Merchants and Manufacturers

Studies in the Changing Structure of Nineteenth-Century Marketing

Glenn Porter and Harold C. Livesay

In the first systematic history of the emergence of modern marketing methods, the authors trace changing methods of distribution throughout the nineteenth-century. They show how the increasing concentration of production and population, coupled with the demands of advancing technology, led to the pre-eminence of the manufacturer and the decline of the independent merchant. $11.50

New Books from Greenwood in AMERICAN HISTORY

CITY AND COUNTRY: Rural Responses to Urbanization in the 1920s

by Don S. Kirschner
Simon Fraser University

$11.50

This carefully documented study of rural America's response to the process of urbanization records, explores, and analyzes the rural-urban conflict in America during the decade 1919-1929. Within the framework of the rural problems of the period, the book vividly describes the migration of the farm population to the cities, the influx of European immigrants, and the attitudes of rural America toward the city.

(Contributions in American History, No. 4)

CRITICAL STUDIES IN ANTEBELLUM SECTIONALISM: Essays in American Political and Economic History

by Robert R. Russel, Emeritus
Western Michigan University

February 1972 $10.00

These important essays focus on such matters as the bitter slavery controversy in the territories and the factional conflict over a transcontinental railroad to the Pacific, as well as on other crucial issues in the pre-Civil War period.

(Contributions in American History, No. 7)

HORACE WHITE, NINETEENTH CENTURY LIBERAL

by Joseph Logsdon
Louisiana State University
New Orleans

$13.50

Through the career of Horace White, a prominent Republican and editor-in-chief of the Chicago Tribune, this book reassesses both the rise and fall of Radical Republicanism and the causes for disillusionment among nineteenth-century laissez-faire intellectuals.

(Contributions in American History, No. 10)

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO: A History of Their Relations

by Harvey A. Levenstein
Teachers College
Columbia University $11.00

The first thorough treatment of the relationship that developed between Mexican and United States labor organizations from the rise of the Mexican trade union movement in 1907 to the present.

THE BONUS MARCH: An Episode of the Great Depression

by Roger Daniels
State University of New York
at Fredonia

$14.00

The protest of the bonus-seeking veterans has been a little-studied aspect of the Great Depression. Here it is dealt with as a single complex of events that pitted government against veteran on an issue that affected the political, social, and economic climate of American life for a decade.

INSTITUTIONAL CHANGE AND AMERICAN ECONOMIC GROWTH

LANCE E. DAVIS and DOUGLASS C. NORTH

Presents a model for examining problems of institutional change and applies it to American economic development in the 19th and 20th centuries.

Professors Davis and North argue that if external economic factors make an increase in income possible but not attainable within the existing institutional structure, new organizations must be developed to achieve the potential in income. Their model is designed to explain the type and timing of these changes.

The authors review the external causes of changes in American economic history over the past 175 years, and apply their model to land policy and agriculture, financial markets, transportation, manufacture, service industries and labor. $10.95

PRIVATE INVESTMENT IN INDIA, 1900–1939

AMIYA KUMAR BAGCHI

A study of private investment in India and its determinants, 1900–1939. It develops a simple theoretical framework and attempts to isolate the influence on private investment of factor supplies, as against demand conditions. All major manufacturing industries are studied in detail. $19.50

ALIENATION OF CHURCH WEALTH IN MEXICO

JAN BAZANT

Edited and translated by MICHAEL P. COSTELOE

In 1856 the Mexican government passed laws to regulate all spheres of clerical activity, and nationalized and redistributed ecclesiastical property and capital.

Professor Bazant describes in detail the implementation of the laws and subsequent decrees. He traces the effects of redistribution of Church wealth involving complex transactions which continued into the years of the Maximilian empire. $17.50

Newcomen Awards in Business History

Presented by

THE NEWCOMEN SOCIETY IN NORTH AMERICA

in cooperation with

THE BUSINESS HISTORY REVIEW

¶ Two Newcomen Awards in Business History are offered annually for articles published in the Business History Review. The First Prize, of $250, is awarded the article judged, according to the rules outlined below, to be the best of the year. The Special Award, of $100, is for the best article by an author who is not more than 35 years of age and who has not published a book.

¶ Prize articles are selected by a panel of judges composed of a representative of The Newcomen Society and members of the Advisory Board of the Business History Review. No member of the Advisory Board or editorial staff shall be eligible for a prize, and articles so authored will not be considered in the judging. Authors eligible for the Special Award shall also be eligible for the First Prize, but in no event shall both prizes be awarded for the same article. The Advisory Board reserves the right to withhold the Special Award in the event that eligible articles do not, in the Board's judgment, merit prize consideration. The awards program is administered by the editorial offices of the magazine.

¶ Criteria for selection include: originality, value, breadth, and interest of contribution, quality of research materials and methods, and quality of presentation.

THE FREDERICK JACKSON TURNER AWARD
of the
ORGANIZATION OF AMERICAN HISTORIANS

This yearly prize for the best monograph in American history, submitted by an author who has not previously published in book form, originated in 1958 as the MVHA Prize Studies Award.

PRIZE: $1500 cash award plus publication as award winner and usual royalties from University of Kentucky Press

PUBLICATION: Manuscripts retained in the competition are assured of publication by the University of Kentucky Press

DECISION: Decision on publication is reached within six weeks

TIMETABLE: Awards are announced in April. Manuscripts received by December 1 are considered for the next year's award

Wage RestraintA Study of Incomes Policies in Western Europe*

Lloyd Ulman and Robert J. Flanagan

Incomes policies are designed to restrain the growth of wages, prices, and at times profit margins by the publication of a guide for the noninflationary development of incomes. Many forms have been tried in Europe, none too successfully. The authors examine here some of these policies in the belief that their work will aid economic policy makers both here and abroad.

180 pages $7.50

Fascism and the Industrial Leadership in Italy, 1919-1940A Study in the Expansion of Private Power under Fascism*

Roland Sarti

There is no more controversial topic in the study of fascism than the nature of its ties to big business. Challenging many widely accepted notions about that relationship, Roland Sarti shows Mussolini in the unfamiliar guise of mediator between the self-styled revolutionaries and the industrialists. Political realist that he was, the Duce proved much more receptive to considerations of power than to demands for social justice.

180 pages $8.00

Business Cycles and Their Causes

Wesley Clair Mitchell

"Dr. Mitchell's descriptions and explanation of the sequence of interrelated changes that make up the cycle have become part of the accepted classics of economics. . . . They are almost part of the folklore of the country, so thoroughly have they been incorporated into our thinking. It is good to have the original piece that has been translated (and paraphrased) so frequently." — Journal of Political Economy

First published in 1941 and now reissued as Volume 29 of the California Library Reprint Series.

226 pages $9.75

Now available in paperback

The Political Economy of Change

Warren F. Ilchman and Norman Thomas Uphoff

"An important landmark in the development of an integrated social science, and everyone who reads it seriously will profit by it."

— Kenneth E. Boulding, American Political Science Review

"Ought to be seriously read by students of the new political economy. . . . It is an excellent book, one well worth reading."

Bank Expansion in Virginia, 1962-1966

The Holding Company and the Direct Merger

By PAUL L. FOSTER, George Washington University 192 pp. (tnt.) $12.50
(Graduate School of Business Administration, University of Virginia)

The Buck-Holland Act, passed in 1962, liberalized branch banking in Virginia and permitted bank management to choose between the holding company or the merger or a combination of the two as a method of expansion. Foster's work studies bank expansion and the many facets of commercial bank management both in and out of Virginia during the last fifty years, and it illustrates how a legislative environment can influence the organization of commercial banking, the kind and extent of competition, and the range of public services available. This history of the advantages and disadvantages of the two methods of expansion is a most valuable case study in the difficult problem of industrial combination in the American economy today.

Approaches to American Economic History

Edited by GEORGE ROGERS TAYLOR, Amherst College, and LUCIUS F. ELLSWORTH, University of West Florida. xiv, 135 pp., bibliog. Cloth, $7.50; paper, $2.25
(Eleutherian Mills-Hagley Foundation)

This series of eight lectures by distinguished economic historians studies in detail current approaches to the study of economic history. Each lecture presents an objective description of one method and shows how it is useful and important. These lectures will allow the historian to become acquainted with the various traditional and the more modern methods and then to select that approach or combination of approaches which best fits his data and satisfies his requirements.
