Suitably Modern

Making Middle-Class Culture in a New Consumer Society

Mark Liechty

Suitably Modern traces the growth of a new middle class in Kathmandu as urban Nepalis harness the modern cultural resources of mass media and consumer goods to build modern identities and pioneer a new sociocultural space in one of the world's "least developed countries." Mark Liechty shows how an array of local cultural narratives—stories of honor, value, prestige, and piety—flow in and around global narratives of "progress," modernity, and consumer fulfillment.

Islamic Modern

Religious Courts and Cultural Politics in Malaysia

Michael G. Peletz

How do Islamic courts work? And how do states use them to consolidate power, build nations, and shape a modern citizenry? These are among the questions addressed in this book, which enhances our understanding of Muslim communities and provides ethnographic, historical, and transnational perspectives on contemporary Islam.

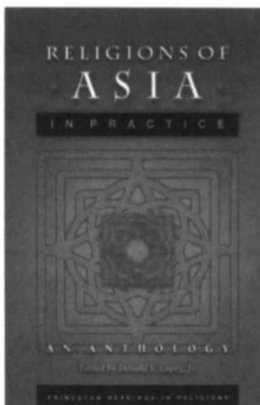

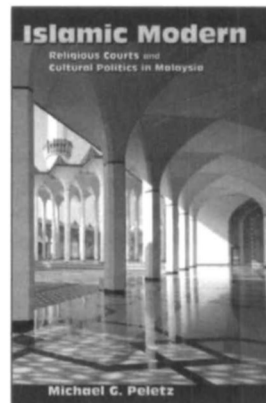

"This is an evocative, often brilliant book that shows how cosmopolitan politics engineered from Kuala Lumpur have produced a contradictory notion of Asian values that poses an opaque but imminent danger."

—Bruce Lawrence, Duke University

Religions of Asia in Practice

An Anthology

Edited by Donald S. Lopez, Jr.

The acclaimed volumes of Princeton Readings in Religions present the remarkable range of the practice of religions, across the centuries and across the world. This new book brings together into a single volume the most important and fascinating selections from the volumes on Buddhism, India, China, Tibet, and Japan to give an overview of how religions have been lived by both ordinary and extraordinary people throughout the continent of Asia. As such, it is ideally suited for use as a textbook in courses on world or Eastern religions.
