International Journal
on Group Rights

Editor-in-Chief: Yonah Alexander

This journal is devoted to legal, political and social problems stemming from the existence of groups within society. For the purposes of IJGR, groups are seen as clearly recognizable segments of society, defined by relatively constant factors such as religion, race, culture or language.
Recent developments throughout the world, but particularly in Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union, suggested the need for a periodical publication dealing with group related issues at the highest scientific level.

1993, Volume 1 (4 issues)
$160.00 ISSN 0927-5908

European Review of Private Law

THE ABOLITION OF THE DEATH PENALTY IN INTERNATIONAL LAW

Professor William A. Schabas

The first step towards the creation of an international human rights norm abolishing the death penalty was taken in 1948 with the recognition of the "right to life" in Article 3 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

The work explores the different limitations that international law has placed on the imposition of the death penalty and examines the procedural safeguards required by international law when capital punishment is being considered. The eventual emergence of a customary norm completely abolishing the death penalty is also discussed.

A significant work for all involved in international human rights law and the protection of the individual.

HUMAN RIGHTS AND EUROPE

3rd EDITION

Dr Ralph Beddard

An updated and significantly expanded edition of a work which has, for over twenty years, provided a detailed introduction to the mechanisms and case-law operating within the Council of Europe which seek to protect the rights of the individual.

The book considers in some detail the impact which the European Convention on Human Rights has had on the lives of those within the twenty-six Member States of the Council of Europe by selectively analysing those parts of its large and complex case law which give an insight into the development of European human rights.

THE IRAN-IRAQ WAR (1980-1988) AND THE LAW OF NAVAL WARFARE

Edited by Professor Andrea de Guttry and Professor Natalino Ronzitti

This is the first comprehensive collection of materials, many previously unpublished, on the wider naval aspects of the Iran-Iraq conflict and the dispatch of Western fleets to the Gulf.

A valuable central feature of the work is formed by eight detailed commentaries written by leading scholars from the countries whose State practice is considered. The commentaries describe the legal position adopted by Iran and Iraq, that of the Western States whose navies were present in the Gulf and the role played by the various international organizations.

MANUAL OF EUROPEAN ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

Professor Alexandre Kiss and Professor Dinah Shelton

This manual provides a detailed overview of the complex and distinct body of European environmental law.

Each chapter contains an introductory section in which the major elements of the relevant subjects are analyzed. For the teacher and student there are case studies, problems, questions and bibliographies, whilst practitioners, researchers and general readers will find useful the many basic texts of European environmental law that are reproduced in the manual, including treaties, Community documents and national legislation. The book thus uniquely and valuably combines in a single volume the fundamental materials of a treatise, a case book and a documentary compilation.

FOREIGN LAW: Current Sources of Codes and Basic Legislation in Jurisdictions of the World

Thomas H. Reynolds & Arturo A. Flores

3 vols. ISBN 0-8377-0134-1 AALL Publ. Series No. 33 loose-leaf set $450.00

This work, arranged alphabetically by jurisdiction, provides the user with relevant information on sources of foreign law including complete bibliographic citations to legislation, the existence of English translations whenever possible, indications of currentness of the legal materials listed, and selected references to secondary sources in English.

Each section has an introduction which describes the particular country's legal system and mentions the major English-language books on the laws of that country. A subject breakdown with citation to sources and translations enables the user to ascertain what laws are operative in a particular subject area.

Volume 1 covers the Western Hemisphere; volume 2 covers Western and Eastern Europe and the European Communities; volume 3, to be published in July 1993, covers Africa, Asia and Australasia.

"It is truly a monumental work...very strongly recommended and considered a 'must-buy' for virtually every law library." Daniel L. Wade, 10 Legal Reference Services Q. 104.

The Legislative History of the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act and the Travaux Préparatoires of the Hague Rules

Compiled and edited by Michael F. Sturley

With translations by Caroline Boyle

3 vols. January 1991 ISBN 0-8377-1166-5 cloth $225.00

The Carriage of Goods by Sea Act was enacted to achieve international uniformity in the law governing bills of lading, but lack of access to many of the background materials has caused judges and lawyers largely to ignore this wealth of information. This legislative history addresses a major need for evidence of this international uniform law's intended meaning by organizing all materials for easy reference.

Editorial notes before each document (or groups of documents) explain individual points of interest, and the historical introduction places all sources in their appropriate context. International sources are reprinted here, including translations when necessary.
