The British Journal of Music Education (ISSN 0265-0517) is published in volumes of three parts in March, July and November. It is a fully refereed international journal which aims to present clear and stimulating research on all aspects of music education. Editorial policy is to encourage careful reflection on teaching and learning in schools, colleges, studios and community settings.

Articles are invited from those in any way concerned with music education and should usually be around 5,000 words long, but shorter research notes or more substantial pieces will be considered. Potential authors are referred to the Instructions for Authors in this issue. Sound recordings, photographs and other illustrations are welcomed.
