

ERRATUM

JULIUS CAESAR AND THE LARCH: BURNING QUESTIONS AT VITRUVIUS' DE ARCHITECTURA 2.9.15–16 – ERRATUM

MARDEN FITZPATRICK NICHOLS

doi:10.1017/S0009838824000120, Published by Cambridge University Press 24 April 2024

On page 12 of the article, the first sentence of the second paragraph contains the misprint 'statues' instead of the correct 'status'. The corrected version of the sentence should read as follows:

Larch, for Vitruvius, is an index of the unfinished status of the city of Rome and thus, Vitruvius implies, of the project of empire.

The Publisher apologizes for the error.

Reference

Nichols, M.F. JULIUS CAESAR AND THE LARCH: BURNING QUESTIONS AT VITRUVIUS' DE ARCHITECTURA 2.9.15–16. The Classical Quarterly. Published online 2024:1–14. doi:10.1017/S0009838824000120