Advertising Food in Europe

A Comparative Law Analysis

A practical manual on the various national legal requirements pertaining to food advertising in the European Economic Area

A large number of food law matters are differently handled by the various national jurisdictions within and outside of the European Union. This edited volume presents the various national approaches on how foodstuffs ought to be successfully marketed across the European Economic Area. Following a same framework, experienced food lawyers provide practical solutions and handy insight on the thorniest and crucial national aspects of food advertising within their country. The book is therefore conceived as a practical manual, each chapter covering one specific country.

Aude Mahy is a Belgian attorney at law with Loyens & Loeff, specialised in (international) Commercial Law and European and Belgian Food Law. Aude presides the Loyens & Loeff Food & Beverages Team. In this capacity, she advises and assists food business operators on various matters such as Nutrition & Health Claims, labelling issues, market practices & advertising, food safety, placement on the market, importation in the European Union, etc. She is the European Food and Feed Law Review's (EFFL) correspondent for Belgium, an active member of the European Food Law Association (EFLA) and of the Food Lawyers Network (FLN) and is a regular speaker at seminars and conferences on Food Law topics.

EJRR

EUROPEAN JOURNAL OF RISK
REGULATION

A JOURNAL AT THE INTERSECTION OF LAW, SCIENCE AND POLICY

Today the most important and widespread form of EU regulation in the internal market is concerned with the government of risk to individuals' health and safety. The European Journal of Risk Regulation (EJRR) provides an innovative forum for informed discussion on how these risks are regulated across policy domains in Europe and beyond. The central focus of the journal is the European Law and Policy regulating inter alia product (chemicals, food, pharma), financial, insurance and lifestyle risks (nutrition, alcohol, tobacco) as well as risks emerging from technology and third-party threats such as terrorism. The journal adopts a wide definition of regulation, including also innovative forms such as self-, co-regulation and nudges. Its methods extend to disciplines such as law, sociology, political science, risk analysis, economics as well as psychology and cognitive studies.

EJRR strikes a balance between the interests of the practitioners, notably those increasingly engaged in regulatory drafting and advice to the industry, and a more theoretical focus, combining normative articles with timely contributions on legislative and judicial developments, new literature and relevant events.
