Catherine Rudder Named Executive Director

At its April 24th meeting, the Council appointed Catherine Rudder executive director of APSA.

She will fill the vacancy left by Thomas E. Mann, who is moving to the Brookings Institution where he will serve as senior fellow and director of the Governmental Studies Program. Rudder will assume the executive director's position following the 1987 annual meeting in September.

In announcing his choice to the Council, APSA President Samuel P. Huntington reported that members of the Search Committee "unanimously agreed" that their "clear first choice was Dr. Catherine Rudder." Huntington explained that after the Search Committee met, he "carried out an extensive range of consultations of people active in the profession, including a substantial number of former Presidents, and I have found virtually unanimous enthusiasm for Dr. Rudder's candidacy."

Currently associate director of APSA, Rudder directs the Congressional Fellowship Program and edits PS. As adjunct professor at Smith College, she teaches a seminar on public policy for Smith College interns in Washington, DC, and she serves on the Executive Committee of APSA's Legislative Studies Section. She has written several articles on tax policy making and is a frequent lecturer at Brookings, the Governmental Affairs Institute of the Office of Personnel Management, the Internal Revenue Service, and other institutions.

tion—the Congressional Fellowship Program and PS,” Tom Mann said. “The Congressional Fellowship Program has never been as well run as it is today,” he continued.

“Under her leadership, PS has become a central organ of our profession, featuring spirited debates on the nature of our enterprise and substantively rich reports on scholarly findings,” Mann said.

Prior to coming to APSA in 1981, Rudder was chief of staff for then Rep. Wyche Fowler of Georgia. She is a former Congressional Fellow and was assistant professor at the University of Georgia from 1973 until 1977.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Emory University, Rudder received her PhD from Ohio State University in 1973.

In addition to Huntington, the Search Committee was composed of Martha Derthick (University of Virginia), John Ferejohn (Stanford University), Helen Ingram (University of Arizona), Harold Jacobson (University of Michigan), and Michael Preston (University of Southern California). □
