The Religion of Isaac Newton

The Fremantle Lectures 1974

Frank E. Manuel

This book stresses the historical and scriptural character of Newton's religion and its emotional intensity. The metaphysical problems of science and religion are presented in this context. The work is based to a considerable extent upon newly available manuscripts that were once part of the Portsmouth Collection and now are housed in the Jewish National and University Library in Jerusalem. £1·50

S.P.G. Papers in the Lambeth Palace Library

Calendar and Indexes

Edited by William Wilson Manross

The papers of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel that are in Lambeth Palace Library are its earliest records. They include correspondence from the British Isles, Europe, and the American colonies, and are an important source material for the religious and social history of the early eighteenth century and for the beginnings of modern missionary endeavour. The purpose of the Calendar and indexes is to help historians, genealogists, and others in locating material in the papers that is relevant to their special interests. £11·50

Armand-Jean de Rancé, Abbot of La Trappe

His Influence in the Cloister and the World

A. J. Krailsheimer

Rancé (1626–1700) suddenly abandoned a worldly life in 1657, and eventually withdrew to the ruined abbey of La Trappe. This book describes the way in which he transformed it into a flourishing community, imposing the most severe disciplines of the Cistercian order. It considers Rancé's influence on other monks and nuns, on prelates and clergy, and on lay people both eminent and obscure. Illustrated £7·75

Kabīr

Volume 1

Charlotte Vaudeville

Kabir is the most revered name in Indian tradition. He is acknowledged as a great poet and as a great mystic, venerated by Hindus and Muslims alike. His rebellious spirit and revolutionary utterances have won him the title of the 'Indian Luther'. There has, however, been no critical translation of the bulk of his verse and hardly any attempt at studying him for himself, until the publication of Professor Vaudeville's book. £7·50
