Morocco under Colonial Rule: French administration of tribal areas 1912 - 1956

Robin Bidwell

The French policy of divide and rule in Morocco was doomed to ultimate failure. The pacification and unification so necessary to the maintenance of cultural divisions undermined the tribal structures upon which the French plan largely depended. Drawing upon unpublished sources and personal interviews, the author assesses the effect of the colonial administration during a vital period and vividly conveys the often eccentric personalities of the protagonists. 0 7146 2877 8 Cased £8.50

A History of the Beja Tribes of the Sudan

Andrew Paul

Leading solitary and dispersed lives in the desert and the mountains, the Beja have remained aloof and independent since Roman times. Only in the last fifty years has an orderly attempt been made to cope with the problems of disease, famine, education and sparse natural resources. This fascinating account of the history and present life-style of the Beja will be of interest to the historian, anthropologist and general reader alike. 0 7146 1710 5 Cased £6.75 illust.

Mahdiism and the Egyptian Sudan

F. R. Wingate

First published in 1891, when Wingate was Assistant Adjutant-General for Intelligence in the Egyptian Army, this almost contemporary account was a record of the military campaign and the first serious attempt to describe the Mahdist movement. It remains a classic text for all students of Africa and British nineteenth-century expansion. With a critical introduction by Prof. P. M. Holt 0 7146 1738 5 Cased £12.60 illust.

The Struggle for Secession 1966-70: A personal account of the Nigerian Civil War.

Ntiyong U. Akpan

Were Biafran secession and the resultant civil war inevitable? Was the one possible without the other. As Chief Secretary to the Military Government and Head of the Civil Service, the author was uniquely placed to provide the first authentic account of this Nigerian tragedy. Closely associated with the Biafran cause until the end of the war, Mr. Akpan offers an objective assessment of people and events and, in particular, of General Ojukwu. 0 7146 2930 8 Cased £5.95

The Making of Northern Nigeria

Sir Charles Orr

The author's intention, when his book first appeared in 1911, was clear: he believed that colonial administrators should render an account of their stewardship as "Nigeria is held in trust by the British nation". Thus, this book is more than a prose version of official records and annual reports, and is a vital piece of source material for the study of Nigeria in the period 1900 - 1910. 0 7146 1707 5 Cased £4.95

Nigerian Studies: The religious and political system of the Yoruba

R. E. Dennett

Dennett's study of the Yoruba is designed to provide a clear and intelligible description of the beliefs and values which underlie traditional practices and customs. Written in 1910, it assesses the religious institutions and relates them to the political and economic life of the people. This fascinating and meticulous record is based upon the author's personal experience and the writings of Nigerian scholars of the early part of this century. 0 7146 1654 0 Cased £6.75 illust.

Parties and Politics in Northern Nigeria

B. J. Dudley

Was it the character of the North's political institutions and that of its representatives in the Lagos government which caused the abandonment of the parliamentary system and the establishment of a military regime? By describing in detail the political history of Northern Nigeria up to the end of 1964 the author provides essential information for an understanding of present day Nigeria.

"...an important contribution to our knowledge of Nigerian Politics." (Africa)

"...Dudley's fascinating study... is itself enormously helpful for any understanding of the tragedy." (Journal of African History)

An important new book in African history:

AFRICA AND THE WEST

Jerah Johnson

Louisiana State University in New Orleans

This innovative book breaks new ground in the field of comparative history by enlarging the conception of western civilization as a purely European phenomenon. It integrates the evolution of European and African history, focusing on political, religious, and economic developments. Professor Johnson brings American history to his analysis, as he discusses the slave trade and the institution of slavery in the New World. An important adjunct to your courses in Western civilization, African history, and Afro-American history.

HISTORY OF AFRICA, FROM EARLIEST TIMES TO 1800

HISTORY OF AFRICA, FROM 1800 TO PRESENT

Harry A. Gailey

California State University, San Jose

Sacrificing detail in favor of analysis of large developments and movements, Professor Gailey's two-volume text is a teachable tool, designed specifically for classroom use. The author organizes his material around geographic sectors and presents a particularly strong coverage of West and South Africa. Recent history, especially the coming of independence, is stressed to a greater degree than in competing texts.

THE PAPERS OF GEORGE EKEM FERGUSON
a fanti official of the government of the gold coast
1890-1897

Edited, annotated and introduced by Kwame Arhin

The shape of northern Ghana today is largely due to the efforts of George Ekem Ferguson, who negotiated all the treaties made by the British Government with northern potentates, and reported in great detail on the movements of other colonial powers. His reports include rich material describing the economic, political and social life and the oral traditions of the Asante peoples as well as those of the Northern and Upper Regions of modern Ghana.

The International Journal of African Historical Studies

Published by Africana Publishing Company for the African Studies Center of Boston University, this is a quarterly journal devoted to the study of man's past in Africa. The articles and reviews range from investigations of pre-historic archaeology to studies of the present problems of the continent, with attention also given to the interaction between Africa and the Afro-American peoples of the New World. The Notes and Documents section regularly publishes shorter studies of valuable original source materials drawn from both written and oral sources.

Recent and forthcoming articles include:

"Arab Migrations to East Africa in Medieval Times" by B. G. Martin

"Education in Northern Ghana, 1906-1940: A Study in Colonial Paradox" by Roger G. Thomas

"France and Zanzibar, 1844 to the 1860s", by Norman R. Bennett

"I. T. A. Wallace-Johnson and the West African Youth League" by Leo Spitzer and LaRay Denzer

"The One Big Union Movement Among Black Workers in South Africa" by Peter L. Wickins

"Secret Talks for the Submission of Haile Selassie and Prince Asfaw Wassen, 1938-1939" by Alberto Sbacchi

Each issue also contains an extensive book review section in which an average of 35 or more titles are reviewed by leading authorities. Together these constitute the most thorough review available of the current literature in the field and are an invaluable forum for the examination of the latest trends in African historical writing.

ANDRÉ DELCOURT

Un volume 24 cm, 304 p., 12 pl., carte dépl. couv. ill. 2 coul. (Bibliothèque d'histoire d'outre-mer. Textes et documents. 20.) 75 F

M. A. Delcourt, déjà bien connu des historiens de l'Afrique de l'Ouest par le beau livre «La France et les établissements français au Sénégal entre 1713 et 1763» que j'avais eu le plaisir de publier en 1952 dans la série des «Mémoires de l'I. F. A. N.» nous apporte aujourd'hui le «Journal d'un voyage fait en Bambouc en 1744» de P. David . . . L'intérêt du texte lui-même est évident, mais il faut souligner combien sont précieuses l'introduction, l'annotation, rédigées avec une précision et une érudition sans failles, et aussi cette longue série d'excursus si riche en renseignements nouveaux . . . A. Delcourt nous apporte un volume bourré de documents inédits et qui restera indispensable aux historiens du Sénégal et de la Mauritanie . . .

CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions to the Journal are welcomed. They may be submitted in either English or French. They should not exceed about 6000 words (excluding footnotes), except with the prior approval of the Editors. A summary of the contents of the article, not exceeding about 300 words in length, should be attached on a separate sheet. Contributors are asked to observe closely the conventions listed in the Notes for Contributors, inside the back cover of Vol. XV, no. 1. It is essential that contributors observe these conventions, as the Journal now goes straight into page proof. This severely limits the number of corrections which are possible.

Page proofs will be sent, if necessary by airmail, to each contributor (or his nominee) provided that the Editors have been given an address through which he can be reached without delay. Corrections should be kept to the minimum, and should be corrections, not new material. If they are to be incorporated in the master proof corrected by the Editors, it is important that the contributor should return the page proofs, by airmail if necessary, to the Editor named when they are sent out (and not to the Cambridge University Press), within ten days of his receipt of them.

Contributors of articles and review articles receive 25 free separates. Additional separates may be obtained at reasonable cost, provided that they are ordered before publication on the special form sent out with the galley proofs.

All contributions and books for review should be addressed to The Editors, The Journal of African History, School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, London, W.C.1.
