Five Centuries of Religion

Volume IV: The Last Days of Medieval Monachism

G. G. COULTON

This volume completes the late G. G. Coulton's masterpiece. Its 69 chapters display the full drama of successive reforms as they were attempted by various groups within the Church in the hope of staving off the cataclysm of the Reformation. 45s. net

F. D. Maurice

H. G. WOOD

A study of the life and thought of the founder of Christian Socialism in relation to the social and religious ferment of his times and of ours. 10s. 6d. net

The Teaching of History

Issued by the I.A.A.M.

An entirely new book replacing the Memorandum on the Teaching of History issued by the Incorporated Association of Assistant Masters in 1925. It is intended in the first place for teachers of history in the academic type of secondary school, but it will be of interest to all historians and all educationists. 12s. 6d.

The British Overseas

C. E. CARRINGTON

The full story, in one volume (1000 pages, illustrated), of how, where, and why the British built their Empire overseas.

'An excellent book, and easily the best history of the British Commonwealth that we have; securely founded on the Cambridge History of the British Empire and on recent research that supplements it; well planned and arranged; illustrated, mapped, and indexed with care. Its high price is fully justified: the two guineas spent on it will be well spent.' JACK SIMMONS in THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

'Mr Carrington has vision and wide knowledge, and both were essential for the successful fulfilment of his formidable task.' THE ECONOMIST. 42s. net
