Published quarterly

Aims and Scope

Public Health Nutrition is an international, peer-reviewed journal publishing original research papers, topical review articles, Letters to the Editors, editorials and invited commentaries, and book reviews. The journal offers a population based approach to the practical application of research findings and provides a timely vehicle for lively discussion.

Topics covered include:

- Nutritional epidemiology - studies relating nutrition to health or disease risk
- Nutrition related health promotion
- Evaluation of effectiveness of intervention studies aimed at improving health
- Role of nutrition in high risk and vulnerable groups
- Development of research methods, validation of measures, calibration
- Population based research related to primary prevention of illness

Public Health Nutrition will publish occasional Special and Supplementary issues. These will focus on topics of major interest.

The contents page and abstracts from this journal are available on the Internet before publication at: <http://www.cabi.org/>
