impact of the WTO itself. This commentary provides a full legal analysis of the obligations imposed by the agreement on WTO members, and of the complex history of the Agreement's negotiation and revision and the controversy surrounding its effect on international

The WTO Agreement on Safeguards: A Commentary

Alan O. Sykes,
Frank and Bernice
Greenberg Professor
of Law, University of Chicago

The protection of troubled industries against import surges, called safeguard measures under WTO law, are controversially justified on the basis of economic concerns. This book reviews the economic literature bearing on the soundness of safeguard policies. It also addresses the complex legal issues relating to the constraints on safeguard measures under WTO law, and affords a thorough discussion and critical analysis of the WTO disputes in the area, including the most recent case involving measures protecting the U.S. steel industry.

Regional Trade Agreements and the WTO Legal System

Edited by Lorand
Bartels, Lecturer in International
Economic Law, London

The proliferation of regional trade agreements, including both free trade agreements and customs unions over the past decade has provoked many new legal issues in WTO law, public international law, and an emerging law of regional trade agreements. This book charts this development from a number of perspectives, including the economic and political underpinnings of regional trade agreements and their constitutional functions.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

We are pleased to announce that as of October 1, 2006 the publishing activities of Transnational have joined the International Law program of Martinus Nijhoff Publishers.

Indigenous Peoples' Land Rights under International Law

From Victims to Actors

Jérémie Gilbert

- November 2006
- ISBN 1 57105 369 7
- Hardcover (349 pp.)
- List price: EUR 115.- / US$ 115.-

Based on its analysis of indigenous peoples' land rights under international law, this book proposes an original theory as regards the legal status of indigenous peoples. It explores how indigenous peoples have been the victims of the rules governing title to territory since the inception of international law, and how under the current human rights regime, indigenous peoples have now gained the status of actors of international law.

Ocean Yearbook 21

Edited by Aldo Chircop, Scott Coffen-Smout, Moira McConnell

- 2006
- ISBN 1 57105 381 6
- Hardcover (approx. 800 pp.)
- List price: EUR 130.- / US$ 130.-

"For me, this is the essential and definitive book to understand the complex issue of Marine Scientific Research from a legal point of view."

Aurora Mateos, Lawyer, IOC/ABE-LOS Technical Secretary

"A must read for anyone delving into the Law of the Sea. It provides a comprehensive foundation for the entire subject and has been very helpful to us in assessing the various issues we are forced to face with respect to scientific ocean drilling."

Steven R. Bohlen, President,
Joint Oceanographic Institutions.

Reforming the United Nations

The Struggle for Legitimacy and Effectiveness

Edited by Joachim Müller

- July 2006
- ISBN-10 90 04 15131 1
- ISBN-13 978 9004151 31 4
- Reforming the United Nations, Reforming the United Nations, 5
- Hardback (xiv, 534 pp.)
- List price EUR 135.- / US$ 182.-

This volume describes the reform process leading to the United Nations Summit in September 2005. A number of recommendations are put forward to facilitate the reform process in the United Nations, realising, however, that this will remain cumbersome and a lengthy step-by-step effort.

The Rules of the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea: A Commentary

Edited by P. Chandrasekhara Rao and Ph. Gautier

- September 2006
- ISBN-10 90 04 15240 7
- ISBN-13 978 9004152 40 3
- Hardback (xii, 524 pp.)
- List price EUR 145.- / US$ 196.-

The objective of this Commentary is to give to legal practitioners and academics a detailed analysis of the provisions contained in the Rules. In doing so, the contributors, who are Judges of the Tribunal or members of its Registry, paid particular attention to the practice and the jurisprudence of the Tribunal as well as to the corresponding provisions in the Rules of the International Court of Justice.

INTERNATIONAL LAW: 100 WAYS IT SHAPES OUR LIVES

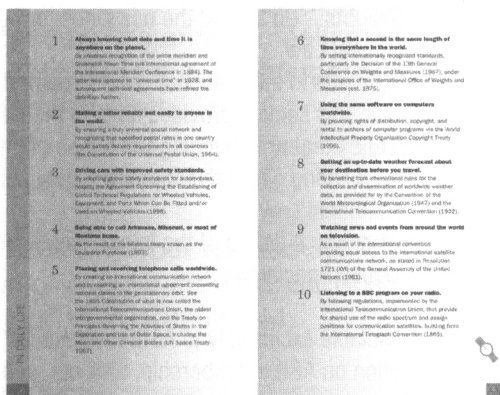

Many find international law abstract and static. Topics such as war and peace or relationships between countries are considered by some to be not so much questions of law, but of power and influence. Others question the existence of international law.

International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives was conceived from the proposition that international law not only exists, but also penetrates more deeply and broadly into everyday life than is generally recognized. Some ways are of relatively recent vintage, while others are long-standing. 100 examples were identified by ASIL members, vetted by a smaller group of experts, and organized into seven chapters: 1) daily life; 2) leisure; 3) travel; 4) commerce 5) health and the environment; 6) personal liberty; 7) public safety and global security.

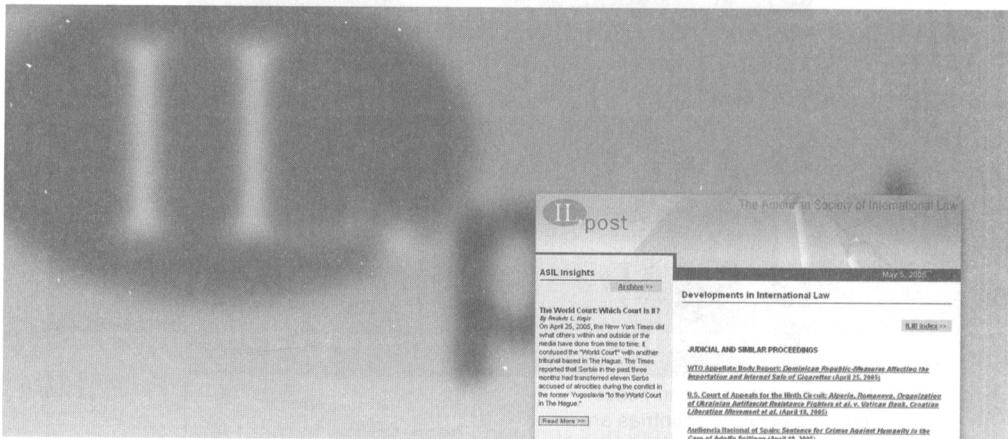

Join us in demonstrating how international law shapes our lives by

- Visiting 100 Ways at <http://www.asil100.org/ways.html>;
- Using it in teaching and general civic education programs;
- Adding ways to the list; and
- Sharing your experiences using International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives.

We hope that this creative and interactive project will help demonstrate the diversity and the centrality of international law to our lives today.
