

Metropolitan Winnipeg

Politics and Reform of Local Government
MEYER BROWNSTONE and
T. J. PLUNKETT

In the early 1970s, the city of Winnipeg underwent an extensive reorganization that resulted in an innovative system of metropolitan government. The authors give both a chronological description and a detailed analysis of this reorganization of Winnipeg's government—from the initial concepts to the actual implementation of the new unified City of Winnipeg. Their analysis will be of interest to all those concerned with local government reform that attempts to stress democratic values.

Politics in Britain

Colin Leys

Leys presents a concept of politics as the struggles of a people to determine its collective fate. He considers the distinctive character of capital and labour, changes in the class system, political parties, the development and contemporary organization of the state, and various scenarios of the future advanced by right- and left-wing writers.

One Man's Political History

H.S. Ferns

Foreword by Malcolm Muggeridge

The intellectual and political odyssey of a concerned and active twentieth-century Canadian. Henry Stanley Ferns describes his university days in the 30's, his conversion to Marxism, happenings in high places during his employment in the office of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, the case of his friend Herbert Norman, and much else. Full of unique pen portraits of people and events, large and small, it is a story that will help many understand what this century has been about. $24.95

'No Fault of Their Own'

Unemployment and the Canadian Welfare State 1914-1941

James Struthers

An examination of one of the most significant developments in the creation of the Canadian welfare state: the transition from local poor relief and private charity to national unemployment insurance as our principal means of caring for the jobless. Struthers finds that national unemployment insurance, as it emerged from the Great Depression, was designed to reinforce the work ethic, not to provide the jobless with an adequate and defensible minimum standard of living. $30.00 cloth, $12.50 paper

On F.R. Scott

Essays on His Contributions to Law, Literature, and Politics

Edited by Sandra Djwa and R. St. J. Macdonald

Perhaps more than anyone else, Frank Scott has forged a conscience and defined a sensibility for Canada. The summary of Scott's achievements is an index to twentieth-century culture. This volume includes discussions of his involvement in the League for Social Reconstruction, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, and the Canadian political tradition as well as an essay on Scott and the 'idea of Canada' by Thomas Berger. Conflict and Compromise in Multilingual Societies Volume 1, Switzerland

Kenneth D. McRae

After the French Revolution, Switzerland developed from a country in which German dominated into a confederation of four officially recognized language groups—German, French, Italian, Romansh—concentrated in different geographical areas and marked by distinctive cultures and lifestyles. Following a historical overview of this development and the social and political institutionalization of the linguistic cleavages, McRae's study examines key elements in the functioning of modern Swiss society: political parties, federal and cantonal institutions, the media, educational and cultural policies, the relation between the linguistic cleavages and class and religion, the attitudes and behaviour of the four language groups to one another. It concludes by reviewing the various explanations advanced to explain the relative social and political stability of Switzerland.

The book is the first volume in a projected four-volume work examining four multilingual countries that exemplify and illustrate what is a world-wide phenomenon: Switzerland, Belgium (scheduled for publication in 1984), Finland, Canada. The volumes will be of interest to political and social scientists, historians, students of culture and language, and persons concerned about the problems and viability of multilingual states.

Kenneth D. McRae, Department of Political Science, Carleton University, Ottawa, is a past President of the Canadian Political Science Association and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada; he served as a research supervisor for the Canadian Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism. His publications include Switzerland, Example of Cultural Co-existence; The Federal Capital: Government Institutions; Consociational Democracy; and an edition of Jan Bodin's The Six Bookes of a Commonweale.
