CHURCH EMBATTLED
Religious Controversy in Mid-Victorian England

by M. A. Crowther

This book tells of the Broad Church challenge within the Anglican Church of the 19th century to orthodoxy and the unedifying quarrels which followed, the effect of which was to distract the Church's attention from more fruitful fields of work and to alienate it further from the sympathies of the people.

(1970) $9.25

DYNAMIC CHURCHMEN OF CHANGE

Samuel Davies, Apostle of Dissent in Colonial Virginia

by GEORGE WILLIAM PILCHER

Poet, pamphleteer, educator, influential writer of sermons, compelling pulpit orator, and America's first important hymn-writer—Samuel Davies was all of these. Now, in this first biography of the Great Awakening divine, students of church history have the engaging story of a man who accomplished more, in some respects, than did his towering contemporary Johnathan Edwards. / 1971, 248 pages, $9.75

William G. Brownlow Fighting Parson of the Southern Highlands

by E. MERTON COULTER
Introduction by James W. Patton

Linked with the surging battles of religion, war, politics, and journalism in America from the time of John Quincy Adams to Rutherford B. Hayes, Brownlow created a storm in each of his many activities. Church historians will welcome this reissue of Brownlow's only full-length biography—a volume Saturday Review described as "Important for its studies of Southern Methodism, Tennessee politics, Civil War hysteria, and Reconstruction abuses." / 1971, 458 pages, $6.50

THE CORRESPONDENCE OF LORD ACTON AND RICHARD SIMPSON

Volume 1

Edited by JOSEF L. ALTHOLZ and DAMIAN McELRATH

This is the first of three volumes presenting the correspondence of the two principal figures in the Liberal Catholic movement of nineteenth-century England. It covers the letters from February 1858 to August 1859, a period during which they collaborated in editing the Rambler. The story of their partnership in the Rambler and its successor, the Home and Foreign Review, is the story of the unsuccessful attempt to bridge the gap between the Roman Catholic Church and the secular principles of the time.

The Acton-Simpson correspondence summarizes not only the history of Liberal Catholicism but also of other religious and intellectual movements of the century. $16.00

ALIENATION OF CHURCH WEALTH IN MEXICO

JAN BAZANT

Edited and translated by MICHAEL P. COSTELOE

In 1856 the Mexican government passed laws to regulate all spheres of clerical activity, and nationalized and redistributed ecclesiastical property and capital.

Professor Bazant describes in detail the implementation of the laws and subsequent decrees. He traces the effects of redistribution of Church wealth involving complex transactions which continued into the years of the Maximilian empire. (Cambridge Latin American Studies 11) $17.50
