

Quantitative risk assessment of the introduction of rabies into Japan through the importation of dogs and cats worldwide – ADDENDUM

Addendum

Cite this article: Kwan NCL, Sugiura K, Hosoi Y, Yamada A, Snary EL (2018). Quantitative risk assessment of the introduction of rabies into Japan through the importation of dogs and cats worldwide – ADDENDUM. Epidemiology and Infection 146, 1281. <https://doi.org/10.1017/S0950268817002394>

N. C. L. Kwan, K. Sugiura, Y. Hosoi, A. Yamada and E. L. Snary

doi: 10.1017/S0950268816002995 Published online: 18 January 2017

In the above mentioned article [1] the affiliation for Y. Hosoi should be Department of Global Agricultural Sciences, Graduate School of Agricultural and Life Sciences, The University of Tokyo, Japan.

The author was at the University of Tokyo when involved in the research but his current affiliation is the Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries of Japan (MAFF). MAFF has not been involved in the work nor endorsed the conclusions.

Reference

1. Kwan N, et al. Quantitative risk assessment of the introduction of rabies into Japan through the importation of dogs and cats worldwide. Epidemiology and Infection 2017; 145(6); 1168–1182. doi:10.1017/S0950268816002995.