Alexis de Tocqueville once declared that a new science was needed for a new world. The past decade has seen the emergence of a new world order - a new stage in the development of the world economic and political system. Understanding it will require new modes of analysis and new theories, and a readiness to tear down intellectual barriers, bringing together many approaches, methods, and disciplines which for too long have been separated. In short, what is needed is a new political economy, which combines the breadth of vision which characterised the classical political economy of the nineteenth century with the analytical advances of twentieth century social science.

New Political Economy creates a forum for work which seeks to bridge past empirical and conceptual divides. The emphasis is upon exploratory and innovative work which draws on different disciplines and which addresses core issues in the main constituent elements of its research agenda: namely, comparative political economy, the political economy of the environment, the political economy of development, and international political economy.

Review of African Political Economy

EDITORS

Chris Allen and Jan Burgess, ROAPE, Sheffield, UK

The Review of African Political Economy has for over twenty years attempted to provide radical analysis and commentary on trends and issues in Africa. It has paid particular attention to class and gender analysis, and to marxist interpretations of change in Africa.

The Review is especially concerned with the problems of Africa's economic, political and intellectual marginalisation; with the rationale for and imposition of 'free-market' development strategies, notably structural adjustment programmes, and with their social and political impact; with the continuing existence of and external support for repressive and violent regimes and movements; with the economic and political role of the African bourgeoisie; and with questions of regional, national and community conflict.

Of equal concern is the nature of popular responses to these problems, and the examination of the actions needed to overcome them. Thus the Review promotes and publishes analysis and debate on democratic struggles and grassroots movements; on the organisation and actions of women and other subordinate groups; and on popular resistance to repression and exploitation, including religious and cultural movements.

International Review of Applied Economics

MANAGING EDITOR

Malcolm Sawyer, University of Leeds, UK

ASSOCIATE MANAGING EDITOR

Saziye Gazioglu, University of Aberdeen, UK

Supported by an International Editorial Board

The International Review of Applied Economics is devoted to the practical applications of economic ideas. Applied economics is widely interpreted to embrace empirical work and the application of economics to the evaluation and development of economic policies. The interaction between empirical work and economic policy is an important feature of the journal.

The journal is international in scope. Articles that draw lessons from the experience of one country for the benefit of others, or that seek to make cross-country comparisons are particularly welcomed. Contributions which discuss policy issues from theoretical positions neglected in other journals are also encouraged. Although the International Review of Applied Economics associates itself broadly with the non-neo-classical tradition, it does not identify itself with any specific theoretical or political position.

Submissions: All papers should be submitted in triplicate. An abstract should be included on a separate page. We encourage authors to also send a copy of their manuscript in electronic form, either by e-mail or on a 3.5 inch floppy disk. Where possible, the file should be saved in the 'Word for Windows' format.

Presentation: Manuscripts should be double spaced throughout and single-sided. Please allow for generous margins and number all pages consecutively. The author should retain a copy, as submitted manuscripts cannot be returned. All papers should include a word count. Full names of the author(s) should be given, an address for correspondence, and where possible a contact telephone number, facsimile number, and e-mail address. Current and recent academic and professional affiliations should be supplied, together with a list of major publications (with dates and name of publisher) and forthcoming books.

Footnotes. Please use in-text references and footnotes. In the manuscript's body cite a published sources in a footnote that shows the author's last name and the date, adding page numbers when quoting from or referring to a particular passage. Footnotes may include a brief comment that helps the reader to understand the source's value and viewpoint or commentary on an issue raised in the paper. Papers should also contain a reference list with the complete facts of publication or availability for each source cited, using the author-date form shown in the following examples. In the reference list show sources primarily in alphabetical order by the first author's surname and secondarily in chronological order with the earliest date first. Provide first names (instead of initials) of authors when available. A style sheet is available from the Business and Politics editorial office giving details of formats for notes and references.

For questions of style not answered here, please refer to The Chicago Manual of Style, 14th ed. (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1993), or contact the BAP editorial office.

Tables and figures: should be prepared on separate sheets using originals where possible; they should not be included within the text. The author(s) should indicate clearly in the margin of the paper where tables and figures are to be inserted. Each table and figure should be numbered consecutively in Arabic numerals with an appropriate caption (e.g. Table 1, Table 2; Figure 1, Figure 2, and so on). Permission to reproduce copyright material must be obtained by the author(s) prior to submission and any acknowledgements should be included either in the text or the caption as appropriate. A camera ready copy of any tables and figures should be submitted in addition to those attached to the manuscripts.

Proofs: Authors are expected to correct and return proofs of accepted articles within 48 hours of receipt.

Offprints: Authors are entitled to 50 free offprints of their article and a copy of the issue in which their article appears. Offprints may take 3–4 weeks to deliver after publication.

Copyright: It is a condition of publication that authors vest copyright in their articles, including abstracts, in Carfax Publishing, Taylor & Francis Ltd. This enables us to ensure full copyright protection and to disseminate the article, and the journal, to the widest possible readership in print and electronic formats as appropriate. Authors may, of course, use the article elsewhere after publication without prior permission from Taylor & Francis, provided that acknowledgement is given to the Journal as the original source of publication, and that Taylor & Francis is notified so that our records show that its use is properly authorized. Authors are themselves responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyright material from other sources.
