

List of Contributors

Yasmeen Abu-Laban is Professor in the Department of Political Science at the University of Alberta (Canada). She has published over 40 articles and chapters and is the co-author of Selling Diversity: Immigration, Multiculturalism, Employment Equity and Globalization (2002), co-editor of Politics in North America: Redefining Continental Relations (2008) and editor of Gendering the Nation-State: Canadian and Comparative Perspectives (2008).

Nancy Burns is Warren E. Miller Professor of Political Science at the University of Michigan. Her work focuses on gender, race, public opinion, and political action. Her work on gender includes The Private Roots of Public Action (2001, Harvard). Burns served as Principal Investigator of the American National Election Studies from 1999 to 2005. She currently serves as Director of the Center for Political Studies at the University of Michigan. Burns is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Tony E. Carey, Jr. is a Ph.D. candidate at Stony Brook University. His research interests concentrate on political behavior as it relates to political and social identity, racial and ethnic politics, and gender politics, with particular emphasis on the intersection between race and gender.

Susan J. Carroll is Professor of Political Science and Women's and Gender Studies at Rutgers University and Senior Scholar at the Center for American Women and Politics (CAWP) of the Eagleton Institute of Politics. Her books include Women as Candidates in American Politics (Indiana University Press, Second Edition, 1994), The Impact of Women in Public Office (Indiana University Press, 2001), Women and American Politics: New Questions, New Directions (Oxford University Press, 2003), and Gender and Elections: Shaping the Future of American Politics (Cambridge University Press, 2006).

Ana Catalano is an independent scholar. Her research focuses on women's political representation and the empirical analysis of gender stereotypes, gender quotas, and legislative behavior and participation. She recently completed her Masters in Comparative Politics of Europe at the London School of Economics. Currently, she is working as a Policy and Research Manager in London.

Shirin S. Deylami is assistant professor of political theory at Western Washington University. Her current scholarship focuses on the critique of westoxification in Perso-Islamic political thought with an emphasis on the relationships between gender, sexuality, and the politics of Islamic nationalism. She is also currently working on a project that looks at the politics of resentment in western conceptions of Islamic fundamentalism.

Ange-Marie Hancock is Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Southern California. Prior to graduate school, Dr. Hancock conducted the original research and wrote the business proposal for the WNBA. Her first book, The Politics of Disgust: The Public Identity of the "Welfare Queen" (New York University Press, 2004) has received two national awards. Her next book, Beyond the Oppression Olympics: The Complexity of Race, Gender, Class, and Sexual Orientation in the 21st Century, will be published in 2009.

Leonie Huddy is a Professor of Political Science and Director of the Center for Survey Research at Stony Brook University. She has written extensively on the political psychology of intergroup relations, with a special emphasis on gender, race, and ethnic relations. She is a co-author of the Oxford Handbook of Political Psychology and current co-editor of the journal Political Psychology.

Jane Junn teaches political science at Rutgers University where she holds a joint appointment at the Eagleton Institute of Politics. Her primary interests are political participation and elections in the U.S., political behavior and attitudes among American minorities and immigrants, gender and politics, theories of democracy, survey research, and social science methodology.

Jennifer L. Lawless is Assistant Professor of Political Science and Public Policy at Brown University. She is the author (with Richard Fox) of It Takes A Candidate: Why Women Don't Run for Office (Cambridge University Press, 2005), and several academic articles on gender, elections, and representation.

Elisabeth Prügl is Associate Professor in the Department of International Relations at Florida International University. Her current research focuses on the transformation of patriarchy in European agricultural policy. Among her many publications are The Global Construction of Gender: Home-based Work in the Political Economy of the 20th Century (Columbia University Press 1999), and 'Feminism and Constructivism: Worlds Apart or Sharing the Middle Ground?' with Birgit Locher in International Studies Quarterly (March 2001).

Julie Shayne is a lecturer in Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences and the Center for University Studies and Programs at the University of Washington, Bothell. She is also an affiliate assistant professor in Women Studies at the University of Washington, Seattle. She has written and taught extensively about women, revolution, and feminism in Latin America and is the author of The Revolution Question: Feminisms in El Salvador, Chile, and Cuba (Rutgers, 2004).

Mari Teigen gained her PhD in sociology at the Institute for Social Research, Oslo in 2002. She is now research director/senior researcher at the Institute for Social Research in Oslo. Mari Teigen has published several articles and books in English and Norwegian on gender equality and quota policies, Scandinavian state-feminism. Recent field of interest: Gender studies; gender equality policies; quota policies in corporate boards, multidimensional equality law and policy discourses in the intersection of gender equality, ethnic minorities and family policies.

Lena Wängnerud is Associate Professor at the Department of Political Science, Gothenburg University, Sweden. Her field of specialization is political representation. She is currently working on a project focusing on effects of the increased number of women elected to the parliaments in Denmark and Sweden. She is part of the Swedish Election Study Program and the Quality of Government (QofG) Institute at Gothenburg University. Within the QofG-Institute she is doing research on gender and corruption.

Politics & Gender

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONTRIBUTORS

Politics & Gender accepts manuscript submissions through the Editorial Manager system at <http://www.editorialmanager.com/pag>

For questions concerning "Instructions to Contributors," please contact the Editors, Kathleen Dolan and Aili Mari Tripp at politicsandgender@cambridge.org. Additional information can be found at the journal's website at <http://www.journals.cambridge.org/action/displayJournal?jid=PAG>

BOOK REVIEWS

Suggestions of books to be reviewed should be emailed to the Book Review Editor:

Sue Thomas
Pacific Institute for Research and Evaluation
suethomas@mindspring.com

MANUSCRIPT PREPARATION

- Manuscripts must be no longer than 30 pages including text, tables and figures, references and appendices. The entire manuscript (including notes and references) must be double-spaced, with one-inch margins and 12-point font, and printed on one side of the page only.
- The author must include a separate title page, with his or her full contact information (including email address, telephone number and institutional affiliation), and a brief biographical statement. All identifying information must be removed from the manuscript.
- A second page must include an abstract of no more than 200 words.
- Placement of tables or figures should be cited in the text. The publisher will be responsible for placing artwork, tables or figures, as well as converting endnotes to footnotes.
- Appendices, tables, and figures should be numbered consecutively throughout the article and be included on separate pages appearing after the reference section. Figures should be ready for photographic reproduction; they cannot be redrawn by the publisher. Charts, graphs, or other artwork should be professional rendered or computer generated. Photographs should be clearly printed and should remain legible after a 50% reduction.

- References and notes should conform to the APSA Style Manual. Authors should include full volume, issue, and page numbers for references. Author's acknowledgments or other personal notes will appear as an unnumbered note at the foot of the page. Notes should be numbered consecutively throughout the article. Numbered notes should appear at the end of the sentence. If multiple texts are cited in a sentence they should appear as one consolidated note at the end of the sentence.
- Endnotes should be employed (rather than footnotes).
- All figure captions should be typed on a separate page (or pages), rather than on the figures themselves (which are camera-ready art) so that they can be copyedited.

Originality and copyright: Papers with multiple authors are reviewed with the assumption that all authors concur with its submission. A Copyright Transfer Agreement, with certain specified rights reserved by the author, must be signed and returned to the Editor by senior authors of accepted manuscripts, prior to publication. Politics & Gender does not accept manuscripts for review that are under review elsewhere, previously published or already committed for publication.

For general guidelines for preparing a manuscript for submission, please refer to the APSA Style Manual for Political Science (rev. ed. 2001) for citation, footnotes, references, and other style issues. Please note, in particular, the statement on gender-specific language (15).

Politics & Gender

Volume 5 | Number 1 | March 2009

KEYNOTE

- Reflections on Gender and Hillary Clinton's Presidential Campaign:
The Good, the Bad, and the Misogynic
Susan J. Carroll 1

ARTICLES

- Tracing Gender Equality Cultures: Elite Perceptions of Gender Equality
in Norway and Sweden
Mari Teigen and Lena Wängnerud 21

- Women Acting for Women? An Analysis of Gender and Debate
Participation in the British House of Commons 2005–2007
Ana Catalano 45

CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES ON GENDER POLITICS: Race and Gender in the 2008 Democratic Presidential Nominations Process

- Comparison and Intersection
Nancy Burns 69

- Sexism and Gender Bias in Election 2008: A More Complex Path for Women in Politics
Jennifer Lawless 70

- Group Politics Redux: Race and Gender in the 2008 Democratic Presidential Primaries
Leonie Huddy and Tony E. Carey, Jr. 81

- An Untraditional Intersectional Analysis of the 2008 Election
Ange-Marie Hancock 96

- Making Room for Women of Color: Race and Gender Categories in the 2008 U.S. Presidential Election
Jane Junn 105

BOOK REVIEWS 111

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS 123

Cambridge Journals Online

For further information about this journal please go to the journal website at:
journals.cambridge.org/pag

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS