

CONTENTS

July, 1967

RURAL SOCIOLOGY: SOME INTER-AMERICAN ASPECTS Lowry Nelson	323
APLICACIONES CONCRETAS DE LAS RESOLUCIONES Y RECOMENDACIONES DE LAS CONFERENCIAS INTERAMERICANAS DE ABOGADOS Salvador M. Dana Montaña	339
THE CHILEAN-BOLIVIAN LAUCA RIVER DISPUTE AND THE O.A.S. Robert D. Tomasek	351
AS SOLUÇÕES BRASILEIRAS NA EXTIÇÃO DO TRÁFICO NEGREIRO Luís Henrique Dias Tavares	367
THE CENTRAL AMERICAN COMMON MARKET: ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL INTEGRATION John R. Hildebrand	383
Juan Criollo , AFTER FORTY YEARS J. Riis Owre	396
THE PUBLIC DIPLOMACY OF U.S. BUSINESS ABROAD: THE EXPERIENCE OF LATIN AMERICA Robert E. Kingsley	413
MANUEL JOSÉ GARCÍA: UN ECO DE BENJAMÍN CONSTANT EN EL PLATA José M. Mariluz Urquijo	429
SOME CONSIDERATIONS ON THE Rurales OF PORFIRIAN MEXICO John W. Kitchens	441
THE SHAPING OF FOLKLORE TRADITIONS IN THE BRITISH WEST INDIES Roger D. Abrahams	456
INTER-AMERICAN ACADEMY	481

The Journal of Inter-American Studies was founded in January 1959 by the Pan American Foundation to foster understanding, cooperation, and cultural exchange among scholars, teachers, writers and leaders of the Western Hemisphere. Five years later, in January 1964 the Journal became the official organ of the Inter-American Academy and since July of that year it has been jointly sponsored by the University of Miami and the Pan American Foundation.

Beginning with the present issue the University of Miami assumes complete responsibility for the Journal. The Pan American Foundation, having established the publication, entrusted its continuation to the University in the belief that this would best guarantee its future as a scholarly publication and at the same time would enable the Foundation and the Academy to concentrate resources and energies in the development of new activities that will further promote understanding and cooperation among the peoples of the Western Hemisphere.

The University appreciates the pioneer vision shown by the Foundation in establishing this useful publication and the confidence it has expressed in the University in entrusting the Journal's future to it. Our satisfaction in assuming this responsibility is based on our belief that the Journal will be an enduring and growing force in the intellectual life of the Americas.

HENRY KING STANFORD
President
University of Miami
Coral Gables, Florida