

NarcoDiplomacy

Exporting the U.S. War on Drugs

H. RICHARD FRIMAN

If illicit drug trafficking is a global problem, why won't other nations comply with the drug control agenda of the United States? NarcoDiplomacy departs from traditional responses to this question, which have held that compliance with the American agenda has been beyond the capacity of key countries. By focusing on Germany and Japan, touted as two of the strongest allies of the United States in drug control efforts, Friman exposes the flaws in capacity arguments and the policies based on them.

"A significant contribution to what we know about the history of international drug control and U.S. drug policy. NarcoDiplomacy is also analytically superior to existing scholarship on drugs."

Liberalizing Finance in Interventionist States

MICHAEL LORIAUX,
MEREDITH
WOO-CUMINGS,
KENT CALDER,
SYLVIA MAXFIELD,
AND SOFÍA PÉREZ

The authors assess the internal and global changes that prompted Japan, South Korea, Mexico, France, and Spain to adopt financial liberalization.

"A first-rate book. It represents the cutting edge of research in political economy and groups together in a single volume some of the most original research to date on the politics of financial liberalization."

Reputation and International Politics

JONATHAN MERCER

"By applying the insights of social psychology to the problem of how reputations form and are maintained, Mercer makes a clear and persuasive argument that every actor has multiple reputations, that a reputation for resolve is more easily maintained among adversaries than among allies, and that the protection of reputation is never a sufficient reason to go to war. . . . This excellent book is well written, detailed, and thought-provoking."

Freer Markets, More Rules

Regulatory Reform in Advanced Industrial Countries

STEVEN K. VOGEL

"Vogel writes with extraordinary clarity about a very complex subject. His discussion of deregulation not only gives the reader a clear understanding of the distinct issues of market liberalization and regulatory reform as they have been pursued in Japan, it also offers a nuanced analysis of the relationship between state and market in contemporary Japan. Vogel brings a comparative perspective to this analysis that makes his book especially important for anyone interested in developing a better understanding of Japan's political economy."

National Interests in International Society

MARTHA FINNEMORE

"This book offers a powerful challenge to liberal and realist approaches to international relations. Many writers have asserted that social structures exert a powerful impact on national preferences (and international outcomes), but Finnemore is the first to present sophisticated evidence for this claim. Readers of all intellectual persuasions will enjoy grappling with her clear-eyed, trenchant, and beautifully written argument, and should expect to come away rethinking their positions."

Third World Quarterly
 JOURNAL OF EMERGING AREAS

AVAILABLE ONLINE IN 1996

EDITOR

Shahid Qadir,

Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

Supported by an International Editorial Board

Third World Quarterly is the leading journal of scholarship and policy in the field of international studies. For almost two decades, it has set the agenda on Third World affairs. As the most influential academic journal covering the emerging world, Third World Quarterly is at the forefront of analysis and commentary on fundamental issues of global concern.

Third World Quarterly provides expert and interdisciplinary insight into crucial issues before they impinge upon media attention, as well as coverage of the latest publications in its comprehensive book review section.

Third World Quarterly's original articles provide diverse perspectives on the developmental process and a candid discussion on democratic transitions as well as identifying significant political, economic and social issues. Readable, free from esoteric jargon, informed without being abstruse, always authoritative and often provocative, Third World Quarterly covers the key North-South developments in the post-wall world.

SPECIAL ISSUES

Third World Quarterly annually commissions special issues on key concepts and processes. The 1996 Special Issue will be entitled The Developmental State: prosperity and reform in The Third World in the nineties.

POLITICAL SCIENCE QUARTERLY

THE JOURNAL OF PUBLIC AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

"Most serious journals are narrow; most journals which are broad in scope are not serious. PSQ is the exception: a journal which is both broad in scope and serious in content. It is must reading for social scientists and informed citizens interested in public affairs."
- Samuel Huntington, Harvard University

"The articles and book reviews in PSQ are intelligent, timely, and well written. They range over many vital topics. I find much to engage my interest in every issue."
- Theda Skocpol, Harvard University

"I am delighted to have been a member of the Academy of Political Science since 1967...I have always found Political Science Quarterly to be an extremely valuable tool for research and analysis."
- Bill Green, member of Congress, 1978-1993

"The Political Science Quarterly is simply the best general journal in the field."
- Richard K. Betts, Columbia University

"Everyone interested in expert commentary on and acute analysis of governance at home and abroad will find sustenance and illumination in the pages of that distinguished and eminently readable journal, the Political Science Quarterly."
- Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Historian

DIPLOMATIC HISTORY

Edited by MICHAEL HOGAN
The Ohio State University

Diplomatic History, the journal of record of the Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations, is the only journal devoted to US international history and foreign relations, broadly defined, including grand strategy, diplomacy, and issues involving gender, culture, ethnicity, and ideology. It examines US relations in a global and comparative context, and its broad focus appeals to a number of disciplines including political science, international economics, American history, national security studies, Latin American, Asian, African, and European studies.
