A History and Philosophy of the Social Sciences

PETER T. MANICAS

This ambitious critical history, combining wide-ranging historical scholarship with a firm location in the current theoretical dilemmas of the social sciences, argues that the defining characteristic of social science, both historically and in the present, is ideology.

352 pages, £29.50 (0 631 15258 X)

Realism, Meaning and Truth

CRISPIN WRIGHT

These eleven essays all concern the grounds for and implications of the form of anti-realism that urges that truth may not intelligibly transcend evidence. The essays include examinations of the arguments of Sir Peter Strawson, John McDowell and Michael Dummett.

400 pages, £27.50 (0 631 14221 5)

Fact, Science and Morality

Essays on A. J. Ayer's Language, Truth and Logic

Edited by GRAHAM MACDONALD and CRISPIN WRIGHT

These essays celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of A. J. Ayer's Language, Truth and Logic, a book which has been of major importance in spreading the philosophy of logical positivism to an English-speaking readership. Each essay discusses a topic raised by Ayer, assessing the contemporary philosophical relevance of the positivist enterprise.

Hegel, Nietzsche and the Criticism of Metaphysics

STEPHEN HOULGATE

This study of Hegel and Nietzsche evaluates and compares their work through their common criticism of the metaphysical tradition. In choosing a theme so fundamental to both philosophers' work, Houlgate has established a framework within which to evaluate the Hegel-Nietzsche debate and to make the first full study of Nietzsche's view of Hegel's work.

Emerson's Epistemology

The Argument of Essays

DAVID VAN LEER

In this, the first book to treat Emerson as a serious philosopher, Dr Van Leer argues that Emerson's essays can be read quite seriously in terms of their philosophical content, and that such readings show the works to be far more carefully structured than has usually been assumed.

The Philosophy of Mind

An Introduction

PETER SMITH and O. R. JONES

In this lucid textbook for beginning students of philosophy, Part I discusses the Cartesian dualist view, while Parts II and III consider the broadly functionalist type of physicalism which has Aristotelian roots. At each stage, theories are compared with rival historical and contemporary views.

Cassirer: Symbolic Forms and History

John Michael Krois

In the first systematic examination of Cassirer's philosophy as a whole, John Michael Krois not only analyses Cassirer's theoretical philosophy and his studies of the history of philosophy but also demonstrates Cassirer's relevance to the intellectual and political climate of the modern world. £19.95

Habermas and the Dialectic of Reason

David Ingram

Ingram summarises the themes of Habermas's masterwork Theorie des kommunikativen Handelns, placing them in the context of the philosopher's other work, relating them to poststructuralism, hermeneutics, and Neo-Aristotelianism, and surveying what other critics have said about Habermas. £19.95

Heidegger and the Philosophy of Mind

Frederick A. Olafson

In this highly original book based on important new material, Frederick A. Olafson approaches Heidegger's thought through its critique of the philosophies of consciousness and of human subjectivity that were elaborated by philosophers from Descartes to Husserl. £20.00

Nietzsche's Teaching An Interpretation of "Thus Spoke Zarathustra"

Laurence Lampert

The first comprehensive interpretation of Nietzsche's Thus Spoke Zarathustra — Laurence Lampert's chapter-by-chapter commentary on Nietzsche's magnum opus clarifies not only Zarathustra's narrative structure but also the development of Nietzsche's thinking as a whole. £27.50

Desire, Dialectic, and Otherness

An Essay on Origins

William Desmond

Many philosophers since Hegel have been worried that philosophy inevitably favours sameness over otherness, or identity over difference. William Desmond offers a constructive approach to the problem of difference and otherness, arguing that otherness is more important to philosophy than many philosophers realize. £27.50

Slightly Beyond Skepticism Social Science and the Search for Morality

The Nature of Social Laws

Machiavelli to Mill

ROBERT BROWN

The first full study of the development of the idea that human social behaviour is governed by laws comparable to the laws of natural science. The book forms a significant contribution to understanding the debate between those who believe such laws can apply to society, and those who believe a different methodology is appropriate in the social sciences.

Information for Authors

Prospective authors should send their contributions, typed and double-spaced on quarto or A4 paper, to the Editor, Mr Renford Bambrough, Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0AG. They should retain a second copy for the purpose of checking proofs. Articles submitted should conform to Hart's Rules for Compositors and Readers (Oxford University Press, 1967). The Editor may alter manuscripts wherever necessary to make them conform to the stylistic and bibliographical conventions of the journal. Single quotation marks should be used except where there is a quotation within another. The titles of books and journals should be underlined (i.e. to be printed in italics), as should foreign words. Titles of articles should be in single quotation marks.

Notes and references will be printed as footnotes and should be typed (double-spacing) on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively. They should be referred to in the text by superscripts. Citations should be as follows:

The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless they are accompanied by stamps, or in the case of contributions from abroad, by international coupons, to cover postage. A self-addressed envelope should also be enclosed.

Only corrections of printer's errors can be allowed in proofs. Authors are therefore asked to send any alterations or additions to Mr Bambrough as soon as possible after receiving his letter of acceptance.

Authors of articles, discussion papers and review articles will receive twenty-five offprints free of charge. Additional offprints can be ordered when proofs are returned by arrangement with the Institute.

Books for review should be sent to the Editor at the Institute and not to Cambridge University Press. Publishers are asked to note that non-philosophical works are not reviewed in Philosophy.

Authors' corrected proofs should be sent to Mr Bambrough at St John's College, Cambridge. All other correspondence should be addressed to the Institute and not to any address in Cambridge.
