

Nearly fifteen years after the fall of the Soviet Union, Cold War-era policies and concepts continue to affect U.S. relations with Russia. Despite many historic changes in Russia, there are still too few American experts with professional experience in the New Russia.

ALFA FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

Promoting Understanding of the New Russia

CDS International and Alfa Bank are proud to launch a professional-level exchange program designed to foster a new generation of American decision-makers with meaningful, direct experience and expertise in Russia.

The Alfa Fellowship Program will begin with a three-week seminar program in Moscow with key Russian government, media, social, cultural, and private sector officials to discuss current issues facing Russia. Fellows will then complete professional assignments with private companies, media outlets, think-tanks, NGOs, or in various levels of Russian federal, regional, and local government. Eligible candidates must have at least beginning Russian language, a graduate degree, and professional experience in the fields of business, economics, journalism, law, government, or public policy. Monthly stipends, related travel costs, and housing provisions are included. For more information, application deadlines, and application forms please visit the Alfa Fellowship Program website or contact CDS International.

Applications must be received by CDS International no later than January 14, 2005. Application forms and instructions are available for download at:

The Journal of North African Studies

New to Taylor & Francis in 2004

Volume 9, 2004, 4 issues per year

Editors:

John P. Entelis, Fordham University, USA

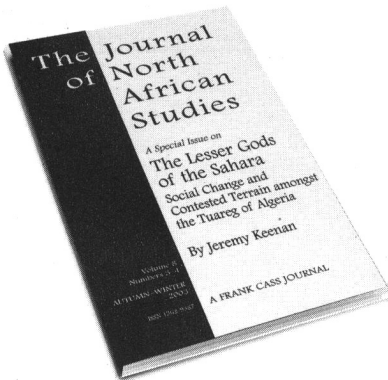

George Joffé, Cambridge University, UK

Aims and Scope:

The Journal of North African Studies aims to provide a forum for scholars of and from the region. Its contents range from historical topics to sociological, anthropological, economic, diplomatic and other issues. It is the first journal to analyse the history and current affairs of what has become an important and coherent region of the Mediterranean basin which is also linked to the Middle East and to Africa.

THE HARVARD ACADEMY FOR INTERNATIONAL AND AREA STUDIES

is now accepting applications for

The Academy Scholars Program

The Academy Scholars Program supports outstanding scholars who are at the start of their academic careers and whose work combines disciplinary excellence in the social sciences and history with an in-depth grounding in a non-Western country or region. Doctoral candidates (Ph.D. or comparable degree) and recent recipients of these degrees are eligible to apply. Academy Scholars receive two-year appointments, including an annual stipend and research resources from the Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies. While in residence, Academy Scholars conduct either dissertation or post-doctoral research in their chosen fields and areas.

APPLICATIONS FOR THE 2005-2006 ACADEMIC YEAR
ARE DUE BY OCTOBER 15, 2004

Combating Proliferation

Strategic Intelligence and Security Policy
Jason D. Ellis and Geoffrey D. Kiefer

The intelligence community's flawed assessment of Iraq's weapons systems—and the Bush administration's decision to go to war in part based on those assessments—illustrates the political and policy challenges of combating the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. In this comprehensive assessment, defense policy specialists Jason Ellis and Geoffrey Kiefer find disturbing trends in both the collection and analysis of intelligence and in its use in the development and implementation of security policy.

The First Casualty

The War Correspondent as Hero and Myth-Maker
from the Crimea to Iraq
third edition

Phillip Knightley

"In war, truth may be the first casualty, but in Phillip Knightley's compelling examination of the war correspondent as journalist-mouthpiece-propagandist, the truth survives unscathed."—Morley Safer

"The most comprehensive j'accuse of journalism as propaganda in the English language."

—John Pilger, author of The New Rulers of the World

"Few books have deserved an updated edition more than Phillip Knightley's history of war reporting since the 1850s . . . Invaluable for anyone with an interest in the media, it is equally recommended as a modern history of government lies."

Important

Politics in Time

History, Institutions, and Social Analysis

Paul Pierson

This groundbreaking book represents the most systematic examination to date of the often-invoked but rarely examined declaration that “history matters.” Paul Pierson argues that placing politics in time can vastly enrich our understanding of complex social dynamics, and greatly improve the theories and methods that we use to explain them.

“Every once in a long while a book comes along that shifts the debate entirely by altering the vantage point from which we approach the study of politics. This is such a book.”—Kathleen Thelen, Northwestern University

The Collapse of the Kyoto Protocol and the Struggle to Slow Global Warming

David G. Victor

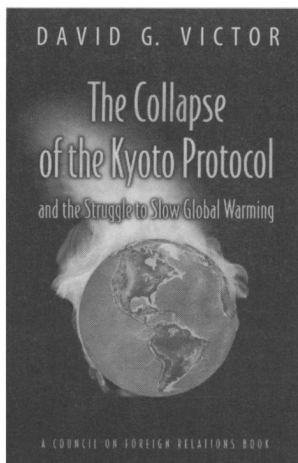

In this clear and cogent book—reissued in paperback with an afterword that comments on recent events—David Victor explains why the Kyoto Protocol was never likely to become an effective legal instrument. He explores how its collapse offers opportunities to establish a more realistic alternative.

“Victor’s analysis makes it clear that in order to design a policy framework that will allow active control of the rate of future climate change, the US will have to engage with the emerging new institutions of global environmental governance.”

“[AN] ODYSSEY INTO THE HEARTS AND MINDS OF RELIGIOUS TERRORISTS.”*

“Serious and provocative.”

—*New York Times Book Review

“An incredibly intriguing window into the minds of those who use God to justify violence against others.”

—Boston Globe

“Jessica Stern...has gone to the root source and interviewed terrorists from many countries and faiths as to why their religion leads them to do what they do. The result is a penetrating, illuminating, and profoundly important account of their many motives, ‘from grievance to greed,’ and how organizations appealing to these motives become successful.”
