If Juliet had no balcony,
it wouldn't be much of a scene.

The theater needs every trained Juliet it can get. But the theater also needs the talent that creates Juliet's world... from her flowing gowns
to the streets of Verona.

If you're serious about being a "world-creator," enroll at the Goodman School of Drama.
You can prepare yourself for a career in Costume Design, Scene Design, Technical Production,
Acting or Directing and earn an accredited degree
at the same time.

Inquire immediately. Start working toward a place in one of the most exciting of all worlds... the world of the theater.

THE GUARDIAN COVERS THEM ALL—

A war of liberation is fought on many fronts: political, economic, military—and cultural. Every week 4 pages are devoted to radical arts and artists. The movement's work in music, poetry, books, theatre, dance, film, photography and television are all critically reviewed.

The Guardian covers the full range of the movement, from the liberated zones of South Vietnam to the black workers' insurgency in Detroit. Our pages reflect the debates going on within the movement's contested areas: black liberation, the student revolt, women's liberation and the new upsurge within the working class.

Now that you know about us, there's no excuse for being uninformed.

What is "the method"? How long has it been an influence in the theatre? How did it rise to prominence? How is it practiced in America? How has it been distorted? How do some of the leading directors and actors working in American theatre today practice it? These and other important and exciting questions are discussed and analyzed by some of the leading voices in the theatre:

STELLA ADLER	ROBERT LEWIS
ERIC BENTLEY	SANFORD MEISNER
BERTOLT BRECHT	GERALDINE PAGE
FRANCIS FERGUSSON	MICHEL ST-DENIS
PAUL GRAY	LEE STRASBERG
THEODORE HOFFMAN	GORDON ROGOFF

1925 NEGRO PLAYWRIGHTS IN THE AMERICAN THEATRE 1959

Doris E. Abramson. This first attempt to study Negro playwrights whose works blazed a trail for James Baldwin, LeRoi Jones and the protest theater of today recalls a vivid chapter in American literary history. Between 1925, with the first Broadway play by a Negro—Garland Anderson’s Appearances—to the 1959 production of Lorraine Hansberry’s A Raisin in the Sun, the works reflected a desire for cultural assimilation, which would change with the black revolution of the 1960’s.

Miss Abramson examines the individual works of the 15 authors whose plays were produced professionally in those years, relating them to the political, economic and social problems of the times. In an epilogue she discusses the new playwrights who began to emerge after 1959, and found their own identity and drama in a completely new theater.
