PS: Political Science & Politics New Virtual Issues from APSA Now Available!

Free Virtual Issues Available!

APSA has released two free virtual issues! This new publishing feature combines related research and essays from previous issues of APSA journals. These virtual issues from PS are made available online in partnership with Cambridge University Press. Read them today!

Navigating the Profession: Sage Advice from the Pages of PS

The first virtual issue of PS: Political Science & Politics brings together some of PS's most highly cited articles about the profession. This practical material spans numerous topics that especially apply to young scholars. From "ideas and debates" of political science as a vocation, to the "nuts and bolts" of preparing a literature review and publishing as a graduate student, this virtual issue boasts something both for scholars just beginning their studies and for academics early in their careers.

Read Navigating the Profession today at journals.cambridge.org/ps/virtualissue/1.

Capitol Hill Insights: Voices from the Congressional Fellowship Program

The second virtual issue of PS: Political Science & Politics is "Capitol Hill Insights." The issue features articles written by alumni of APSA's Congressional Fellowship Program and published in PS between 2010 and 2015. Each of the 24 articles pivots to a unique perspective of the fellowship experience, providing rich details and first-hand anecdotes that clarify and explain how Congress and government work.

Read Capitol Hill Insights today for free at journals.cambridge.org/ps/virtualissue/2.

Timely APSA Report Explores Inequalities in the Americas

The Double Bind: The Politics of Racial and Class Inequalities in the Americas

The 2016 task force report "The Double Bind" investigates

how race and class interact to produce political, social, and material inequalities in the nations of the Americas. Political science has begun to pay greater attention to the causes and consequences of inequality, but the recent literature on inequality in political science has focused on how rising income inequality affects political representation. The task force delves further.

The authors grapple with both the problem of rising socioeconomic inequality as well as the multifaceted racial gaps that exist throughout the Americas. They examine how race and class inequalities are epiphenomena of politics. They organized their inquiries around the role of institutions, social movements, party politics, and the mobilizing power of group memberships. They found that low socioeconomic status and the incentives of the party system hinder ethnoraclial minorities from translating their demographic potential and civic participation into meaningful socioeconomic gains. This disparity persists even in countries where minorities represent a large percentage of the population and participate actively in elections.
