Manuscripts

The China Quarterly welcomes the submission of manuscripts from scholars, including research students, on all aspects of contemporary China and from all points of view, including those which deal with Taiwan and the Overseas Chinese. Articles on China prior to 1949 are also welcome, particularly, but not exclusively, when these relate directly to contemporary China or to the history of the Chinese Communist Party. Articles should be submitted, in triplicate, to the editorial office. They should be typed in double spacing, footnotes being placed at the end of the article; preferably conform to the styling of The China Quarterly; and normally not exceed 8–10,000 words in length. A style sheet is available upon request. Submission of a manuscript is taken to imply that it has not previously been published and that it is not currently being considered elsewhere.

The China Quarterly is published by the School of Oriental and African Studies, London University. The views expressed in articles are those of individual authors and do not necessarily represent the views of the School.

Confidential U.S. State Department Central Files CHINA

Internal and Foreign Affairs, 1955–1959

UPA is pleased to announce that it has supplemented its series, Confidential U.S. State Department Central Files: China, with the addition of over 60,000 pages of official U.S. diplomatic papers that were unavailable for research until December 1987. These records on China for the years 1955 through 1959 have just been released to scholars at the National Archives and have never been published in any format until now. UPA's editions of the State Department Central Files for these years are complete and unedited and reproduce all available files on both internal and foreign affairs. No other research collection available today can match the U.S. State Department Central Files for their historical range, their in-depth analysis, and their exhaustive treatment of the political, military, economic, social, and foreign affairs of China.

This is a most important and well-filmed collection of historical materials that offers great promise to researchers.
