The Primitivist Dimension
in Puritanism

by Theodore Dwight Bozeman

"Bozeman offers a major corrective to current views of American Puritanism. . . . Reading texts hitherto neglected or misinterpreted, he illuminates the Puritans' obsessive wish to reaffirm their connection to the primitive churches and thus to participate symbolically in the first days of their faith. All scholars of early American history and culture must wrestle with his arguments."—Philip F. Gura

HOLY WOMEN OF TWELFTH-CENTURY ENGLAND

by Sharon K. Elkins

Sharon Elkins provides the first systematic study of the most creative and expansive phase of women's religious life in England. "Elkins's attention to regional patterns, to the richness and complexity of relationships between men and women, and to the significance of details such as terminology and the nature of the documents, makes this a model of research in the field."

THE ALBERT C. OUTLER PRIZE IN ECUMENICAL CHURCH HISTORY

The Outler Prize was established to encourage the critical study of ecumenical church history, broadly conceived, and to facilitate the publication of such studies. "Ecumenical" is to be construed as chiefly concerned with the problems of Christian unity-and-disunity (doctrinal, cultural, institutional) in any period of church history; or with interactions between Christianity and other religious movements. Works of a partisan nature are excluded. The following categories are eligible:

- a. Studies, chiefly narrative and critical, of ecumenical church history dealing with historical controversies and divisions, or with notable instances of reconciliation and consensus.
- b. Analyses of church councils, dialogues, and debates, or interactions between Christianity and other religious traditions.
- c. Biographical studies of significant leaders, or of persons whose involvement in ecumenical dialogue and action was noteworthy.
- d. Critical editions (preferably annotated) of significant ecumenical documents.
- e. Bibliographical reviews and evaluations in major areas of ecumenical church history.
- f. Pioneering studies that advance scholarly knowledge and ecumenical understanding.

The prize consists of an award of $1000 to the author and a grant of up to $3000 in subvention of publication (or in exceptional cases, for necessary expenses in the preparation of a book-length manuscript accepted for publication). The prize will be awarded annually, though no award will be made in any year when none of the manuscripts is adjudged to be outstanding. Complete manuscripts in final form must be received by William B. Miller, Secretary, American Society of Church History, 305 East Country Club Lane, Wallingford, PA 19086, by 1 June. The prize will be announced at the annual meeting of the Society in December.
