PRELUDE TO REVOLUTION

Mao, the Party, and the Peasant Question, 1962-1966

RICHARD BAUM

Providing new insights into a particularly confusing historical period, Richard Baum, in his new book, discusses the origins of the Great Proletarian Revolution in three interrelated areas: the conflicts between Mao Tse-Tung and his chief lieutenants, the Socialist Education Movement, and the state and rural party administrations. $10.00

CULTURES IN CONFLICT

The Four Faces of Indian Bureaucracy

STANLEY J. HEGINBOTHAM

Based on extensive interviews and sophisticated questionnaire surveys, Professor Heginbotham reveals the complex of cultural, historic, and ideological forces acting upon bureaucracies in India. This important new study reveals not only the structure of modern Indian bureaucracy but also the details of that life and style. $12.50

The Asian Bibliography Series

Under the General Editorship of
The Asian Literature Program of the Asia Society

The Asian Bibliography Series offers annotated bibliographies of the best in Asian literature that is available in English translation. Designed for librarians, students and teachers of Asian literature, these guides also benefit those in other disciplines—Asian heritage, anthropology, history, philosophy, the social sciences—who wish to use translated literature as a source for their studies.

Each guide provides summaries and evaluations of selected translated literature from earliest times to today, arranged by topic and by chronology, and preceded by a general introduction. An index of authors, editors, translators and titles is also included in each guide.

Guide to Japanese Poetry

J. Thomas Rimer and Robert E. Morrell. Contains annotated references to approximately 140 current publications on Japanese poetry from the primitive wake verse of a thousand years ago, through haiku to contemporary poetry. Excerpts of verse are interspersed among the citations to introduce major poets, to illustrate poetic forms and to offer comparisons of translations.

SERIES SEVENTY/G.K. HALL & CO.

70 Lincoln Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02111

China's Modern Economy in Historical Perspective

Edited by Dwight H. Perkins. Why did it take China more than a century after its defeat in the first Opium War to begin systematically acquiring the fruits of modern technology? To what extent did the rapid economic developments after 1949 depend, not on the socialist reorganization of society, but on features unique to China and to Chinese history? These are the major questions examined in this collection of papers which challenges many previously accepted generalizations about China's modern economy. Topics include the effects of foreign imperialism on Chinese economic development, science and technology in late traditional China, and the influence of the Yen'an period on the economic thinking of China's leaders. $13.85

Women in Chinese Society

Edited by Margery Wolf & Roxane Witke. This multidisciplinary collection represents the first scholarly attempt to provide a baseline for understanding the massive changes in Chinese women's lives in our time. The papers discuss such subjects as 17th-century attitudes toward women, an "anti-marriage" movement in rural Kwangtung, the variety in women's life courses, influential women writers of the 1920's and 1930's, the female revolutionary leader Ch'iu Chin, the early years of Mao's present wife, female suicide in Taiwan before 1945, and the effect on rural women of the advent of the People's Republic. Studies in Chinese Society. $12.50

FOCUS on Asian Studies

A NEWSLETTER TO PROMOTE INCREASED ATTENTION
TO ASIAN STUDIES IN ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION

Three 36-page issues: $2.00

THE "BEST" LEARNING RESOURCE ON ASIAN STUDIES

FOCUS ON ASIAN STUDIES began its twelfth year of publication with the Autumn 1974 (No. 32) issue. This 36-page newsletter, published three times a year, alerts elementary and secondary school teachers and librarians to information of current print and non-print materials, announcements and reports of conferences, successful teaching programs, and new and relevant books—all pertaining to Asia.

What our readers say:

"I have found your publication most helpful and most informative."—Linda S. Wojtan, Highland Park (Illinois) High School

"We have heard tremendous accounts of the help this (FOCUS) has been in Social Studies 9 classes."—Sr. Katherine Mary Moore, C.S. J., Cardinal McCloskey Memorial High School, Albany, New York

"FOCUS has provided me with many very useful sources and suggestions in setting up an Asian Studies program at the American School."—Larry N. Crouch, Social Studies Department Chairman, Singapore American School

"To keep informed of the increasing quantity of instructional materials, conferences, programs, and other news of China, many elementary teachers have found Focus on Asian Studies to be particularly valuable. Its scope, however, is all of Asia."—Scholastic Teacher

"FOCUS ON ASIAN STUDIES . . . remains the best periodical resource for teachers of Asian studies in the elementary and secondary schools."—NOTES from the National Committee on United States-China Relations

I am enclosing $2.00 (cash, check, money order) for an annual subscription of three issues to FOCUS ON ASIAN STUDIES. Make check payable to "The Ohio State University."

Liu Shao-ch'i and the Chinese Cultural Revolution

The Politics of Mass Criticism

Lowell Dittmer

Dittmer illuminates the policy-making process of a revolutionary state facing the diverging exigencies of economic modernization and political development. Liu Shao-ch'i emerges as the symbol of a systematic endeavor to combine order with revolution and equality with economic efficiency and technocratic values. In the end, he was overwhelmed by the sweep and depth of the revolutionary drive in China, as symbolized by Mao Tse-tung, and was destroyed politically. Yet his "road not taken" will endure as a meaningful point of reference in the political development of China.

A Social Basis for Prewar Japanese Militarism

The Army and the Rural Community

Richard J. Smethurst

Whether regarded as revisionist history or as a demonstration of the usefulness of an independent frame of mind, Mr. Smethurst's analysis of the prewar relationship between the Japanese people and their army is a stimulating contribution to the writing of Japanese social history.

DEFINING A LINGUISTIC AREA

South Asia

Colin P. Masica

This book is a seminal study of the concept of "linguistic area." By indicating the boundaries of the Indian linguistic area, the author demonstrates that these linguistic traits form an areal pattern and that the South Asian area can be defined in terms of their distribution.

THE ASIAN TRADE REVOLUTION OF THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY

The East India Companies and the Decline of the Caravan Trade

Niels Steensgaard

Niels Steensgaard combines an analytical economic approach with detailed historical scholarship to provide an imaginative and important analysis of a central incident of modern world history—the breaking of the Portuguese monopoly on Asian trade in the seventeenth century by English and Dutch mercantile interests.

1975 442 pages Cloth $15.00

KINSHIP IN BALI

Hildred Geertz and Clifford Geertz

This work constitutes the first book-length examination of Balinese kinship in English and an important theoretical analysis of the central ethnographic concept of "kinship system." During their fieldwork, the authors focused on a peculiarly Balinese institution—the dadia. A dadia is a highly corporate group of people who are convinced, for whatever reason, that they are all descendants of one common ancestor.

SYMBOLIC DOMINATION

Cultural Form and Historical Change in Morocco

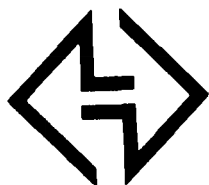

Paul Rabinow

This innovative work traces the historical evolution of the chief cultural symbols of Moroccan village culture. Professor Rabinow's observations explore the shifting conceptions of religion and politics held by the descendants of Sidi Lahcen, a seventeenth-century Islamic saint, at different points in Moroccan history.

INTELLIGENCE CAME FIRST

A Study of Man and His Mind

Which evolved first—man's intelligence or the physical brain? A group of British scientists, led by Dr. Smith, tackled the question and this new book is their answer. A challenging, even startling book that may help explain some of man's behavior. App. 200pp. Cloth $8.50. Softbound $2.95.

A biography of H. P. Blavatsky

WHEN DAYLIGHT COMES by Howard Murphet

This is the first full biography of Russian-born Helena Petrovna Blavatsky (1831-1891), published to commemorate the 100th year of the world-wide Theosophical Society, of which she was the principal founder in New York City in 1875. Mme Blavatsky, a formidable scholar and intellectual, was the modern-day pioneer in the field of occult science. While her major works—Isis Unveiled and The Secret Doctrine—have been continuously in print, When Daylight Comes is the first study of her life, travels, adventures, controversies, and accomplishments. App. 300pp. Cloth $8.95. Softbound $3.50.

INTRODUCING THE CHINA INFORMATION LIBRARY

In 8000 pages every two months – current information on China from world-wide sources: government documents, translation services, business publications and newspapers, research studies and educational and scientific newsletters, as well as cultural and academic journals.

- Saves valuable research time (and money) for librarians, professors and students through the comprehensive collection of data and its organization into these six major subject sections:

Agriculture – Environment
Commerce – Industry – Finance
Government – Politics
International Relations
Society – Culture
Resources For China Studies

- All the documents are in one place and are easily accessible – index is printed, and articles are reproduced in their entirety on microfiche.
- Complete documents are always available – not out on loan, missing pages, or lost.
- Conserves expensive library storage space and staff time usually necessary for maintenance and service.
- Becomes increasingly valuable to scholars as it accumulates – annual cumulative index makes it possible to more easily document long term trends: China's relations with other nations, her progress in women's equality, or her methods of food production and distribution.

"No course on earlier Southeast Asian history should be taught anywhere for foreseeable time without frequent reference to Coedès' book (O.W. Wolters, Cornell University).

"Not surprisingly, the students upon whom this reviewer has tested this volume as a textbook appreciated its authority and admired its rigor and his standards" (David K. Wyatt of Cornell University in Journal of Southeast Asian Studies).

In his editor's note, Walter Vella states that this classic "remains the basic text for those who seek to understand Southeast Asia—not only its ancient past, but also its immediate present—for the Southeast Asia of today cannot be understood without a knowledge of the traditional values and institutions, which remain vital, and which present leaders seem increasingly to esteem as a guide to the future."
