Robert H. Michel Leading the Republican House Minority

Edited by Frank H. Mackaman and Sean Q. Kelly

“A fascinating, richly documented, and authoritative look at Bob Michel’s congressional career. Editors Frank H. Mackaman and Sean Q. Kelly have done an excellent job both in selecting contributors and developing a compelling narrative to frame these expertly written chapters. Robert H. Michel: Leading the Republican House Minority should be the first book consulted by readers who are curious about Bob Michel’s legislative legacy.”—Jeffrey Crouch, author of The Presidential Pardon Power

Congressional Leaders
432 pages, 20 photographs,
16 illustrations, Cloth $29.95

The Obama Legacy

Bert A. Rockman and
Andrew Rudalevige

“Bert Rockman and Andrew Rudalevige have enlisted a wonderful group of scholars to assess the Obama presidency. The collection of essays not only does much to recount the important lessons and issues faced by President Obama but also analyzes the larger questions of how the presidency impacts race, power, party, and public policy. This book should be considered an essential starting place for anyone who is serious about understanding the Obama presidency and its impact on national politics and governing.”

—Mitchel A. Sollenberger, author of The President Shall Nominate: How Congress Trumps Executive Power

Presidential Appraisals and Legacies
384 pages, 7 illustrations, Cloth $34.95

An Anti-Federalist Constitution

The Development of Dissent in the Ratification Debates

Michael J. Faber

“A monumental achievement. Based on a mountain of new research, Faber gives us the most comprehensive analysis of the Anti-Federalist mind ever. The result is a penetrating examination of the three strains of Anti-Federalism and the revealing story of their evolution. The culminating ‘Anti-Federalist Constitution’ is insightful and will guide scholarship for years to come.”—Robert W. T. Martin, author of Government by Dissent: Protest, Resistance, and Radical Democratic Thought in the Early American Republic

American Political Thought
536 pages, Cloth $49.95

The Politics of War Powers

The Theory and History of Presidential Unilateralism

Sarah Burns

“A careful and illuminating study of the expansion of the president’s war-making powers at the expense of an often neglectful Congress. Beginning with a discussion of the founders’ thoughtful use of Montesquieu’s understanding of political moderation, Professor Burns then traces presidential understanding of these powers from Washington to the present. She argues convincingly that legal attempts to justify growing presidential control too often today replace debate and discussion about the prudence of military action.”—Mark Blitz, Fletcher Jones Professor of Political Philosophy, Claremont Graduate University

312 pages, Cloth $27.95

All Roads Lead to Power The Appointed and Elected Paths to Public Office for US Women

Kaitlin Sidorsky

“In this fascinating and well-researched book, Kaitlin Sidorsky begins to fill a significant gap in our knowledge by focusing on the highly understudied subject of women who serve in appointed office. Her book raises important questions and challenges for scholars and activists concerned about increasing women’s involvement and influence in American politics.”—Susan J. Carroll, coauthor of A Seat at the Table: Congresswomen’s Perspectives on Why Their Presence Matters

Studies in Government and Public Policy
248 pages, 18 illustrations, Cloth $34.95

Moms in Chief The Rhetoric of Republican Motherhood and the Spouses of Presidential Nominees, 1992–2016

Tammy R. Vigil

“An insightful examination of the politics and rhetoric of presidential spouses and aspiring presidential spouses. It breaks new ground in exploring the role these unique political actors play in the American political process. Tammy Vigil has written the authoritative study on this subject that scholars in the field will be citing for decades.”—Brian Frederick, associate professor and chair of the Department of Political Science at Bridgewater State University and coauthor of American Presidential Candidate Spouses: The Public’s Perspective

272 pages, Cloth $29.95

After Reagan Bush, Dukakis, and the 1988 Election

John J. Pitney, Jr.

“Transports the reader back in time to the hard-fought presidential race between George H. W. Bush and Michael Dukakis. Pitney’s retelling highlights the candidates, issues, and media environment of that time and juxtaposes them with our current political world. This engaging, well-written book is much more than an expert analysis of one memorable election from thirty years ago—it’s a thoughtful exploration of how much, for better and for worse, our politics has changed since then.”—Jeffrey Crouch, author of The Presidential Pardon Power

American Presidential Elections
272 pages, 5 photographs, Cloth $37.50

The Conservation Constitution

The Conservation Movement and Constitutional Change, 1870–1930

Kimberly K. Smith

“The Conservation Constitution provides the first in-depth account of the constitutional developments surrounding conservation policies during the long Progressive Era. No book until now has focused on the intersection between the conservation policies and the constitutional conflicts of the time. The book fills a long-missing piece in US environmental-legal history, and it does so with erudition, originality, and sensitivity to the nuances of evolving legal doctrine.”—Noga Morag-Levine, professor of law and the George Roumell Faculty Scholar, College of Law, Michigan State University

Environment and Society
344 pages, Cloth $39.95

The Lost Soul of the American Presidency The Decline into Demagoguery and the Prospects for Renewal

Stephen F. Knott

“How did the founders’ vision of a dignified presidency that elevates the republic evolve into its current status as the national seat of direct populist leadership often appealing to and enabling some of the worst instincts of our citizens? As Knott so ably describes and analyzes, it didn’t start with President Trump, who represents the culmination of a long and troubling trend in our democratic republic. To understand how we got to our current situation, no work of scholarship better tells that story. A must-read.”

—Mark J. Rozell, author of Executive Privilege: Presidential Power, Secrecy, and Accountability
312 pages, Cloth $39.95

Advising Nixon The White House Memos of Patrick J. Buchanan

Lori Cox Han

“Lori Cox Han’s Advising Nixon is essential reading to understand one of the most significant political advisors in modern U.S. history. We see Pat Buchanan in all of his roles: strategist, campaign confidant, communications specialist, sentiment barometer of Nixon’s Silent Majority—even future presidential candidate. There is something new and interesting on each page!”—Luke A. Nichter, coeditor of The Nixon Tapes: 1971–1972

368 pages, Cloth $39.95

A Vindication of Politics On the Common Good and Human Flourishing

Matthew D. Wright

“You will be hearing again from Matthew Wright. This brilliant book takes up some of the thorniest issues in political theory: The relation between the individual and common flourishing, and whether political association is good in itself or just a means to other ends. The approach is fresh, and I will long be pondering its insights.”—J. Budziszewski, University of Texas at Austin, author of Commentary on Thomas Aquinas’s Treatise on Law

American Political Thought
232 pages, Cloth $39.95

Repugnant Laws Judicial Review of Acts of Congress from the Founding to the Present

Keith E. Whittington

“Whittington’s study reminds readers that the Supreme Court has long acted as a nation-builder and an arm of the national state, operating within partisan politics. In stressing ‘the conditional quality of judicial independence,’ Whittington offers the counsel of perspective on our current era of partisan polarization and strained inter-branch relations.”

—Nancy Maveety, author of Queen’s Court: Judicial Power in the Rehnquist Era
Constitutional Thinking
432 pages, 13 illustrations, Cloth $39.95
