Variation in German

A Critical Approach to German Sociolinguistics

STEPHEN BARBOUR and PATRICK STEVENSON

This book examines the interrelations between language and society in the German-speaking countries. Topics include the history and development of the German language, German as a minority language, traditional dialects, the influence of English on German, and German in East and West. It is the most detailed account yet to appear in English of German sociolinguistics.

Conversational Competence and Social Development

IOANNA DIMITRACOPOULOU

This book provides new insight into the development of the child's ability to become a competent participant in conversation. The author combines a pragmatic analysis of the functions language can perform with an innovative and extensive empirical investigation of the development of young children's language use and socio-cognitive skills.

The Acquisition of two Languages from Birth: a Case Study

ANNICK DE HOUWER

This book is one of the most detailed reports of bilingual first language acquisition to appear. It first provides a comprehensive review of previous studies of the subject, and then an account of one child's development of independent linguistic systems for the two languages the child is learning.

A Perceptual Study of Intonation

An Experimental-Phonetic Approach to Speech Melody

J. 'E HART, R. COLLIER and A. COHEN

This book presents an experimental-phonetic approach to the study of intonation, defined as the ensemble of pitch variations in speech. The authors give a detailed explication of the analysis of intonation by means of the stylisation method.

Propositional Attitudes

An Essay on Thoughts and How We Ascribe Them

MARK RICHARD

This book makes a stimulating contribution to the philosophy of languages and philosophy of mind. Mark Richard defends the view that propositions are structured and that propositional structure is 'psychologically real', and then develops a subtle view of propositions and attitude ascription.

THE LINGUISTICS ASSOCIATION

The Linguistics Association of Great Britain was founded in 1959 to promote the study of linguistics and to provide for its members both a forum for discussion and facilities for co-operation in furtherance of their interest in linguistics. The Association holds annual spring and autumn meetings, at which original papers are presented in plenary sessions and in workshops devoted to special interests.

Persons interested in linguistics are eligible for election as members, subject to the approval of the Committee. Subscribing members may receive the Journal of Linguistics at a substantial discount. Application forms for membership may be obtained from the Membership Secretary, Dr R. D. Borsley, Dept. of Linguistics, University College of North Wales, Bangor, Gwynedd LL57 2DG.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

President: Professor Keith Brown, University of Essex, Department of Language and Linguistics, Wivenhoe Park, Colchester CO4 3SQ.
