INDIA, PAKISTAN, BANGLADESH, AND THE MAJOR POWERS

Politics of a Divided Subcontinent

G. W. Choudhury, North Carolina Central University and Duke University

A remarkable look at behind-the-scenes negotiations and events in the South Asian subcontinent is provided by a former member of the Pakistani government. This is a penetrating examination of the policies of the Soviet Union, the United States, and China toward this area: how their policies and actions have affected regional tensions, how the major powers have used the Indo-Pakistani conflict for their own benefit, and the role each played in the Bangladesh crisis. Similarly, Choudhury takes an objective look at the way India and Pakistan have taken advantage of the Cold War to further their own military and economic interests.

THE STRAINED ALLIANCE

Peking, P'yongyang, Moscow, and the Politics of the Korean Civil War

Robert Simmons, University of Guelph

New light is cast on the origins and politics of the Korean conflict. Using G-2 intelligence files and translations of daily broadcasts from Peking, P'yongyang, and Moscow, Simmons examines the conflict as a civil war, not as part of the Cold War. The conflict was spurred on by intense Korean nationalism and caused strains in the relationship of the three Communist countries involved in the war.

CHINA IN DISINTEGRATION

The Republican Era in Chinese History, 1912-1949

James E. Sheridan, Northwestern University

The first full study of the republican years in China. The concept of national integration provides the unifying theme. There are complete treatments of the Revolution of 1911, the failure of the Kuomintang to reintegrate China, and the most thorough discussion of warlords and warlordism available in English.

THE FALL OF IMPERIAL CHINA

Frederic Wakeman, Jr., University of California at Berkeley

A colorfully written, detailed, and analytical social history of change in China, from the sixteenth century to the twentieth. This book traces the development of the imperial state from the viewpoint of three social classes: peasants, merchants, and gentry.

THE MESSAGE OF THE BUDDHA

K. N. Jayatilleke

Edited by Ninian Smart, University of Lancaster

This superb guide to the teachings of Gautama, the Buddha, elucidates the origins and nature of the oldest tradition of Buddhist thought—Theravāda Buddhism—and explains the relevance of the Buddha's message in the modern world. Writing for both the layman and the scholar, the author, one of the best-known Buddhist scholars in Asia, gives an historical perspective on the life of Gautama and the rise of Buddhism, and perceptively explores every major aspect of Buddhist doctrine.

THE ROLE OF EXTERNAL POWERS IN THE INDOCHINA CRISIS EDITED BY GENE T. HSIAO

This is the first comprehensive macro-analysis by policy experts of the roles of external powers in the Indochina Crisis. It covers all formerly belligerent states and those with traditional interests in the region, including the U.S., U.S.S.R., China, France, North & South Korea, Japan and Australia.

Some of the many conclusions reached in this book are:

- ★ Sino-Soviet competition for increased influence in the region and better relations with the U.S. ironically provided a catalyst for the current Sino-American rapprochement.
- ★ North Vietnam, with continued Soviet support, seeks the legacy of the former French Empire in Indochina.
- ★ China prefers diffusion of power within the region.
- ★ The stage is set for a new phase of Sino-Soviet conflict.

Gene T. Hsiao is Professor of Government and Director, Asian Studies Program, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Contributors include: Adrian S. Brown, King C. Chen, Harold C. Hinton, Roy U. T. Kim, Young C. Kim, Kenneth P. Landon, Marianna P. Sullivan, John R. Thomas.

FARM AND NATION IN MODERN JAPAN

Agrarian Nationalism, 1870-1940

THOMAS R.H. HAVENS

"Japan's entry into the modern world of the bureaucratic state left much of the population resentful, nostalgic, and confused, and nurtured the ideologists of Nohonshugi—'the farm is the basis.' Havens portrays with insight and sympathy the ironic fate of this rural-romantic movement—where idealization of harmony led to violence, respect for self-rule to imperial adventures."—Foreign Affairs $15.00

JAPAN IN CRISIS

Essays on Taishō Democracy

Edited by BERNARD S. SILBERMAN and H. D. HAROOTUNIAN

"Rich insights into Japan's interwar decades, and into the postwar era by extension, emerge from this book. . . . Japan in Crisis, a valuable addition to undergraduate libraries, will prove indispensable to scholars and to graduate level collections specializing in Asian studies."—History $17.50

TOWARD A MODERN JAPANESE THEATRE

Kishida Kunio

J. THOMAS RIMER

Rimer traces the initial modernization efforts undertaken by the first generation of Japanese playwrights of the shingeki, or "New Theatre," and concentrates on the work of Kishida Kunio, the most important figure in the Japanese theatre of the 1930's and 1940's. "The subject treated in this work has never before been treated in any Western book, and there is no book in Japanese either of comparable range."—Donald Keene $14.50

ISHIWARA KANJI AND JAPAN'S CONFRONTATION WITH THE WEST

MARK PEATTIE

"In Mark Peattie's careful study of Ishiwaro Kanji, we finally have a comprehensive appraisal of one of the most important military officers in modern Japanese military history. . . . Of profound interest to scholars of modern Japanese history, specialists in Sino-Japanese relations, intellectual and military historians, and political scientists, as well as to the informed lay reader of modern Asian affairs. It is a most valuable contribution to the study of modern Japanese history."—Hosoya Chihiro, Hitotsubashi University $16.50

STUDIES

Now Available for the first time in decades—42 classics—scholarly books on China contained in two collections:

STUDIES IN CHINESE GOVERNMENT AND LAW and STUDIES IN CHINESE HISTORY AND CIVILIZATION.

Because of the relatively recent expansion of Asian studies programs in American schools, there was little opportunity until now for most libraries to acquire these established Chinese studies.

Edited by Joseph En-pao Wang, Head of the Far Eastern Language Section of the Library of Congress, these studies are designed to serve the needs of university and college programs relating to China.

Most of the books contained in these studies were published abroad in limited editions. Many of them were written by native Chinese and printed by the small English-language presses in Shanghai and Peking. Nearly every work is the result of first-hand research and experience in China. All books are in English.

The following pages list the books in these two collections, and a detailed description of each book can be found in our catalog which is available on request.

China's Imperial Past

An Introduction to Chinese History and Culture

Charles O. Hucker. Unique in the sweep of its design and scope and intended expressly for the general reader interested in human history and culture, this panoramic survey traces the vast course of Chinese civilization from prehistory to 1850, when China began the agonizing transition from old to new. The author's approach is primarily interpretive, emphasizing patterns of change and development rather than factual details, but he never loses sight of the particularities that made traditional Chinese civilization one of the richest in human history. Each of the three major epochs of Chinese history is examined in topical chapters on general history, political institutions, socioeconomic organization, religion and thought, and literature and the arts. Especially notable are the many translations, most of them new, of exquisite works from the great poets of the T'ang as well as selections from the philosophical writings, histories, fiction, and poetry of every age. Illustrated. $17.50

PRELUDE TO REVOLUTION

Mao, the Party, and the Peasant Question, 1962-1966

RICHARD BAUM

Providing new insights into a confusing historical period, Richard Baum discusses the origins of the Great Proletarian Revolution in three interrelated areas: the conflicts between Mao Tse-Tung and his chief lieutenants, the Socialist Education Movement, and the state and rural party administrations. $10.00

A GUIDE TO ORIENTAL CLASSICS

Second Edition

WM. THEODORE DE BARY and AINSLIE T. EMBREE, Editors

This useful bibliographic guide to the classics of four Asian traditions has been significantly revised. Major cultural works from the Islamic, Indian, Chinese, and Japanese traditions, ranging from history, philosophy, and religion to poetry, drama, and fiction are included. Companions to Asian Studies cloth, $9.00; paper, $3.50

JAPANESE LITERATURE IN CHINESE

Volume I: Poetry and Prose in Chinese by Japanese Writers of the Early Period

BURTON WATSON, Translator

This fascinating volume contains the most interesting and important examples of the poetry and prose of Japanese writers who composed in classical Chinese. Until now little of this segment of Japanese literature has been available in English translation; its appearance here makes this collection a valuable contribution to Oriental studies. Translations from the Oriental Classics. Available in January. $9.00

INSEI

Abdicated Sovereigns in the Politics of Late Heian Japan, 1086-1185

G. CAMERON HURST, III

This is a trenchant analysis of the little-studied medieval institution of insei, a term coined by Japanese scholars to explain the confusing political events of late Heian Japan, when abdicated sovereigns emerged as important political figures. It is a valuable book for students of Japanese history, and of comparative legal and social institutions and comparative monarchy. Studies of the East Asian Institute. Available in January. $17.50

WEN CHENG-MING: The Ming Artist and Antiquity

Wen Cheng-ming, the leading master of sixteenth century Chinese painting, dominated the art world of Suchou for thirty-five years. His artistic gift was matched by his erudition in matters of art-history and connoisseurship. This book studies the ways in which ancient styles were adopted by a scholar-artist and turned to serve the interests of Ming aesthetics.

A THOUSAND PEAKS AND MYRIAD RAVINES

Chinese Paintings in the Charles A. Drenowatz Collection

Assembled entirely during the past twenty years, the Charles A. Drenowatz Collection of Zurich has been well represented in some of the major exhibitions of Chinese painting in Europe and America. The entire collection of sixty-four pieces, including handscrolls, hanging scrolls, albums, and fans, has been the subject of a thorough study made by Professor Chu-ting Li. Grouping all the paintings under fifteen chapters according to schools and trends, this book not only helps us gain a sound understanding of each individual painting with an emphasis on its style and meaning, but also puts it in the context of the whole history of Ming and Ch'ing painting.

THE PHUR-PA, TIBETAN RITUAL DAGGERS

The "far-reaching" arrow or bolt as a means of controlling negative factors in one's life is a phenomenon occurring in many circum-Pacific cultures. But nowhere has it reached the importance and complex development that the phur-pa achieved in association with Buddhism in the Nepalo-Tibetan regions. This study is an attempt to survey the iconography of the manifold types of phur-pa and to set up broad categories of classification based on iconographic elements. A considerable variety of implements is examined and analysed in order to determine their relationship to underlying principles. In each case it will be seen that nothing less than the force of the Universal itself is brought to bear on the subject of concern.

THE FIRST INDOCHINA WAR

French and American Policy 1945-1954

R. E. M. Irving. This book studies French policy in Indochina between 1945 and 1954 with particular reference to the role and influence of the political parties. Increasingly, however, it develops into a study of American policy as well, because by the end of the war, the United States was almost as deeply involved as France. Fascinating and enlightening reading. Provides a careful and objective study of the motives, mistakes, intrigues and waste of lives and material associated with this war. 163 pages. Sept. 1975. $11.50.

U.S. POLICY AND STRATEGIC INTERESTS IN THE WESTERN PACIFIC

Yuan-li Wu. This book has a threefold purpose. First, it attempts to interpret United States foreign and defense policy in the Western Pacific during the 1969-1974 period. Second, it tries to point out how slippery the process of adjustment for the United States can be in moving from its preeminent position of a superpower in a bipolar balance to that of a "balancing superpower" in a multipolar world. Finally, it points to a frequently overlooked fact, namely, that the impression a nation's policy gives to other interested parties, including its own public, may be greatly at variance with the original intent of the makers of policy, and that this divergence in perceptions could create serious problems of a dynamic nature. 224 pages. 1975. $14.50 clothbound; $7.50 paperbound.

MAOISM IN ACTION

The Cultural Revolution

C. L. Chiou. This work uses the Cultural Revolution—one of the most important events in Communist history, to explain and illustrate the ideological construction of Maoism and how the Chinese Communists under Mao have tried to practice Maoist principles. It presents a concise and easy-to-understand picture of Maoism in action. The book carries the Chinese political scene through the Lin Piao affair which by 1973 had taken more than forty high-ranking generals regarded as Lin's followers from the scene and into 1974 when a sudden nationwide anti-Lin Piao, anti-Confucius campaign went into full swing signifying the making of a second cultural revolution. 186 pages. 1974. $10.50.

OIL, POLITICS AND SEAPOWER

The Indian Ocean Vortex

W. A. C. Adie. This monograph, by a distinguished authority on Asian affairs, examines and analyzes the growing involvement of the great powers—the U.S., USSR, China, Japan, and Western Europe—in the politics of the Indian Ocean area. The nations bordering on the Indian Ocean comprise much of the so-called Third World. Most of the world's oil resources are to be found here, and a major portion of international commerce traverses the waters of the Indian Ocean. This study focuses on the Soviet and Chinese ambitions in this area, and surveys the main political and economic problems confronting the various countries of the region. 106 pages. 1975. $4.95 clothbound; $2.95 paperbound.

THE COMMUNIST INSURRECTION IN MALAYA 1948-1960

Anthony Short. An important study of the 1948-1960 Communist insurrection in Malaya—how it was launched and how it was contained, written from a historical point of view based on eight years of research and writing during which the author, then with the History Department of the University of Malaya, had complete and unrestricted access to Malayan Government confidential and secret papers. Originally commissioned by the Malaysian Government, this authoritative and complete account was subsequently prohibited and its publication delayed for more than five years. 513 pages. 1974. $21.75.

TRIAL IN THAILAND

George Tanham. Thailand has been troubled by a communist-led and inspired insurgency, mainly in the border and mountainous areas of the country. This book describes and analyzes the growth and nature of this insurgency, the Thai government's response to this threat, and the United States' assistance to the Thai counter-insurgency movement. It provides new insights into the insurgency problem in Southeast Asia, the interaction of the U.S. and Thai governments, and the relationship between a U.S. mission abroad and the Federal Government in Washington. The author served two years in Bangkok as U.S. Special Assistant for Counter-insurgency from 1968 to 1970. 189 pages. 1974. $10.50.

Konfrontasi

The Indonesia-Malaysia Dispute 1963-1966

J. A. C. MACKIE. "Indonesia's attack on the concept of a larger Malaysia (the 'confrontation' of the title) lasted from 1963 until Sukarno's fall. This sophisticated history of that diplomatic-military episode elucidates many puzzling questions. . . . Mackie's model case study offers both particular and universal insights about foreign policy."—Foreign Affairs

Imperial Britain in South-East Asia

NICHOLAS TARLING. Ten of Professor Tarling's papers on nineteenth-century British policy in Southeast Asia have been revised and collected in this volume. The essays deal with the Malaysia region, Thailand, Vietnam, Cambodia, and the Andaman and Nicobar Islands. They analyze the significance of British policy decisions, and highlight the colorful personalities of such men as Stamford Raffles and Sir James Brooke.

The Local Roots of Indian Politics

Allahabad 1880-1920

C. A. BAYLY. In this analytical history of the Allahabad area, the author describes the social and political environment from which the significant nationalist leaders emerged, and analyzes the background and resources of the most important local groups: the Hindu trading magnates, Urdu-writing government service communities, and the lawyers of the provincial High Court. As one of the first studies of an inland town, it also contributes to the limited literature on Indian urban history.

The Growth of Education and Political

Development in India 1898-1920

APARNA BASU. The rapid expansion of English education in India in the first two decades of this century set the pattern for future development. This scholarly appraisal of the interplay of politics and educational policy examines the motivations of the administration's educational policy during this period and the socio-economic factors such as caste, religion and geography which determined the pattern of literacy that emerged.

THE JAPAN-CHINA PHENOMENON

Conflict or compatibility?

By Shuichi Kato

Translated by David Chibett

Stemming from a trip to the People's Republic of China in 1971, these concise, probing essays compare current life in China and Japan, and trends in their past and present thought and social action. A controversial thinker, Professor Kato discusses the reasons for both countries' failure to understand the West and, in particular, the alternatives facing them in foreign policy. "He throws light not only on recent events, but on the long-term Japanese and Chinese attitudes to life and on the differences between them."—From the introduction by Arnold Toynbee

The Status System and Social Organization of Satsuma

A translation of the
Shūmon Tefuda Aratame Jōmoku

translators and editors:

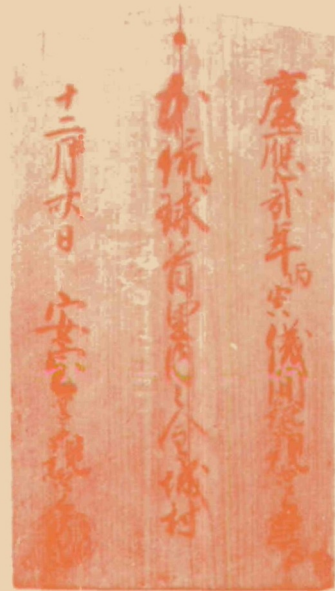

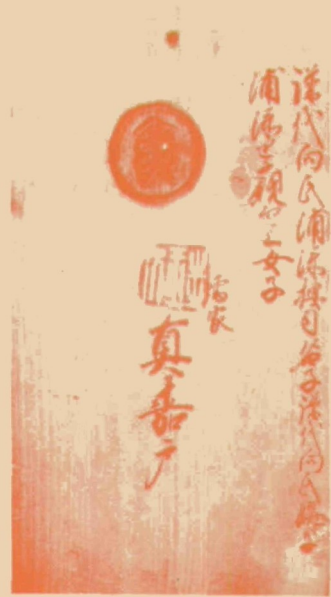

Torao Haraguchi, Robert K. Sakai,
Mitsugu Sakihara, Kazuko Yamada,
and Masato Matsui

introductory analysis by Robert K. Sakai

Satsuma, a feudal domain in southern Kyushu during the Tokugawa period, was ruled by one of the most powerful clans in Japan. This volume provides a richly detailed view of the Satsuma social organization and status system up to the mid-nineteenth century and provides clues to the basis of the Satsuma political strength and leadership that enabled the clan to lead the Restoration movement. The Satsuma's strict policy of social control is analyzed through an examination of the Jōmoku or Regulations of Satsuma, which dealt with the registration and investigation of religious sects and the use of identification tags.

A team of five translators undertook the difficult task of rendering the pre-Meiji text of the Jōmoku into English. Professor Sakai's detailed introductory essay is mainly intended to suggest ways of organizing or interpreting the data, but it also provides a brief historical background beneficial to readers not familiar with this period of Japanese history.
