Always topical — never typical

Political Pressure and Economic Policy: British Government 1970-74

Dr Martin Holmes

The inability of democratic governments to divorce economic policy-making from its political context provides the central theme of Dr Holmes's detailed and searching account of British government between 1970 and 1974. He examines the processes by which the economic and industrial policies originally adopted by the British Conservative Government in 1970 were abandoned, and analyses the lessons to be drawn for contemporary and world politics.

France in the Troubled World Economy

Editors: S S Cohen and P A Gourevitch

Major French industries now face severe international competition to their goods and services. What policy options are available, and what policies will France choose? In this volume, a distinguished team of scholars dissects the French policy debate in terms of the different economic 'sectors' — agriculture, oil, steel, cars, defence etc — that make up the economy and play a major part in the political system. This disaggregated approach to the French and international political economy provides a unique insight into the choices and constraints facing the Mitterrand government.

1982 224 pages £18.00

The Mediterranean Basin: Its Political Economy and Changing International Relations

G Rosenthal

The only book in English to examine selected economic and security questions common to most countries of the Mediterranean Basin in an effort to arrive at some overall conclusions about the place occupied by the region in the contemporary international system.

1982 224 pages £18.00

An Electoral Atlas of Europe 1968-1981

John Sallnow and Anna John

A cartographic and documentary record of all national, and significant regional elections in eighteen countries of West and South Europe, including all the countries of Scandinavia. The book features 80 specially drawn maps.

Regional Studies

Edited by John B. Goddard

Professor of Regional Development Studies, University of Newcastle upon Tyne

Journal of the Regional Studies Association

Regional Studies publishes the results of original research on such topics as industrial, retail and office location, labour markets, housing, migration, recreation, transport, communications and the evaluation of public policy, wherever any of these topics has a bearing on urban and regional development. Special review articles on important themes and developments are published when appropriate. The journal is of special interest to economists, geographers, sociologists, planners and policy makers and anyone concerned with urban and regional problems and policies.

Volume 16 Number 5 October 1982 will carry the theme of 'Changing environment for regional policy in Britain' and will include the following articles.

B. MOORE and J. RHODES (Cambridge Economic Policy Group)
'A Second Great Depression in the U.K. regions — can anything be done?'

T. WILSON (University of Glasgow) The Macro-Economic Background to Regional Policy

P. ELIAS (Institute for Employment Research, University of Warwick)
'The regional impact of national economic policies: a multi regional simulation approach for the U.K.'

P. LLOYD (University of Manchester) and D. REEVE (Huddersfield Polytechnic) 'North West England 1971—1977: A study in industrial decline and economic re-structuring'

R. ROTHWELL (Science Policy Research Unit, University of Sussex)
'The role of technology in industrial change: implications for regional policy?'

A. THWAITES (Centre for Urban and Regional Development Studies, University of Newcastle upon Tyne) 'Some evidence of regional variations in the introduction and diffusion of industrial products and processes within British manufacturing industry'

Volume 16: February, April, June, August, October and December 1982

Notes for Contributors

- 1 All contributions should be sent to: The Editor, British Journal of Political Science, University of Essex, Wivenhoe Park, Colchester, Essex CO4 3SQ. They should not be sent to the Cambridge University Press.
- 2 Articles submitted to the Journal should in general be between 5,000 and 12,000 words in length, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two parts may be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible.
- 3 Notes and comments are welcome. A Note should contain a body of original information, a new method for doing something or a new idea (speculation, argument, proof, etc.) presented in a brief and unadorned form without inessential commentary. Comments containing criticisms of articles published in the Journal and additional thoughts on them will be considered for early publication, especially if they are short – say, under 1,000 words.
- 4 Most issues of the Journal contain a Review Article – either a detailed discussion of a single book or a review of the state of some area of the discipline. Review Articles submitted without prior consultation will be considered for publication, but in their own interest contributors would be well advised not to prepare a Review Article specially for the Journal without first getting in touch with the Editor.
- 5 The Journal's editorial policy is as stated inside the front cover. Contributors should note the phrase 'problems of general significance to students of politics'. The Journal does not normally publish, for example, highly specialized contributions to the history of political thought or purely descriptive articles concerned with the current politics of particular countries. The Journal also prefers to publish contributions to the discipline of political science, rather than commentaries upon the discipline.
- 6 Authors of articles and Review Articles receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if they are ordered at proof stage.
- 7 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not been previously published and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to the Cambridge University Press.
- 8 Contributions intended for publication should be submitted IN TRIPLICATE. Contributions must be typed and may be reproduced in any clearly legible form. The preferred size of paper is A4 (8½ × 11½ in), but quarto (8 × 10 in) or the US standard size (8½ × 11 in) will also be accepted. Because of postage costs, manuscripts not accepted for publication are not normally returned to the author unless their return is specifically requested.
- 9 The entire material of any article, including footnotes, quotations, appendices, etc., should be double spaced, with left-hand margins of at least 1½ in. The preferred treatment of footnotes is that they should be numbered consecutively in the text and typed all together at the end, beginning on a fresh page; but manuscripts employing other methods of arranging footnotes will not be rejected simply on those grounds.
- 10 Anyone who is preparing a manuscript for submission to the Journal is urged to follow the Journal's style sheet, which covers a number of detailed points concerning footnotes, punctuation, spelling, etc. Copies of the style sheet can be obtained from the Editor. Alternatively, contributors can follow the style used in any recent number of the Journal. Footnote references should always contain, in the case of books, the name of the author as it appears on the title page, the full title including any subtitle, the place of publication, the name of the publisher and the date of publication, and, in the case of articles, the name of the author, the full title, the name of the journal, the volume number, the year and the page reference (number of first and last page), English spelling, not American, should be adopted.
- 11 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by air mail where appropriate, within ten days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent directly to the Editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
