THE COUNCIL FOR INTERCULTURAL STUDIES AND PROGRAMS has been formed through the reorganization of the National Council of Associations for International Studies, to carry forward and expand the work of NCAIS in encouraging faculty and student interest in the study of critical world problems, particularly at the undergraduate level. Faculty seminars, workshops, and other efforts to broaden background of college teachers on world areas and international issues will be carried forward as will related activities to develop teaching and study material in such fields as population, Asian philosophies and religions, comparative urban studies, and other areas. Consultative services to higher education consortia and individual institutions developing new programs in intercultural studies will be provided, along with conferences and other opportunities to share experience. The work of the New York State Education Department's Foreign Area Materials Center in New York City, which prepares material for undergraduate study of world areas and international problems, will continue to be sponsored by the new Council. The Council is also initiating in November a monthly Intercultural Studies Information Service which will be made available to all its member organizations and institutions. Organization and institutions interested in becoming associated with the Council are asked to write to the Membership Committee in care of Professor George T. Little, Vermont Council of World Affairs, Trinity College, Burlington, Vermont 05401. Further information is also available at the Center's office in New York City, 60 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

The Archive of Folk Song in the Library of Congress has recently issued a double-LP recording entitled MUSIC OF MOROCCO (L63-L64), edited by Paul Bowles. The album features a wide variety of Moroccan music, from the music of the mountain-dwelling Berbers and the varieties of "town" music to the Sephardic Jewish traditions and the Andaluz "classical" music of the country. A nine-page accompanying pamphlet contains information about each item on the records, as well as a bibliography-discography of Moroccan music, compiled with the assistance of Professor Lois Ann Anderson of the University of Wisconsin. The two-LP set may be obtained in person for $7.50 or by mail for $7.95 from the Recording Laboratory, Music Division, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20540.
