Notes and News.

fection, and he has them still, and but little, as far as I can see, impaired by the addition of fifty years to his age. He has a great memory, and can easily recur to and make use of what he knows. He has considerable powers of conversation, but without obtruding himself to the exclusion of others, as is the case with too many of those who are reputed to be good talkers. What he says is full of happy illustrations, with, at times, a good deal of not ill-natured sarcasm. In public speaking he is collected, has great command of language, and uses it correctly, but not equal to what he is in ordinary society. In writing, his style is pure, and free from all affectation, yet in general not sufficiently concise. His reading has been extensive; he is well acquainted with modern, and moderately so with the ancient, languages. His professional writings contain a vast deal of information, but it is more as to what he has taken from other authors than as to the result of his own experience and observation. That he is thoroughly acquainted with his own profession cannot be doubted, for it would not have been possible for him otherwise to retain for so long a period the high place which he has occupied."

On the 32nd July, at Moorcroft, Hillingdon, Middlesex, died George J. Stilwell, M.D., eldest son of G. Stilwell, Esq., Epsom, Surrey, the beloved Physician to the establishment. The loss which the medical profession, and especially the psychological branch of it, has sustained in the premature death of Dr. George Stilwell, is one which will not be easily replaced. At an early age he was suddenly called upon to fill the place of one who occupied a prominent position in his profession, and most worthily and honourably has he acquitted himself and maintained the reputation already belonging to the honoured name he bore. His modest and gentlemanly bearing was combined with an excellent disposition and good sound common sense, and won for him the good opinion and confidence of all who knew him; while those of his own profession who were brought in contact with him felt that they were dealing with a thoroughly upright man, upon whose opinion they could rely and in whose hands they were safe.—British Medical Journal, August 10.

The copies of The Journal of Mental Science are regularly sent by Book-post (prepaid) to the ordinary Members of the Association, and to our Home and Foreign Correspondents; and Dr. Robertson will be glad to be informed of any irregularity in their receipt or overcharge in the Postage.

The following EXCHANGE JOURNALS have been regularly received since our last publication:

The Annales Médico-Psychologiques; the Zeitschrift für Psychiatrie; the Correspondenz Blatt der deutschen Gesellschaft für Psychiatrie; Archivo Italiano per le Malattie Nervose e per le Alienazioni Mentali; Medizinische Jahrbücher (Zeitschrift der K. K. Gesellschaft der Aerzte in Wien); the Edinburgh Medical Journal; the American Journal of Insanily; the Quarterly Journal of Psychological Medicine, and Medical Jurisprudence, edited by William A. Hammond, M.D. (New York); the British and Foreign Medico-Chirurgical Review; the Dublin Quarterly Journal; the Medical Mirror; the British Medical Journal; the Medical Circular; the Journal of the Society of Arts; and New York Medical Journal. Also the Morningside Mirror; the York Star; Excelsior, or the Murray Royal Institution Literary Gazette.

On and after the 1st of October great facilities are given for the transmission of periodicals between England and the United States of America, by Book Post. We trust our American Correspondents will avail themselves of them.

We have also received the County Union and Anglo-Jamaican Advertiser, June 7.

Press of matter compels us to defer the insertion of an able analysis (with remarks) of the recent Act of Parliament relating to the Irish District Asylums.

Dr. Alexander Robertson, of the Town's Hospital and Asylum, Glasgow, has sent us a specimen of a very clever screw button for fastening dresses, and which will probably supersede the old Hanwell pattern. Dr. Alexander Robertson will be glad to communicate with any member of the Association who may wish a copy.
