Jean Georges Sauveplanne

In January 1984 Georges Sauveplanne joined the ranks of honorary Professors of the Utrecht University's Law Faculty.

Georges Sauveplanne undoubtedly is one of the leaders of the group of Dutch comparative lawyers. Comparative Law was, as it seems, his first love. Like many other colleagues in this field he welcomed teaching comparative law and writing about it as a felicitous opportunity to combine his interests in law with those in history, literature and languages.

Sauveplanne is not only an artist in comparative law, but also a master of the handicraft of private international law. In this field his influence on the development of Dutch law has been substantial.

In the international community of lawyers Sauveplanne has been and is an honoured member. He has been particularly active in the field of the unification of private law and of conflicts of law. He often served as a member of drafting committees, where his ability to reconcile in clear lines the often divergent opinions of the committees members was well appreciated.

As a special mark of their appreciation for Sauveplanne's person and work some of his friends both from the international community of lawyers and from the Netherlands have contributed to a 'Liber Amicorum' on the theme of:
'Unification and Comparative Law in Theory and Practice'.
