

Letters of King James VI & I

Edited, with an Introduction,
by G.P.V. Akrigg

King James VI of Scotland and I of England was, by his own confession, an inveterate scribbler. Until now, the profusion of his letters could be read only in unedited Victorian collections or massive state calendars.

Akrigg presents, with full editorial apparatus, 228 of the King's characteristically pungent and idiosyncratic letters. His graceful introduction and notes explain the place of each letter in the life, interests, and aims of the King. $38.50

Literary Transvaluation

From Vergilian Epic to Shakespearean Tragicomedy
by Barbara J. Bono

"This is the most brilliant piece of literary criticism I've read in recent years. . . . The book, then, is revolutionary. After this, the literal meaning of the play, the moralizing epic tragedy with Augustus and his linear history at its center, will be seen to be wholly inadequate."

—W.R. Johnson $32.00

Index Emblematicus

Volume I:

The Emblems of Andreas Alciatus
Peter M. Daly

The emblem, a most important manifestation of Renaissance and Baroque culture, reflected a panoply of interests. To date, research on emblematics has been hampered by the relative inaccessibility of the emblem books themselves. This volume is a first step toward correcting that situation. It reproduces 212 Latin emblems, all but one derived from the definitive Latin edition (Lyon, 1551), along with a selection of representative French, German, Italian, and Spanish translations. The English translations facilitate the indexing and enable a modern user, without adequate linguistic skills, to consult the original emblem text.
$95.00

John Toland

His Methods, Manners, and Mind
Stephen H. Daniel

Best known for his call for common-sense thinking in the deist manifesto Christianity Not Mysterious, John Toland (1670-1722) gained notoriety as editor and biographer of Milton, Harrington, and Ludlow; translator and publicist of Giordano Bruno; pamphleteer and spy for Robert Harley; and purveyor of Hermetic and clandestine manuscripts for Prince Eugène of Savoy. The first sympathetic philosophical treatment in English of the complete works of Toland, this study presents him as a champion of religious tolerance and civil liberty whose writings brought together many of the ideas, themes, and controversies that dominated the early modern period of Europe.
(McGill-Queen's University Press)
$27.50

Mirror up to Shakespeare

Essays in Honour of G.R. Hibbard
Edited by J.C. Gray

Two of the twenty-one essays present a broad overview of Elizabethan drama and discuss Shakespeare's first great editor, Theobald. Together with the final essay on publication and performance in early Stuart drama, they form the frame of the mirror held up to Shakespeare in the remaining essays which treat of general themes running through his plays or those of his contemporaries, and of specific plays. There is an especially rich concentration on Macbeth and Coriolanus. $35.00

Fulfilling the Circle

A Study of John Donne's Thought
Terry G. Sherwood

One of the best modern interpretations of Donne's subtle theology, this book assumes that we can understand Donne's works much better if we take them as a whole. It also assumes that the principles of consciousness, of epistemology and psychology, are the backbone of his thought. Concentrating on the principles of reason, bodies, and suffering that unify Donne's works, Sherwood shows how Donne assimilated the complex spiritual and intellectual currents of his time. $25.00
