Beyond Justice

AGNES HELLER

In an ambitious and original anatomy of the ethical and political concept of justice, Agnes Heller takes as her cue Hegel's description of modernity in which politics and ethics have fallen out of harmony with each other. She explores the nature of this breakdown with reference to the work of Kirkegaard, Goethe, Rousseau, Hegel, Kant, Diderot and Hutcheson.
360 pages, £25.00 (0 631 15206 7)

On Ethics and Economics

AMARTYA SEN

Amartya Sen's contributions to economics and ethics have greatly strengthened the theoretical bases of both disciplines; in this elegant critique he argues that welfare economics can be substantively enriched by paying more explicit attention to ethics, and that modern ethical studies can also benefit from a closer contact with economics.
136 pages, £14.95 (0 631 15494 9)

Trying to Make Sense

PETER WINCH

These essays consider a wide variety of interlocking topics concerning language, thought, aesthetics, metaphysics, ethics, psychology and cultural anthropology. All are strongly influenced by Peter Winch's reading of Wittgenstein, and the aim throughout is to elucidate the sense in these different areas of human thought and conduct.
224 pages, £27.50 (0 631 15336 5)

Imperatives

C. L. HAMBLIN

This book is the first sustained treatment of imperatives. Hamblin gives a clear and comprehensive survey of the huge variety of imperatives, discussing their differences and similarities and inconsistencies. He ends by examining their role in dialogue and the way these roles differentiate types of imperative.
272 pages, £25.00 (0 631 15193 1)

Berkeley

JONATHAN DANCY

'To write accurately about the history of philosophy, to write illuminatingly about philosophical issues and to write clearly and simply about anything are all three difficult tasks. In this book Jonathan Dancy combines all three with remarkable success. Here is something for all interested people, whether beginners or professionals.' J. O. Urmson

Relativism and the Social Sciences

ERNEST GELLNER

'Gellner writes with a razor. His first essay on positivism and Hegelianism... is simply brilliant.'

The Times Higher Education Supplement

'... one of the pleasures of reading Gellner is just that he always finds a more apt phrase, a sharper comment, a better example...'

The Relevance of the Beautiful and Other Essays

HANS-GEORG GADAMER

Edited by ROBERT BERNASCONI

This volume makes available, for the first time in English, the most important of Hans-Georg Gadamer's extensive writings on art and literature. The principal text included is 'The Relevance of the Beautiful', Gadamer's most sustained treatment of philosophical aesthetics. The eleven other essays focus particularly on the challenge issued by modern painting and literature to our customary ideas of art.

Patterns of Moral Complexity

CHARLES E. LARMORE

Charles Larmore aims to recover three pervasive and fundamental forms of moral complexity which moral and political philosophers have too often neglected. The book addresses some of the central issues which concern moral and political thinking today and attempts to restore to that thinking greater flexibility and a necessary sensitivity to our common experience.

Philosophy from Oxford

A New Aristotle Reader

Edited by J. L. Ackrill

In a single volume which will be of service to philosophy students at all levels and to their teachers, this reader provides modern, accurate translations of the texts necessary for a careful study of most aspects of Aristotle's philosophy.

0 19 875069 2, Clarendon Press/Princeton University Press, cloth £29.50
0 19 875061 7, paperback £8.95

Death of the Soul

From Descartes to the Computer

William Barrett

Examines the (diminishing) place of the spirit in philosophical thought from Descartes to the present day. It is a lucid, lively and accessible account which is intended for the interested layman and student.

0 19 217758 3, cloth £15.00
0 19 283059 7 paperback £4.95

Descartes

Tom Sorell

Many books about Descartes confine themselves to discussing his philosophy, but this study presents the whole man—one who above all was the advocate and practitioner of a new mathematical approach to physics. The author argues that Descartes's philosophical work was meant to provide a justification of this approach, and not purely as treatise on the nature of self, the mind, God, and matter.

0 19 287635 X, Oxford Paperbacks £2.95

Past Masters

Essays in Ancient Philosophy

Michael Frede

These essays deal with epistemological issues faced by the Stoics and the Sceptics, and with several branches of learning—medicine and grammar—that were once closely linked to philosophy. This collection confirms the author's reputation as a leading figure in this field.

0 19 824917 9, Clarendon Press, cloth £32.50
0 19 824940 3, paperback £11.50

Philosophical Papers

Volume II

David Lewis

This is the second collection of philosophical essays by one of the most innovative, influential, and important philosophers now writing in English. The papers in this volume focus on causation and several other closely related topics including perception, free will, and rational decision.

A THEORY OF VALUE AND OBLIGATION Robin Attfield

This book presents and elaborates a series of interrelated solutions to problems of moral philosophy from the nature of a worthwhile life, located here in the development of the full generic capacities of the individual, to the status of moral utterances.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF NATURALIST LEGAL THEORY H. McCoubrey

In a clear and comprehensive guide to a complex subject, H. McCoubrey examines the historical development of a legal theory based on the desire to create a legal system enshrining the principles of 'natural justice'. The discussion is brought up to date with an examination of modern naturalist thought and its practical importance.

Experience and its Modes

MICHAEL OAKSHOTT

This classic work, first published in 1933, is being brought out in paperback in recognition of its enduring status.

'... the whole book shows Mr Oakshott to possess philosophical gifts of a very high order, coupled with an admirable command of language; his writing is as clear as his thought is profound, and all students of philosophy should be grateful to him for his brilliant contribution to philosophical literature.'

Expression and Meaning

Studies in the Theory of Speech Acts

JOHN R. SEARLE

'The essays are written with typical Searlean vigour, clarity, and originality. The result is a volume that deserves more than a mealy-mouthed speech act issuance of the "You ought to read it" sort, which could be countered without inconsistency with "But don't bother if you are busy". Instead, I issue a straight directive: "Read it!"'

Hard Choices

Decision Making Under Unresolved Conflict

ISAAC LEVI

In this book Isaac Levi denies the prevailing accounts of rational decision making, arguing against the assumption that when faced with competing values the decision maker will reach a single ranking of his values, resolving the conflict between them. Levi suggests instead that agents often choose without having balanced the competing values and that rationality does not require that an act be optimal, only that it be 'admissible'.

Information for Authors

Prospective authors should send their contributions, typed and double-spaced on quarto or A4 paper, to the Editor, Mr Renford Bambrough, Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0AG. They should retain a second copy for the purpose of checking proofs. Articles submitted should conform to Hart's Rules for Compositors and Readers (Oxford University Press, 1967). The Editor may alter manuscripts wherever necessary to make them conform to the stylistic and bibliographical conventions of the journal. Single quotation marks should be used except where there is a quotation within another. The titles of books and journals should be underlined (i.e. to be printed in italics), as should foreign words. Titles of articles should be in single quotation marks.

Notes and references will be printed as footnotes and should be typed (double-spacing) on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively. They should be referred to in the text by superscripts. Citations should be as follows:

The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless they are accompanied by stamps, or in the case of contributions from abroad, by international coupons, to cover postage. A self-addressed envelope should also be enclosed.

Only corrections of printer's errors can be allowed in proofs. Authors are therefore asked to send any alterations or additions to Mr Bambrough as soon as possible after receiving his letter of acceptance.

Authors of articles, discussion papers and review articles will receive twenty-five offprints free of charge. Additional offprints can be ordered when proofs are returned by arrangement with the Institute.

Books for review should be sent to the Editor at the Institute and not to Cambridge University Press. Publishers are asked to note that non-philosophical works are not reviewed in Philosophy.

Authors' corrected proofs should be sent to Mr Bambrough at St John's College, Cambridge. All other correspondence should be addressed to the Institute and not to any address in Cambridge.
