Contributors should submit three copies of articles, typed double-spaced on one side only of A4 or equivalent paper with good margins. Articles should normally be no more than 10,000 words, but longer articles will be considered. There is also provision for shorter notes of up to 5000 words. In the case of articles (though not shorter notes) an abstract of 100 words should also be supplied.

Submission on disk (preferably 3.5") is encouraged. When submitting a disk please specify file name(s), software and type of computer. Our preference is for Apple Macintosh Microsoft Word 5.1, but any other programme is acceptable.

Contributors are urged to aim for clarity of expression with a minimum of jargon.

For matters of style, prospective contributors should use the current issue of the journal as a guide to preferred practice. Detailed guidelines are available from the Editor.

Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to the McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research.

Offprints. Twenty-five free offprints are supplied to authors of published articles, these to be shared between joint authors, and ten free offprints to each author of a review article. Further offprints may be purchased if ordered at proof stage.

The Archaeology of Garden and Field

Edited by Naomi F. Miller & Kathryn L. Gleason

Cultivation of land use practices the world over reflect many aspects of people's relationship to each other and the natural world. The Archaeology of Garden and Field explores the cultivation of land from prehistoric times to the nineteenth century through excavation, experimentation, and the study of modern cultural traditions. 288pp, 77 illustrations, £27.50 hb

Women in Archaeology

Edited by Cheryl Claassen

Women in Archaeology documents and discusses attempts at the exclusion of women from archaeology and the resulting androcentrism of archaeological knowledge. The first part of the book examines the lives and work of forty-one women who have made important contributions to archaeology during the 20th Century, most of whom are virtually unknown today.

The second part analyzes the current status of female archaeologists, in the academy, in contract business, and in museums. This book provides a thoughtful point of entry into the exploration of gender bias in science. 272pp, 34 illustrations, £34.95 hb, £15.95 pb
