The ANTIQUITIES of BRITAIN

THREE Royal Commissions appointed by His Majesty the King are engaged in making an exhaustive survey of all the ancient houses, castles, cathedrals, abbeys, churches, cottages, &c., from pre-historic times until circa 1714 A.D., which make up Great Britain's heritage from the past.

The results of their work are being published in a series of magnificent volumes known as "Inventories of the Ancient and Historical Monuments and Constructions of Britain." These books not only contain an expert descriptive account of every monument but are lavishly illustrated with photographs specially taken for the work.

The latest volume "THE OUTER HEBRIDES, SKYE AND THE SMALL ISLES" deals with an area of great archaeological interest concerning which it has assembled a great deal of original information. Over 300 plans, illustrations, &c. Price 32s. 6d.

'The mere handling of a quarto so richly stored as this publication is a rare pleasure to the book-lover; and when we come to excavate its treasures, its maps, diagrams, plans, and prodigal illustrations, its generosity of information, its ordered arrangement, our admiration for the zeal, skill, and unsparing labour of the Commissioners becomes unqualified', says the New Statesman.

Former volumes include:

| | | |
|--------------------|--------------------|------|
| WESTMINSTER ABBEY. | 220 Plates. | 21s. |
| HUNTINGDONSHIRE. | 166 Plates. | 35s. |
| MERIONETH. | 151 Plates & Figs. | 25s. |
| PEMBROKESHIRE. | 334 Plates & Figs. | 63s. |
| DUMFRIES. | 166 Plates & Figs. | 40s. |

Their wealth of illustrations alone make them cheaper than a collection of post-cards, while their historical scholarship entitles them to a place of honour in any library.

Postage 9d. each extra.

OXFORD BOOKS

Harrison of Ightham

By Sir EDWARD HARRISON.

15s. net.

‘His whole career may now be seen through his own notes and letters, the expressions of a glorious modesty, profound ability and unspoiled enjoyment of every day: these notes are arranged, with a nicety and good-humour comparable to their own, out of a far larger accumulation.’—Nation.

‘The subject of many an official “life” has done less to deserve well of his fellows.’—Daily Telegraph.

Wessex from the Air

By O. G. S. CRAWFORD and ALEX. KEILLER.

50s. net.

This is the first attempt to present a systematic aerial survey of prehistoric and Roman sites in England. The results are remarkable, and the photographs, apart from their interest, are extremely beautiful.

The Iron Age in Italy

By D. RANDALL MACIVER.

84s. net.

‘One of the most outstanding contributions ever made to prehistoric archaeology, and certainly the most notable account of prehistory of any European area which has ever appeared in this, or indeed in any, country.’—Classical Review.
