INSTITUTE NOTES

OBJECTS OF THE INSTITUTE

The aim of the Royal Institute of Philosophy is to promote the study of philosophy. It pursues this aim by holding lectures, by providing its members with advice on philosophical reading, and by publishing a quarterly journal, Philosophy, in which philosophical problems are discussed, and new books are reviewed, by writers whose care it is to make themselves understood by the public at large as well as by their professional colleagues. The term 'philosophy' covers a wide group of studies, and has been differently pursued at different times. The Royal Institute of Philosophy interprets 'philosophy' as covering ethics, aesthetics, metaphysics, logic, philosophy of science, political and social philosophy, philosophy of religion, philosophy of history, philosophy of education and the philosophies of mind and language. The Institute is not committed to any school or method, but seeks to provide a forum for the rational discussion of questions in all these fields.

The Institute welcomes as members all those who are interested in philosophical problems, irrespective of their professional qualifications.

The annual subscription to the Institute is £1 10s. or $5.00. Members receive the Institute's Journal, Philosophy, published quarterly, and may, of course, attend the Lectures.

Associate Membership is open to non-graduate students at the Universities for a period not exceeding three years, at the rate of 15s. a year. It is also open to research students, provided the research period is continuous with the undergraduate period.

VISITING PHILOSOPHERS

Opportunities for contact with visiting philosophers (inviting them to give lectures, attend meetings, and so forth) are sometimes lost through lack of information. In future Philosophy will publish, in this column, information it receives about overseas philosophers visiting Britain, and philosophers in Britain visiting other countries in a professional capacity. Philosophers concerned are invited to send details (name, permanent university post, place, purpose and duration of temporary stay, etc.) to the Secretary, Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London, W.C.1, as soon as their arrangements are completed.

MORLEY COLLEGE PHILOSOPHY COURSES. Morley College, 61 Westminster Bridge Road, London, S.E.1, will be providing evening courses, in 1967/68, on Moral Philosophy, Metaphysics and Theory of Meaning, and Philosophy since Wittgenstein. Further particulars may be obtained from the Principal of the College, at the above address.

MEMBERS' SUBSCRIPTIONS. Would those Members, and Associate Members, who have not yet paid their subscriptions due on the 1st April, please pay them without delay. The preparation and despatch of reminders become increasingly costly and is an expense which, with the co-operation of Members, the Institute might be saved.

CHANGES OF ADDRESS. The Journal is despatched by the printers who, in the case of Members, are furnished with addressed labels by the Institute. These labels are despatched to the printers at the end of the third week of the month before the issue is due to be published. Would Members therefore please give as long a notice as possible of changes of address. Subscribers should notify their changes of address to Macmillan (Journals) Limited, Brunel Road, Basingstoke, Hants.

Contributions to Philosophy. The Editor is unable to ensure the return of contributions submitted to him unless they are accompanied by stamps or, in the case of contributions from abroad, by international coupons, to cover postage. A self-addressed envelope should also be enclosed.

Because of high printing costs, it is regretted that in future only corrections of printers' errors can be allowed in proofs. Authors are therefore asked to send any alterations, or additions, they may wish to make, to Professor Acton as soon as possible after receiving his letter of acceptance.

Note to Publishers. Books intended for review should be sent to the Editor at the Institute's offices, 14 Gordon Square, London, W.C.1.
